

OREGON FARMERS BENEFITS LISTED UNDER LOAN LAW

May Cut Excessive Debt — Reduce Interest Rates — Postpone Principal Payments, Redeem Properties

CORVALLIS, Ore., May 19.—(AP)—Just what can the Oregon farmer expect from the agricultural credit provision of the new federal farm law? Answering this question from information available through government sources, experts in the Oregon agricultural extension service here reply that the mortgage relief section of the bill provides:

That excessive farm debts may be cut down, interest rates may be reduced, payments on principal may be postponed, foreclosed farms may be redeemed, and farmers may be assisted in meeting other obligations.

To Assist All Classes Advice received here from Henry Horgan, Jr., designated by President Roosevelt as governor of the entire federal farm credit administration, indicates an effort has been made to assist directly or indirectly all classes of agricultural borrowers who have been caught with oppressive debts in the rapid deflation of farm values.

The first attention has been given to the 400,000 farmers who now owe the federal land banks about one billion dollars on farm mortgages, the extension service commentators said. "The new law grants a five-year moratorium on principal payments to the land banks and reduces the interest rate beginning early in July to 4 1/2 per cent, where it must stay for the next five years."

Interest Rates Low New borrowers from the land banks within the next two years will be granted this same rate of interest, which is well below the ordinary commercial rates.

Inasmuch as the great majority of farm mortgages are held by other than governmental or semi-governmental agencies, assistance is to be extended to the class of borrowers thru provisions for issuing two billion dollars in government bonds to obtain money to be loaned through the present federal land bank system.

Banks Offered Aid Joint stock land banks, also, are offered aid in liquidation if they will meet certain provisions such as reducing interest rates and suspending foreclosures unless such are approved.

The act makes a direct appropriation of $200,000,000 to be loaned to farmers so they may redeem farm property lost in foreclosure or meet other indebtedness in a specified list.

The state college experts said the federal land bank at Spokane now has detailed information on the administration of this section of the new farm act.

Penned Turkeys Thrive Is Word Of Feed Expert Raising turkeys in strict confinement has certainly proved practical thru an experiment conducted by the Monarch Seed & Feed Co., according to Raymond Mikache.

Twenty-four turkeys hatched by Mrs. W. E. Hammel of Eagle Point on the 17th day of April were placed in their retail store window when the poult were two days old. These turkeys received Crown Complete-Kompret Turkey Starter Pellets and water only. Drinking utensils were sterilized twice daily to prevent the encroachment of disease and the feed kept before the birds constantly.

Turkeymen who have watched these poult grow express themselves as never having seen such growth before. The small amount of starting feed consumed for such exceedingly heavy growth has been almost unbelievable. This experiment will be concluded on Saturday next when a new lot of poult from Mrs. Hammel's turkey ranch will replace the present flock and another experiment started to run for another 4 weeks. These trials are proving of deep interest to turkey men of southern Oregon.

WARN INVESTORS BOOM PLANNED IN SHOALS PROJECT

President, in Signing Bill for Huge Development, Would Guard Innocent From Conscienceless Exploiters

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—President Roosevelt in signing the Muscle Shoals legislation today asked that innocent investors be warned not to get caught in the clutches of conscienceless land speculators.

The President issued no formal statement but made sure that his thought got to the people. It also was said that he had been made very happy to carry out the realization of the hope and the great principle for this development which he had long maintained.

fresh controversy loomed over the $140,000,000 war time Alabama plant. A governmental investigation was disclosed to be under way into alleged misuse of its power by private companies under republican administrations.

Apparently word has reached the White House that land speculators are plotting a boom in the Muscle Shoals Alabama area.

Ending a 13-year contest over disposition of the property, President Roosevelt signed into law the Norris-Hill bill to govern its use and envisioning as well as a broad plan for development of the entire Tennessee valley.

At the informal ceremony was the veteran Senator Norris of Nebraska victorious at last in his struggle for government operation of the shoals project—a proposition vetoed in the Coolidge and Hoover administrations. Even as the signature was attached.

SHREDDED WHEAT SALES AID FARM

Eventual assistance to agriculture of the Pacific coast through greater consumption of wheat is pointed out as a probable result of increased sales of Shredded Wheat, a new advertising campaign for which is now appearing in the columns of this publication by the National Biscuit Company.

A second factor of interest to the Pacific coast and its agricultural industry is that the Shredded Wheat campaign features use of the cereal with berries and fruits which are just beginning to come into season.

Every single advertisement in the Shredded Wheat campaign, both in magazines and newspapers, urge the reader to use fresh fruits in season, or canned fruits. Berries are featured in the current advertisement and later ads will display peaches and other fruits.

Shredded Wheat for the west is made in the National Biscuit Company's western Shredded Wheat plant at Oakland, California, from western wheat.
