BOWNS TESTIMONY CASTS NEW LIGHT ON MURDER TRIAL

Banks had used and Banks said he fired but one shot with the rifle which he had bought for mountain lion hunting. Banks then handed Bown six cartridges from his pocket saying "I guess I'll have no further use for these."

Constable Under Orders Banks then asked why Prescott had served the warrant and Bown explained they were made out to be served by the constable. Banks wanted to know who the younger man was with Prescott and Bown said he thought it was Officer O'Brien.

"I could have shot him too if I had wanted to," Bown quoted Banks as saying.

Banks was taken to the Grants Pass jail and two days later Bown returned and talked with him.

"Banks said he had heard newsmen about headlines, 'L. A. Banks killed Prescott.' Then Banks said, 'I did not shoot him. When the time comes I'll name who fired the shot. He was a third man in the house and he left right afterwards and mingled with the crowd. I saw him on Peach street as we left for Grants Pass.'"

On cross-examination, Bown denied knowledge of any threats against Banks' life made by Prescott or any state policeman.
