Wait Till the Trials Are Over!

COUNTY JUDGE FEHL is working night and day to return Jackson county to that condition of internal strife and turmoil, which resulted in the theft of the ballot boxes and the cold-blooded murder of Constable George Prescott.

By the continued circulation of falsehoods and the dissemination of contemptible and incendiary insinuations, while his followers attempt to revive the defunct good government congress, the county judge apparently hopes to arouse so much feeling, that another local crisis threatening violence and bloodshed, will be precipitated.

IN THIS effort he is doomed to disappointment. The people of Jackson county have had all the revolutions and uprisings they want—they are in no mood to be patient with those who are trying to afflict this community with a SECOND "reign of terror." County Judge Fehl has apparently learned nothing from the recent unfortunate experiences in Jackson county—but the citizens of Jackson county HAVE—and they are not to be caught napping a SECOND time.

WITH the pear crop finally financed, and with local business conditions starting to improve, they want a truce to internal politics, and all that it implies. With the trial of L. A. Banks soon to start in another county, and with the ballot cases coming up for trial immediately after, they are quite content to let the political issues involved be settled in the proper way—by the courts,—and no where else.

Meanwhile they welcome this breathing spell, to forget local dissension and strife, to concentrate upon a program of constructive and beneficial development, for the material benefit of this community and every other community in southern Oregon.

Medford and Jackson county have had enough unfavorable advertising for quite some time,—all local business has been paralyzed and disrupted long enough,—by an irresponsible crowd of self-interested agitators and trouble makers.

With the stealing of the ballots and the slaying of George Prescott this deplorable phase of Jackson county history ENDED, and if County Judge Fehl can't see it, then the people of southern Oregon will have to let subsequent events, pull the scales from his eyes.

The war is over. The play is played out. Let the county judge rave and rant as he will, the people of this community are no longer interested in what he says or does.

They are interested in the Banks trial. They ARE interested in the ballot theft trials. To these trials they will be looking for the facts and figures, concerning the recent "unpleasantness," and from these trials they are going to draw their OWN conclusions, as to what has actually happened in Medford and Jackson county, the past year and more, and what HASN'T,—who are and who are not responsible for the same.

MEANWHILE there is work to do, and the people intend to do it. After the trials are OVER,—all the facts are known, and the mess cleared up—will be time enough to consider purely political issues once more, and Judge Fehl's status concerning them.

Until that time, Judge Fehl's desire to engage in a continual political controversy, will not be gratified, as far as this paper is concerned.

RUN DOWN FROM WANT OF REPAIR.

All neurologists (nerve specialists),—as actually happens to many constipated in marathon races. We sometimes forget, we wisecrackers, that not only the skeletal muscles, but the heart, the lungs and all the vital organs (the brain is not a vital organ) do more work and use more energy when one is in the erect or sitting posture than when one lies down, and further that more energy is used when one lies down and remains awake than during sleep. Normally the heart beats 10 or 12 times less in the minute when person lies down than when he sits or stands. During sleep the pulse rate is still slower, and thus the heart gets rest along with the other vital organs. The little lesson in all this is quite simple: The exhaustion or run down condition due to insufficient sleep is identical with the breakdown that occurs from overwork, too strenuous play, or any prolonged endurance test. In neither case is it a "nervous" breakdown.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. It is Just a Bad Habit. For 30 years or more I have been taking all kinds of physic... Answer—If there is enough gray matter and any trace of character left, it isn't too late to snap out of it. All you have to do is quit, and when I say quit I mean quit. If you can't understand words of one syllable, I can tell you in more imposing words. Send a dime and a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for No. 26, "Little Lessons in the Ways of Health," "The Constipation Habit."

Life for Dead Fingers. After suffering for more than 10 years with "dead fingers" whenever I was exposed to cold, I discovered that if I held my hand in the sun the fingers became normal in a very few minutes. Since this I have kept my fingers in the sun whenever opportunity offered, and it is over three years now since I have had "dead fingers."—Mrs. W. J. P. Answer—Thank you. Immediate warmth in one form or another is the best relief for such annoyance. The suggestion, offered once or twice here, that chronic arsenic poisoning may be the cause of Raynaud's affection in some cases has brought no response other than idle curiosity from our readers.

Woman at Her Best. When a woman has reached her late thirties is child bearing for the first time more dangerous than a younger woman?—M. E. Answer—True, many women at that age are dangerous, but actual experience and statistics indicate that a woman is best fitted for maternity at 35 to 38.

Find Bodies Air Victims. WINSLOW, Ariz., April 24.—(AP)—Ending a search which had been in progress since last Monday, the bodies of Carmel Girard, Arizona's "flying" publisher, and Jack Irish, his pilot, were found in the wreckage of their airplane yesterday. The men had left here on a business trip to Phoenix when they crashed.

SOLONS' MILEAGE IS SEALED BOOK TO CONSTITUENTS

body gets any information on that subject in the future.

The information would be doubly valuable this year because the two sessions of congress ran together. Many congressmen obviously collected mileage to and from home at 20 cents a mile without moving out of their chairs here.

Their names could be made public by a simple resolution of the senate but you can hardly expect this since it appears a majority took the money.

If there is any defense for this it is that some senators make as many as five trips home during the course of a year. They are paid only for one round trip each session. But the rate of 20 cents is nearly seven times what the train fare would be so even this alibi has its weak points.

You might disclose the culprit by asking every senator if he took the money. The trouble with that method is that even those who declined the mileage will not talk. They fear it would put their brother senators in a bad light. In returning their checks some of the senators urged that their good deed be not disclosed.

