

Annual County Homemakers Day Is Scheduled May 3 in Medford

JACKSON COUNTY'S RURAL DRAMATICS PROJECT SUCCESS

Nine Communities Compete With One-Act Plays — Phoenix Cast Takes Laurels — Delegates Invited

One of the major projects in the Home Demonstration program to be discussed at County Homemakers day at the Christian church in Medford Wednesday, May 3, is recreation and dramatics. Jackson county has had one of the best extension projects in recreation and dramatics in the state for the past three years. The project is carried entirely by local leaders, who represent various organizations in the county, such as Granges, home extension units, P-T-A, federated clubs, lodges, churches and scout groups.

These leaders receive training at special schools, arranged by the county home demonstration agent, held annually, and at the monthly meetings of the County Recreation club. Dramatics Major Interest. One of the major interests in this project during the past year was the rural dramatics contest which was open to all rural amateur groups. The dramatics work was started in November by a training school for directors, with D. Palmer Young of Oregon State college as instructor. Following the school a dramatics committee—Mrs. O. C. Maust of Phoenix, Mrs. Victor Bursell of Central Point and Dr. B. R. Elliott of Medford—drew up rules for a dramatics contest.

Nine communities entered one-act plays which were first judged by districts and then the three district winners—Central Point Grange, Rogue River Civic club and Phoenix Grange—competed at Medford. Phoenix Grange won the county honors, and was awarded a trip to the Home Interests conference at Corvallis, April 1, where they won the state championship. Their prize play was "The Neighbors," by Zona Gale, and was directed by Mrs. Mabel Quackenbush.

Counties Compete. Delegates from many counties attended the showing at Corvallis and plan to enter the contest next year. At the program planning day next Wednesday the county Recreation club, represented by the president, Ray Ward of Phoenix, Mrs. C. C. Hoover and Claire Hanley of Jacksonville and Mrs. Victor Bursell and Mrs. Eldora Bohner of Central Point and representatives of other organizations will discuss the recreation and dramatics program and make recommendations for next year's dramatics contest and recreation work. Any organization interested in this project is invited to send delegates next Wednesday. The meeting starts promptly at 10:15.

Phoenix Grange Players Best in State

Players of the Phoenix Grange went to Corvallis April 1, where they won first honors in the state contest finals in Grange and recreational club competition held in connection with the home interests conference at Oregon State Agricultural college. In the picture, left to right, are Susanne Bakley, Florence Drake, O. S. Maust, Katherine Denzer, Mildred Marshall, Agnes Colver, Jesse Barkley, Bob Steadman, Mabel Quackenbush, director, and Mrs. O. C. Maust, prompter. The play presented by the Phoenix cast was "The Neighbors," by Zona Gale.

REAL OBJECTIVE IN INFLATION IS BOOST IN PRICES

above the crude old political game they know that they have become mere babes in the woods. It approaches the heights of practical statesmanship from a tactical standpoint, whether or not you like his policies.

Many congressmen do not like them. There is nothing they can do. They have been so skillfully disarmed on all these current issues that they must gurggle a reluctant assent when they would like to shout in opposition.

The way he works is to take radical ideas and give them conservative handling. He starts with Left Wing material and works imperceptibly to the right.

He made nearly everyone believe in the inflation bill that he was giving them the real Huey Long-Patman stuff. He even selected Senator Thomas of Oklahoma to handle the legislation. That in itself was a master stroke. Thomas did not write the bill. None of the ideas in it were his original ideas. He wanted the free issuance of currency, payment of the bonus in greenbacks.

All he got was a rather one-sided compromise—and his name on the bill.

The same scheme was worked on the gold revaluationists and the silver people. Father Coughlin's adherents think the Roosevelt program embodies revaluation of the gold dollar. It does NOT in the same sense that Rev. Coughlin advocated it.

Mrs. Roosevelt merely brought gold revaluationists to his side by including a provision permitting him to negotiate with the world powers for a new world gold basis if he chooses and can get an agreement.

The silver people were copied closely into line with the purely optional Pittman plan. It is as far from real silver inflation as Bryan was from Taft.

All these doses were diluted more than 80 per cent. Yet the concoction was made to look so palatable they all drank heartily.

That is good politics. Also good statesmanship. The two words are synonymous when used in their best sense. They both mean good leadership.

The government's confidential figures on silver inflation possibilities indicate the Thomas bill could expand silver $384,000,000 with the price at 50 cents an ounce. There are already $375,000,000 of silver certificates outstanding.

Confidentially, Glass left the Roosevelt program would wreck the Federal Reserve system. That's his baby. Other authorities felt his fears were groundless. It may deprive the Federal Reserve of control over the capital money market. It will certainly put the reserve system under administration jurisdiction. The change will hardly be noticeable.

The Federal Reserve was always supposed to be a separate institution but it never was. Mr. Harding controlled it. So did Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover.

SOCIAL GRACES IN CURRICULUM AT HIGH SCHOOL

(By Dorothy Willits.)

Although social graces, correct conventions and etiquette in general receives comparatively small stress in this day and age, it is interesting to note that in the Medford high school curriculum students may learn something about such social customs in household-management.

