MACDONALD HOME GREATLY PLEASSED WITH DISCUSSION

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 3. (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald came home "very, very pleased" today from his economic discussions with President Roosevelt in Washington in which, he said, he encountered an attitude of cooperation and good will to which the difficult problems of the world must yield.

The prime minister was greeted by a cheering throng awaiting him on the dock as the Berengaria pulled into Southampton water.

S. S. ILE DE FRANCE, at Sea, May 3.—(AP)—Former Premier Herriot, returning to France after his conference in Washington with President Roosevelt, received the following telegram from the president Monday night:

"Mr. Roosevelt and I send our warm regards and hope you are sailing on smooth seas which will be a harbinger of success on our great undertakings for security and commerce."

"It was a great delight to have you in Washington and we both wish you might have stayed longer."

"Please give my regards to all of the members of your staff, not forgetting the gentlemen of the press."

"F. D. Roosevelt."

OWNEY KNEW OLD TIME BALL PLAYER

When the "old timers" of the baseball game played in Grants Pass and Portland, there was one "old timer" right here at home, who longed to be allowing Sam Crawford of Detroit when it is done, just as he did once 47 years ago. His name is Owen Patton (for the benefit of those who didn't know it).

When Sam Crawford was playing with the Detroit champions, Owen Patton was captain of the Minneapolis team and Owey's team won. If it hadn't, Owey wouldn't be telling the story today, he assured his listeners, gathered on North Central this morning. He's Irish enough for that.

But defeated or victorious, he wanted to see his old cronies when they got as close as Grants Pass, and it still takes extra effort to coax a smile out of him, all because he didn't. He admitted it this morning. That's why his pipe is hanging low.

PURSE EMPTIED; GYPSY BLAMED

She blessed his minus, and on she went, and he is minus $10—just the same old gypsy story. It was reenacted here this morning at Mann's wrecking house.

A business caller at the wrecking house, whose name was not revealed by police, was approached by the gypsy maiden. She asked to tell his fortune. He let her. She didn't tell him he was going to lose some money in the near future. But when she departed his "blessed" purse was empty.

Police officers were searching thru the valley this morning for the gypsy band, but a check with Ashland failed to reveal their whereabouts although they were headed south when they left the wrecking station. There were four gypsies in the Oakland roadster, which stopped at the station, and other cars were seen going by, occupied by members of the Romany clan.

The common drinking glass has been restored and the paper cup discarded in many Kentucky statehouse offices as a result of an economy drive.

MOODY AT HELM IN PROSECUTION OF BANKS CASE

With this in view, Ralph Moody of Medford, former assistant United States attorney general, was hurriedly sworn in last night as special assistant state attorney general to assume charge of the case for the state. Moody had already identified himself with the prosecution at the request of Levens, long a friend of his, and he was questioning prospective jurors yesterday when word was received that Levens had died in a doctor's office nearby.

Moody Takes Helm. Although selection of the jury was completed yesterday after some delay, Levens' death reached the court. Circuit Judge G. P. Skipworth later ordered adjournment until 1:30 p. m. today to allow the prosecution to reorganize itself.

Deserting temporarily its line of questioning of prospective jurors in accordance with its theory that Banks was "persecuted to a point of desperation," and was in an overwrought frame of mind when Constable Prescott was shot, the defense yesterday sought the views of the panel on cooperative farm projects and marketing. While editing a Medford paper, Banks had made a vigorous fight against such farm enterprises. The state confined its questions largely as to the jurors' prejudices and the assurance the state as well as the defense would be given a fair hearing.

Moody Authorized. Assistant State Attorney General J. M. Devera, whose work is largely confined to the state highway commission, came here from Salem last night with the papers authorizing Moody to carry on the work started by Levens.

Moody was assistant United States attorney general under the Harding and Coolidge administrations, and is considered one of the most colorful attorneys in this state. Assisting him with the prosecution are George Codding, district attorney of Jackson county, and Deputy District Attorney Nielson, also of Medford.

The state of Michigan owns 166,191 acres in Chippewa county, or more than one-sixth of the entire county.

SPRAY TOLERANCE PROTEST PLANNED BY ORCHARDISTS

BOISE, May 3.—(AP)—Protest against the federal regulation limiting the allowable amount of lead residue from spray on apples will be voiced at a meeting of Pacific northwest orchardists and agricultural officials to be held Saturday in Hood River, Ore., W. H. Hicks Idaho director of plant industry, has announced.

Idaho orchardists are protesting, he said, that the regulation will destroy the industry as no feasible means has been found to remove the lead residue readily and that expense of testing for it is prohibitive.

The only effective spray devised to control the codling moth, Wicks said, is lead arsenate spray used universally by apple growers. Washing to remove the arsenate factor of the spray has proved successful, he said, but removal of the lead is difficult, an ordinary washing being of little avail.

There is not enough lead residue on apples, he said, to cause even slight harm adding that no death has been definitely attributed either to the lead or the arsenate factor in the spray.
