NAME PROGRAM OF HOMEMAKERS DAY

Halbert S. Deuel, named receiver by the circuit court in the suit of the First National bank, acting for the bondholders, against the Suncrest orchards, Inc., has been granted permission by the court to enter into contracts with experienced orchardists, for the handling of the coming crop. E. C. Corn and Vance Wolgamott have agreed to produce and harvest the crop, on the share basis. The petition sets forth that, owing to the stringency of money, this is the best way to conserve the resources and to protect the crop.
The Suncrest Orchards Inc., comprised the orchard holdings of L. A. Banks. Bondholders are suing for $15,400, assertedly due on a $25,000 bond issue.

WOMEN URGE BUYING ALL OREGON PRODUCTS

The Women's Greater Oregon association is conducting an educational campaign for a more equal distribution in buying, requesting that quality and price being equal, women give preference to Oregon products. The state of California has carried on such a campaign for many years and the state of Washington now has an organization similar to our own.
The organization hopes to have ready for distribution, within the near future, small booklets, of a size to be conveniently carried in women's handbags, listing different brands of Oregon products, as they believe greater demand for home products can be created through a knowledge of brands rather than names of manufacturing firms.
The Women's Greater Oregon association originally charged dues of one dollar per year, but found that although women were perfectly willing to work for the promotion of sales of Oregon products they were unwilling or unable to pay dues, therefore dues were discontinued after five months trial. The organization is now supported through pledges given by Oregon manufacturers and interested individuals.
The association has been represented ninety times by its state board members at luncheons, dinners and organizing meetings; twenty-seven radio talks have been given advertising Oregon products and booths have been presided over at six fairs.
Mrs. Terrell I. Deck is president of the local branch.

Another out of town man is visiting in Medford merchants soliciting for sales books, waiter checks, and other printing. Remember you can buy all of this printing at home cheaper than out of town, and help maintain a home payroll. Don't buy any printing from traveling men—you always pay their expenses plus the price of the printing. Phone 75 and have a local man call and see you.
