The Mooney Case Again

ASSUMING Tom Mooney is a menace to the country, he is a far greater menace in jail as a martyr, than out of it as an agitator.

As long as he remains in prison, he is a constant issue for the radicals, serves both as a talking point for new recruits and a source of revenue for new campaign funds.

The Mail Tribune has always favored Mooney's release because it has believed, and still believes, there is a reasonable doubt as to his guilt.

This reasonable doubt is sufficient to justify such action. But we also believe his release would be good policy from the standpoint of the public welfare.

We are tired of the Mooney case and believe most other people are tired of it. Giving Mooney his freedom would end the case, as far as radical propaganda is concerned.

THE radicalism that Mooney represents, does not constitute a very serious danger to this country. The United States as a whole, is congenitally and organically ANTI-BOLSHEVIK.

What danger as a free lance agitator Mooney WOULD represent, could best be opposed by free discussion and education, far more effectively than by repression and incarceration.

So both as a matter of justice and a matter of public policy we favor ending the Mooney case, once and for all, by transferring Tom from San Quentin, to his San Francisco home.

BUT we realize, of course, there is about as much chance of this, as there is of the radicals and reds dropping the Mooney case, as their most profitable source of revenue and the spear point of their un-American propaganda.

Personal Health Service

By William Brady, M.D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady in care of The Mail Tribune.

DOES IT MATTER MUCH WHAT YOU EAT?

Another popular fallacy we wiseacres relish to relinquish is the notion that any fool can prescribe a diet. I know, for every day a lot of wiseacres ask me to prescribe one for "em." It is obvious they take me for a fool, because as a rule they merely mention the name of some real or imaginary malady and quickly order me to send the diet for it. Or some of the more glib ones go to the trouble of telling me the nature, cause and symptoms of the malady without delay.

Take "acidosis" for instance. Now there's a purely imaginary malady that almost any fool but a physician can recognize as a guess. Makes a pleasant variation from "auto-intoxication" when you're played out on that line. Moreover, some of the more snooty mediums are manifesting a distinct diffidence about unpleasant discussions of certain bodily functions and it is growing increasingly difficult to sell "auto-intoxication" treatment, but "acidosis" is a subject on which anybody can say what he likes and nobody can stop him. So "acidosis" is now all the rage amongst the hoipolloi, and many are so badly obsessed that they insist on counting the calories, assaying the vitamins and knowing precisely how acid the ash of every item in the bill of fare.

So far as my observation goes, there is rarely any serious harm done by all this monkeying with diet. Occasionally some girl with more beauty than brains goes to extremes with reduction and presently finds that the latent tuberculosis that this lights up will keep her reduced for a long while. It is quite conceivable, too, that injudicious restriction in the variety and quantity of food consumed may impair health or various functions through vitamin deficiency. Catering to the popular demand for dietetic hokum is quite a business in this free country. For every odd notion or belief about food there is at least one "authoritative" in the form of a self-commended "food expert" or "specialist." From the fancy that tomatoes cause cancer, rheumatism or acidosis to the belief that fats, sweets, buckwheat and other good foods cause pimples, there is some such "authority." That's enough for the wiseacre mind.

I do not mean to deny that in some particular conditions special dietetic treatment is helpful. Indeed, I pass out such advice to many correspondents—reduction regimen, corrective protective regimen, menus for victims of peptic ulcer or hyperacidity and for the well members of the family and suggestions in reference to the diet in many other conditions. But I do believe that it doesn't matter much what you eat if you are fairly well, provided you have a normal liking for a reasonable variety of natural or not too much processed foods.

There is a new theory of re-incarnation advanced. Instead of returning to this world, after demise, as a cat, coyote, or other animal, the new life will be as a flower, fruit or vegetable. If this works out, the valley will be the Gooseberry center of the world.

 This is Elijah Masgard.
 I guess I have caught more coons, drank more corn liquor and been on more wild drinks than any other man in the country. I have settled down to live civilized life, and want to be your next jailer.

I feel that I need but little introduction to the people of this county, but I would like for the public to have faith in my reformation. I am 54 years old, raised 13 children and never refused to aid the distressed, regardless of race or character.

California maintains some peculiar notions about the dignity of its courts. Wednesday, Thomas Mooney, picked away in San Quentin prison for some 16 years, for using dynamite to impress his ideas of government upon the nation, was brought to the courthouse for a new trial. Radical sympathizers gathered, and started a demonstration. Whereupon the court continued the trial for 30 days, and the police shooed the agitators home. They had anticipated at least a week of unrestricted haranguing. One rhapsodic soul made a disparaging comparison his revolutionary tendencies curbed, and himself detained in the calaboose for 60 days. No mad lady opined that she knew more law than the court, and there was no opium smoking in the courthouse elevator. No resolution was proposed to hang the district attorney, and constituted authority functioned admirably and effectively.

Drugstores are flaunting poison oak cures, which are as popular as Milwaukee beer.

Money continues an absorbing topic of argument with inflation as the key note. The heat arguments on the money question are put up by those whose knowledge on the subject is limited to the elementary facts, viz: That money is round, long, green, and yellow, hard to get and hard to keep and the root of all evil.

PIONEER SPUNK
 (Pendleton East Oregonian)
 Camas Prairie—We do not live in the neighborhood of snipe postoffice and have no particular interest in the school house near that place, but can see no good reason for a resident of the prairie, in writing for your paper, calling the former "Hardman" or the latter "hard scabble." So far as we can learn from the farmers there are quite as good and prosperous as in the other parts of the prairie and we don't think it fair for "Itemizer" to wound the feelings of the neighborhood because one man living in snipe has a license to sell whiskey.—Lac.

One of the 1933 autos will go 100 miles per hour. We will buy one of these cars for the citizen of Jackson county, who will prove to a jury of his peers that he has or ever will have, business that necessitates going 100 miles per hour—drunk or sober.

The unpaid Chicago school teachers declined to eat lunch with Chicago bankers. Both are scarce, in their respective professions. The bankers retain their money, and the school teachers their unpaid salaries. The school teacher, however, for years has been regarded as something to fight with, and who receives no publicity, save when she attacks the inebriable son of a prominent citizen, and rouses the community. The sons of Chicago bankers better behave themselves.

 Oh Tender Lake—Oh, Heavenly Gem,

 For centuries I've walked with God,
 And naught but his still voice have heard.
 Here lost in his pure light and love,
