MEDFORD TO HAVE BIG BREWERY

GE BAUERS PLAN 100 BBL. OUTPUT OVER WIDE AREA

Beer On Market by Sept. 1 Announcement—Famous Water Will Make Fine Drink—Hops, Barley Near

Medford will have a 100 barrel a day brewery in operation early this summer, with beer on the market by September 1, according to an announcement made this morning by GeBauer, manager of the Gold Seal Creamery.

GeBauer announced that an option on property belonging to the Gold Seal Creamery, at the corner of Grape and Fourth streets, with a frontage on North Fir also, had been given him by the brewing company, following his return from a trip to Eugene Sunday.

The brewing company will be composed of southern Oregon men and capital, with the possibility of some capital from Eugene, GeBauer said.

100 Barrels Capacity.
With the capacity of 100 barrels a day, officials of the new brewery plan to supply Northern California and southern Oregon with a beer comparable to the best eastern and foreign beer, GeBauer said.

Medford is highly comparable to the water that has made Milwaukee and Cincinnati famous as beer centers, and the beer produced will be equivalent to the Pilsener beer that has given Pilsen, Germany, a prominent place on the quaffer's map.

Water being greatly responsible for the quality of beer, officials of the company feel that Medford's beer will be as good as the best.

The brewery will be erected on property cornering on Grape and West Fourth, with specific building plans to be announced soon, GeBauer said.

After the brewery is in operation, at least 10 men will be employed steadily, three tons of barley will be used daily, and locally grown hops will be used, GeBauer said.

FRUIT GROWERS WILL SEEK NEW SPRAY REMOVER

HOOD RIVER, Ore., May 8.—(AP)—A business-like and scientific exploration into the question of spray residue on fruit will be pushed by organizations of apple and pear growers of Oregon and Washington in the hope and expectation that a new process may be evolved to save millions of dollars to fruit growers in the west.

Experimental findings so far developed were discussed in detail at a meeting here Saturday of growers and scientists from the Pacific northwestern states, called by Edwin Smith of the federal bureau of plant industry at Wenatchee.

Another conference of research workers will be held in connection with the Northwest association meeting of entomologists, horticulturists and plant pathologists in Hood River in July.

Growers have been greatly disturbed since the department of agriculture and the pure food department ruled that all lead spray residue be removed from apples and pears this fall.

The degree of tolerance was lowered and many growers said the order was so drastic they could not comply.

At Saturday's meeting here every modern development was discussed and further intensive study was ordered during the interval between the present time and the period of harvesting and washing of this season's crop.

DEMOCRATS HOWL AS ADJOURNMENT THREATENS BILLS

Roosevelt Afraid to Have Congress in Session During London Economic Conference Inside Reason

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—You should have heard the howl that went up inside from loyal Democrats when word was passed that congress should adjourn before June 10.

Senator Glass went running to Democratic Leader Robinson asking why his bank bill was not on the program.

Senator Glass went running to Democratic Leader Robinson asking why his bank bill was not on the program.

The wary thought Mr. Roosevelt did not mean what he said. They suspected he was threatening to block these pet projects so he could write an authorization out of congress on debt and tariffs.

The real purpose seems to be sincere. The reason Mr. Roosevelt wants to drive congress out of town is because he is afraid to have it in session during the London economic conference.

PANKEY WILL EYE CROP LOAN WORK

L. J. Paulson, regional manager of the crop production loan office at Minneapolis, has instructed H. T. Pankey, assistant field inspector for Jackson, Josephine, Douglas, Lane, Coos and Curry counties to immediately complete plans for an inspection of the seeding program of all crop production loan borrowers.

It is expected that Mr. Pankey will devote practically all of his time during the several weeks immediately after April 30 to this final inspection work.

Improved Wages, Curb On Production F. R. Aim

PAST AND FUTURE POLICIES TOLD IN DEPRESSION FIGHT

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—A government "partnership" with industry, to improve wages, shorten working hours and control surplus production, will be President Roosevelt's next move in attacking economic adversity.

He revealed this last night in giving the nation a full exposition of his policies, past and future, for domestic and international recovery from the depression.