To many girls who contemplate domestic life after their brief high school education, this type of knowledge proves invaluable. To all it is interesting and a sharp reminder of the courtesies due to other people.

The following problems illustrate some of the points discussed: First, for general acceptability in society a girl should cultivate such outstanding characteristic assets as self-control, tolerance, cooperation, resourcefulness and dependability; second, in the home a girl should show thoughtfulness for her elders, respect for the personal rights of each member, loyalty and cooperation; third, in school life a girl should show appreciation, agreeableness, cheerfulness, sense of humor, tact, and broadmindedness in friendships; fourth, the attitude of a girl in public should display poise, dignity and directness of purpose, especially thoughtfulness of others and should never show indulgence in gum-chewing or eating candy.

Considering etiquette as a fifth point, proper forms of introduction are stressed. The preference due to elderly people and the girl's parents in particular is noted, also the impropriety of acknowledging introductions with the expression, "Pleased to meet you." In addition, the girls are told when to shake hands, proper conduct in the theater, at a tea and on other miscellaneous occasions. Proper use of calling cards, when to make calls, correct type and use of stationery, including invitations concludes a brief summary of social training in household management.

CENTRAL POINT H. E. C. WOMEN ENTERTAINED AT MRS. OLSON'S HOME

CENTRAL POINT, April 28.—(Sp.)—Mrs. Olson of West Side district was hostess to the Central Point H. E. C. Wednesday afternoon. Roll call found all officers present. A highly satisfactory report of the recent food sale given by the ladies of the Grange was read and plans discussed for making decorative improvements in the basement dining room and juvenile quarters.

An interesting program was led by Mrs. Bursell and delicious refreshments served by Mesdames Mollie Wright, Bertha Bursell, Velma McCredie and Mrs. Olson. Ladies present were Mesdames Myrtle Patterson, Agnes Head, Hilda Hague, Mary L. Beebe, Zura Mae McCredie, Hazel Tyrell, Bertha Bursell, Eva Smith, Della Parker, Stella Anderson, Berta Pankey, Charity Sander, Birdeen Myers, Dora Hesselgrave, Mollie Wright, Mattie Smith, Misses Faye Beebe, Mary Maury, Velma McCredie and hostess, Elizabeth Olson.

Next meeting of this club will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Elginbotham of Agate district Wednesday May 24.

SALE OF SECURITIES BRINGS ARREST HERE

State police yesterday arrested Harry F. Curry of San Francisco on a warrant charging violation of the California Corporation Securities act. Curry was on a mining claim in the Glendale, Ore., section when arrested. He was recently indicted in San Francisco on nine counts. He was brought to this city to await action by California authorities.

In Senior Play

DICK SLEIGHT, editor of the 1933 Crater Magazine has given much time in preparation for the part he will play in the senior class production, "A Full House."

Sleight will play Ned Pembroke, Jr., only son of a wealthy widow from Boston, who has had her jewels stolen. Ned is a fashionably dressed young man who has had many "affairs" in the past. He is in love with a girl and is greatly apprehensive that his past might become known.

He is a very likeable person, but with little serious purpose in life. Throughout the play, he gives an impression of biased demeanor and sophistication.

Dick Sleight has been a member of the Crater staff for four years, climaxing his endeavors in this line by becoming editor of the Crater in his senior year.

He took the part of Nabb in the dramatic club presentation of Cottoman's "Submerged," an undersea story in which the crew of a submarine was wrecked on the bottom of the sea. He was featured by the Crater magazine presentation of "Fifty Years From Now." He took part in the operetta "Pianofore."

Mr. Sleight has been a member of the dramatic club for two years, also a member of the glee club for the same length of time.

SAXOPHONE CONCERT TO BE PRESENTED AT HIGH SCHOOL MONDAY

(By John Sluder) Students of Medford high school will have the rare opportunity of hearing one of America's foremost concert saxophonists Monday when Cecil Burton Leeson presents a group of ten numbers before an audience in the high school auditorium at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Leeson is known not only for his concert work, but as a transcriber and a lecturer. Although many numbers have been written for the saxophone, very few have been worthy of concert performance. This literature has been greatly augmented by Mr. Leeson's transcriptions of such numbers as the "Flight of the Bumblebee" (Kinsky Korsakoff), "Air for the G String" (Bach), "First Arabesque" (Debussy), "Dancing Doll" (Poldini), to mention but a few.

Besides this, he has succeeded in increasing the range of the saxophone through the addition of special keys, thereby opening up a new field of possibilities. An exhibition and demonstration of this instrument will also be included.

Mr. Leeson feels that the saxophone, when properly played, possesses the warmth and flexibility of the strings, the agility of the reeds, and the roundness of the basses, plus a lyric quality of individual tone.

The program for Monday afternoon follows:

- Wiedorf Schöen Rosmarin..... Kreisler
- Flight of a Bumblebee..... Rimsky-Korsakoff
- Two Guitars..... Old Russian Air
- Silence of Night..... Rachmaninoff
- First Arabesque..... Debussy
- Hora Staccato..... Dinicu-Halffets
- Dance Hongroise..... Ring-Hager
- To a Wild Rose..... MacDowell
- Zapateado..... Sarasate
- Rhapsodie for Saxophone..... Debussy

A slight admission will be charged.
