Immediate Object To Open Opportunity Employment Several Million Men And Women In Industries.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—The following explanation of the administration bill to control industry and provide public works was issued today by Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.), chairman of the farming committee:

"The national recovery bill consists of two principal parts, the first dealing with industrial recovery and the second with public works.

"The principal and immediate object of this bill is to open opportunities for the employment of several million men and women and thus distribute purchasing power which will be effective in starting again the wheels of industry.

Cooperation is Aim.

"The purpose of title 1 of the bill (dealing with industrial recovery), is to secure cooperative action within industry with a view to eliminating unfair competitive practices and thereby to reduce unemployment, improve standards of labor and otherwise to rehabilitate industry.

"The bill authorizes any group or association within a trade or industry to prepare a code of fair competition which sets forth the standards covering trade and competitive practices within that industry. Such a code is without effect until it is approved by the president.

President May Approve.

"The president may approve such a code if he finds:

"1. That the group presenting the code truly represents the trade or industry for which it speaks.

"2. That it admits freely to membership all who are engaged in the same trade or industry.

"3. That the code of rules is fair to competitors, employees and consumers.

"4. That it will not promote monopoly.

"5. That it does not oppress or discriminate against small business enterprises.

"In addition the employers submitting such a code of fair competition must agree that their employees shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively and that their right to join a labor organization will not be interfered with. They must undertake to reduce the hours of labor to that number which the president finds will be most helpful in increasing employment in the industry. Finally they must agree to pay a minimum wage scale and maintain minimum standards as determined by the president.

May Oked Agreements.

Students Who Dropped Out Of College Studying Mapped Courses—Unemployed Improve Time by Study

SALEM, May 18.—(AP)—Unemployment has meant a time for study and planning for better jobs to more than 400 enrolled in reading courses offered by the state library, reports State Librarian Harriet C. Long.

Scores of students who have dropped out of college are studying specially mapped courses of their own selection. Others of all ages, some of whom are now employed, are availing themselves of professional and technical training for better jobs when prosperity returns. Courses for self-education are being pursued by many.

Response Surprised.

Reading courses were made part of the regular state library service this year. "The response far surpassed my wildest dream," said Miss Long. "They are not to supplant extension or correspondence courses. They are for those who cannot afford that work."

Nearly 300 different reading courses have now been outlined, ranging in interests from auctioneering, accounting, aeronautics and architecture, to dressmaking, child study, music courses of all kinds, foreign languages and hand weaving.

Psychology and short story writing are leading in popularity with 27 enrolled in psychology and 18 studying short story technique. Electrical engineering, interior decorating, forestry and salesmanship are also popular.

Special Courses Drawn.

Each applicant is handled as an individual case, states Miss Long. On the application is stated the amount of previous education and the course desired. No list of courses is prepared for prospective readers. A special course on any subject desired is outlined by the library staff and suited to the individual's needs.

A book a month is sent to the readers and books are specially reserved for the course. Several readers have completed one course and embarked on another.

The whole state outside Multnomah county is served through local libraries by the state library. Where no local libraries are found, courses and service are arranged through direct correspondence with readers.

Philomath Students.

The "hot spot" of the entire state is little Philomath, whose population in 1930 was 694. Largely through the influence of the local librarian there, says Miss Long, 39 have already been enrolled in the courses.

As a result, reports the Philomath

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—(AP)—While a crowded courtroom suppressed its merriment, Mrs. Beatie Pugh, one of the five sisters of the late Dr. Frank Bishop, optometrist, who successfully contested his will, today described scenes conducted by the Rev. James J. Dickson, spiritualist pastor, and his former wife, Gertrude Dickson.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickson are being tried on an indictment charging them with conspiring to induce Bishop to commit suicide to join his wife, Louise, beyond the grave. Bishop died by poisoning and a will, subsequently broken by his sisters, left his estate to Mrs. Dickson.

Mrs. Pugh, on the stand today, described scenes at which numerous purported spirits, including that of Mrs. Bishop, described their existence in a ghostly habitat termed "Aureland."

On one occasion, Mrs. Pugh testified, a spirit appeared on a screen, purporting to be that of Mrs. Bishop. "What did Mrs. Bishop's spirit say?" asked the prosecution.

"She said 'Hello, everybody. Everything is lovely up here. I am hav-

TIGHT ROPE QUEEN INJURED BY FALL

SAN MATEO, Calif., May 18.—(AP)—

Injured in a 50-foot fall from the "big top" of the A. C. Barnes circus, Miss Bertha Matlock, tight-rope performer, was in a serious condition here today.

Despite the efforts of her father, William Matlock, trapeze instructor, to break her fall, Miss Matlock received a broken pelvis and possible spine injuries.

She fell as she was preparing to slide backward down a rope from the top of the big tent. Her father caught her in his arms but himself was knocked down by the impact. He rose to his feet dazed but uninjured to aid in getting his daughter to a hospital.

Time and again I am told—by my own organization and by others—that I penalize myself by quality.

Friendly critics protest our putting into the Ford V-8 what they call "twenty-year steel." They say such quality is not necessary; the public does not expect it; and that the public does not know the difference anyway.

But I know the difference.

I know that the car a man sees is not the car he drives—he drives the car which the engineer sees. The car which is seen, comprises beauty of design, color and attractive accessories,—all desirable, of course. The best evidence that we think so is that they are all found on the Ford V-8.

But these are not the car. The car proper, which is the basis of all the rest, is the type of engine and its reliability; the structure of chassis and body, ruggedly durable; the long thought and experiment given to safety factors; the steady development of comfort, convenience and economy. These make the car.

A car can be built that will last two or three years. But we have never built one. We want the basic material of our car to be as dependable the day it is discarded as the day it is bought. Ford cars built 15 years ago are still on the road. It costs more to build a durable car—but two items we do not skimp are cost and conscience. A great many things could "get by"—the public would never know the difference. But we would know.

The new Ford V-8 is a car that I endorse without any hesitancy. I know what is in it. I trust our whole thirty years' reputation with it. It is even better than our previous V-8. It is larger, more rugged and mechanically a better job all round.

I readily say this in an advertisement because I know the car will back it up.