Similar to the measures already proposed for the government operation with agriculture and transportation, the President would put the force of government behind trade agreements under a relaxation of anti-trust laws.

Seated at a desk in the White House, Mr. Roosevelt also gave no hint of the future.

JOHN O. SHOUP PASSES, AGED 79

John Oliver Shoup, a resident of Medford for the past three years, passed away at his home on Mae street Sunday, at the age of 79 years.

Mr. Shoup was born in Indiana in 1850, was married to Emma Taylor at Independence, Kansas. In 1906 they moved west to Enumclaw, Wash., where they resided until 1912, when they moved to Oregon.

Banks May Not Testify In Own Behalf Is Late Developemnt at Hearing

Now Believed Agitator's Dislike to Insane Plea Overcome by Legal Aides Mrs. Martin in Limelight

By ARTHUR PERRY.
EUGENE, May 7.—The state is now expected to close its direct evidence against L. A. Banks and wife late Tuesday afternoon, at the present rate, and largely depending on the speed of the defense cross-examination. Some of the state's witnesses will be reserved for rebuttal.

From his own statements to the press Sunday, it is now problematical whether or not Defendant Banks will take the stand, in his own behalf. Banks desires to make a personal appearance, but has indicated it is a matter for his counsel to decide.

Courtroom observers predict that the defense will be insane, and that Banks' previous objection to this line has been removed by his counsel. Signs indicate that the defense will attack the state police methods and also plead mitigation on the grounds that Banks was "persecuted to the point of desperation" by his legal, financial, and political foes.

Mrs. Martin is a witness, and barred from the courtroom. She spends her time in the witness waiting room playing "rummy" and chatting with friends. She is frequently seen in "conference" with Arthur La Dieu and Attorney Enright.

MARTHA AUSTIN OF E. P. PASSES

Martha Oranna Austin, aged 57 years, passed away in a local hospital early Monday morning, suffering a short illness. Mrs. Austin was a resident of Eagle Point, living with her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Kurz.

Funeral services will be held from the Conger funeral parlors Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. D. L. Myers of the Apostolic Faith, will conduct the services and burial will be made in the Phoenix cemetery.

MYSTERIOUS NOTE IS RULED OUT BY BANKS CASE JUDGE

Letter Found in Pocket of Agitator's Coat Addressed to 'Daddy' Is Important Link in State's Case

EUGENE, May 8.—(Sp.) Judge Earl H. Rehl of Jackson county arrived here Sunday by auto, and went immediately to the county jail, and was admitted for a talk with L. A. Banks. Fehl entered with him his political pal about two o'clock.

Formerly introduced as evidence for the first time when Sgt. C. A. Warren again identified it as one taken from a coat in Banks' bedroom, the letter was ruled not admissible as evidence, but the state still hopes to get it to the jury.

Contents Unrevealed.
The contents of the letter, on which may hinge the lives of the two defendants, have not been revealed. It is known, however, that the note was purportedly written by Mrs. Banks to her husband prior to the killing and refers to Banks' proposed "stand" against the officers.

Were the guns and ammunition found in Banks' home originally intended for use on a vacation trip or were they made ready for a battle with the law? The note, if the state succeeds in offering it as evidence, may answer that question.

Judge G. F. Skipworth listened to biting arguments from both sides before he ruled the letter out as incompetent evidence on the grounds that no proof of its origin has been introduced, that there was no proof Mrs. Banks wrote it, and that no proof has been submitted showing it was intended for Banks.

The second week of the trial opened with Warren, a detective sergeant of the state police, still on the stand. He was subjected to continued cross-examination by Frank Lonergan, chief of the defense counsel.

After the afternoon session opened, Lumsden was asked but a few questions before being dismissed. Clatus McCredie, chief of the Medford police was next called. He verified the note given Tommy Williams by Mrs. Banks to be handed to the state police.

Little Girl Wonders.
Miss de Ford said that when she and Mrs. Banks were in the bedroom, Mrs. Banks said, "Mr. Banks has been terribly persecuted since he's been in Medford." The Banks' little daughter, Ruth May, who was in the room at the time, asked, "but why did he have to kill somebody?"