The only fair deduction from this set of facts is that if you suspect more than 75 per cent of them you will be about right.

The banks of a certain large city in the central states figured out a way to beat public opinion on loans. They are working it with the obvious connivance of R. F. C. officials who never favored publicity anyway.

The loans are made by the R. F. C. to a small mortgage company in the city where the banks are. Collateral is furnished by the banks to the mortgage company. Then the mortgage company distributes the money to the banks.

Only the name of the mortgage company appears on the records sent to congress for publication. Names of the banks actually receiving the money are known only to the mortgage company—and undoubtedly to the R. F. C.

Our officials have no confidential information about the trial of the British citizens by the Soviets. They are unable to form any clear opinion as to who framed, whom or why.

The Russians, of course, whisper that the British did the framing to prejudice the United States against recognition of Russia. Their theory is that Britain wanted to protect her Russian trade.

The effect will be to prevent Mr. Roosevelt carrying out his recognition ideas now. Powerful old anti-Russian influences have been stirred up—the D. A. R., American Legion, A. P. of L. and Catholic organizations.

The president would hardly care to affront them, at least until American public opinion becomes a little more settled.

EYE OF VASCO TOT WILL BE CUT OUT

YONKERS, N. Y., April 25.—(AP)—Little Helen Vasco will exchange one of her blue eyes for her life. A delicate operation, ordered by the appellate division of the supreme court after a bitter fight by the two-year-old girl's mother, is expected to be performed today or tomorrow.

Family opposition to the operation gave way at a conference last night in the chambers of Judge George M. Smyth of the children's court, who originally ordered the operation to remove a tumor behind the eye.

Physicians had declared that unless cut away, it would reach the brain swiftly and kill the child.

Mrs. Vasco, wife of an immigrant laborer, was half-hysterical and consented to the operation only on condition that she could select the hospital and the operating surgeon.

FRANCO-RUSSIAN RELATION AIDED

PARIS, April 25.—(AP)—Close relations between France and Japan are placed in jeopardy today by Far Eastern developments which at the same time tend to strengthen Franco-Russian friendship.

Official quarters have called attention to this evolution in the foreign policy of the French government by expressing uneasiness over the Manchurian railway crisis. France joins Russia in regarding with anxiety charges that Japan is fomenting a plot to have Manchukuo seize the disputed railway.

Russals built the Chinese Eastern railway, the line in dispute, and in recent years jointly operated it with Japan and Manchukuo.

HEAVY FRUIT YIELD SEEN; STRAWBERRY CROP WILL BE LIGHT

PORTLAND, April 25.—(AP)—A bountiful yield of fruit from Oregon orchards this season is suggested by preliminary surveys of the growing regions of the state.

Peaches, it appears, will be exceptionally plentiful, and the yield of apricots promises to be liberal although there was some damage reported from The Dalles territory.

Ideas now are that the cherry crop will break all records if present conditions continue.

Although conditions are so unstable as to make estimates hazardous, the strawberry crop has the outlook of being scant, with some estimates of a 50 per cent decrease from last year. The raspberry crop, although hard hit in some sections, will be of greater volume than the strawberries.

Apple blossoming is well started and weather conditions have favored the setting of the fruit, although the dangerous period is just now at hand.

The prune outlook is regarded as favorable although scattered losses will result from winter killing. Thus far the damage is said to be considerable less than normal.

ARMY PILOT AND GIRL DIE IN FALL

SANTA ROSA, Cal., April 25.—(AP)—The crash of an army airplane in which the pilot, Lieutenant Stephen A. Beck, 27, and a woman passenger, Miss Marjorie Hughes, 24, were killed was investigated by army and civil authorities here today. The plane, brought from Oriskany Field, San Francisco, by Lieutenant Beck, struck a high tension power line shortly after a takeoff from the Santa Rosa airport yesterday, and plunged to the ground. Witnesses said the pilot was apparently attempting to land because of motor trouble. Lieutenant Beck and Miss Hughes were members of a picnic party that had visited a ranch near here. Friends said they had started out on a sight-seeing flight over the surrounding country.

MACON IS BETTER THAN LOST AKRON

AKRON, O., April 25.—(AP)—U. S. S. Macon, the navy's new giant dirigible, is a better handling, quicker ship than the Akron believes Lieut. Commander Herbert V. Wiley, second in command when the latter crashed to sea 20 days ago. "I think she handles better than the Akron," Wiley said as he prepared to leave today for Washington. "She seems to respond quicker to the controls and to be a bit faster. She is a very fine ship and we had a very fine flight." The commander, who already has given a naval board of inquiry his version of the Akron crash in which 29 men were lost, was aboard the Macon on her second flight. He studied her carefully as she cruised nearly 18 hours.

Julian is staying at a British hotel in Shanghai's international settlement. It is understood Anglo-American extradition treaties do not extend to China and that thus far American efforts toward the extradition of Julian have been nullified.

JOSEPHINE SCHOOL DISTRICTS MERGE

GRANTS PASS, April 25.—(Sp.)—Thirty-one school districts of Josephine county have been formed into a non-high school district, and the new district so formed has been divided into five zones for an election of five directors on the third Monday in June, according to Mrs. Alice Bacon, county school superintendent, by an action of the county boundary board. The other 15 school districts, ten forming the Kirby Union High district and the other the Grants Pass, Williams, Hugo, Merlin and Wolf Creek high school districts, are of course not included in the boundary of the new non-high school district formed. Mrs. Bacon said, but will arrange with the five new non-high school directors when elected to educate the children of high school age living outside high school district boundaries.
