

Motors Will Roar Again Sunday In Annual So. Oregon Regatta

SPEED BOAT FANS PROMISED THRILL AT EMIGRANT DAM

Boating fans of the Pacific coast are looking forward with eager anticipation to the clash between rival outboard pilots at Emigrant Lake Sunday, as a great deal of speculation is in the air as to the probable outcome. Much rivalry has developed between the leading drivers who have raced against each other in former seasons. It is expected that Ward Angilly of Marysville, Cal., will place well up in the Class C event, although he will be hard pushed by Wilber of Sacramento, Richard of Spokane, McCoy of Vancouver and Fius of Portland and Joe Meyer of Medford. As 17 drivers have already signified their intention of starting in this event, it will be hard to forecast results until the roaring fleet has safely rounded the first marker and the list of casualties is left behind.

Even a greater number of entries will crowd the turns in the Class D event, which is open to entry by larger motors. The final hydroplane race, the Class F event, is open to the largest racing motors built, capable of speeds up to 60 miles an hour. Such a speed on the tricky Emigrant course should produce plenty of thrills.

It is safe to predict that Ernie Miller of Stockton, Cal., and Larry Rickett of Spokane will engage in a bitter contest for supremacy in this class of entries. Both drivers have a long list of victories to their credit. In major regattas throughout the country, and no effort will be spared by either of these men to gain the first drop of the checkered flag.

Dick Cookley, a strapping youth of over six feet, will furnish the first laugh of the day as he crowds his bulk into the miniature little hull. Mutt & Jeff, to make the leading bid for honors in the Class B event, first on the program. This little craft, which he carries perched daintily on the top of his Ford, weighs no more than half as much as his driver, and Dick is often seen marching to the water with the boat in one hand and motor in the other.

Although his motor is the next smaller in size to the ones with which it will be competing, it has consistently carried its owner to victory in the past. There will be a very colorful field of opponents at the starting line, however, that will have the mental attitude of the "gentleman from Missouri."

Last event in this galaxy of thrills, and one which is a sure crowd pleaser, is the runabout race, open to all runabouts. It is expected that Adolph Spreckles will enter his fast "Max Hiflex" and try to repeat again his victory of last year. Runabout racing is rapidly coming to the front in popularity and a number of entries of unknown merit have been received for this event. Two of the fastest of this type of boat, of local interest, are those of Helms Fisher and Art Vroman of Klamath Falls.

Although indications at this time are for a clear day, Sunday, the committee in charge wish to assure all that in the event of misty weather cars will be so parked that all events may be witnessed from their cars. A very powerful amplifying system is being worked out by Herman Purricker, to make it possible to give immediate results to the crowd, as well as to help them pick out different contestants on the course.

"Wickie" has done his bit to help his country, in line with the Rooseveltian policies, by taking out a beer license for the occasion. He promises a generous supply of the amber fluid on tap, as well as luncheon supplies and coffee.

The caravan of guests from Vancouver, Wash., representing the chamber of commerce of that city, will be given seats of honor with the judging officials on the course.

As Sunday's regatta will, in all probability, be the only event of this kind held in southern Oregon this year, adequate plans have been made by the regatta committee to accommodate the record-breaking crowd that is expected to attend.

ALL-STAR TEAMS FROM MAJORS WILL COMPETE

CHICAGO, May 19.—(AP)—The old controversy over the comparative average strength of the American and National leagues will be settled—as far as one game can settle it—in Chicago July 6.

All-Star teams selected by a national wide vote of the fans, will meet either at Wrigley field, home of the National League champion Cubs, or Comiskey Park, the home field of the White Sox, under the sponsorship of the Chicago Tribune. The league presidents, William Harridge of the American, and John A. Heydler of the

SCHMELING HAS BAER FADED IS OBSERVERS IDEA

By HENRY MOLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LAKE OSWANNANOA, N. J., May 19.—(UP)—If Max Schmeling and Max Baer were scheduled to fight tomorrow night instead of the evening of June 8, there would not be anything to do but pick the German to stop the Californian on the sunny side of 10 rounds.

This was the conclusion this observer reached after watching Schmeling step six rounds against three sparring partners in the little arena near the last here today. Last Sunday the writer watched Baer work out at Atlantic City.

Baer is just a big, free-swinging humber who can take it, and if he's fighting an opponent who has the intelligence and speed as an archery target—give it. But Schmeling has class. Analyze their equipment and Baer, outside of the extra 20 pounds or so he has on Max, isn't it. Take their right hands, their Sunday punches, for example. When he wants to put the old beef behind it, Baer cocks it back almost to his hip. Schmeling carries his high, shooting it without warning. The same is true of their lefts. Baer swinging his back after the manner of a bush league southpaw and Schmeling firing it from close range. What extra power Baer gains by swinging from his spikes doesn't offset the extra time it takes for him to make a landing.

It's impossible to compare their boxing, for the simple reason that Baer hasn't any. He's as wide open as a filling station and plenty clumsy. Schmeling, while no picture boxer, is highly effective. He proved that when he went 16 rounds with Sharkey, one of the finest boxers the game has produced, without taking a half dozen clean punches.

FRANKIE MONROE FIGHTS BUZZSAW HERE NEXT WEEK

Frankie Monroe, who won a close decision over Herb White here last week, will fight again next Wednesday at the local armory against Buzzsaw Zimmerman of Klamath Falls, in a return match which Mack Lillard, promoter says also will be a grudge affair.

The two went to a draw in Klamath Falls two months ago, and have been wanting to fight it out since that time. Lillard says Zimmerman got his title of "Buzzsaw" because he always carries the fight to the opponent, and swings his fists like a buzzsaw.

Battling Ben, who fought Jack McCarthy here a short while ago, will meet Cliff "Spud" Sparr, formerly of The Dalles, and now of Medford.

Frank Jewett, who returned recently from serving in China in the navy, and who was wounded in one leg by a Jap machine gun bullet, will also fight on the card, but his opponent has not been selected. Jewett was bantamweight champion of his division in the navy, and formerly fought here when Jack Woods was promoting. His injury was not permanent, leaving only a scar and does not hinder his fighting.

The bouts next Wednesday are the start of Mack Lillard's lightweight tournament, by which he hopes to definitely establish the lightweight champion of Southern Oregon, to be pitted against Portland's leading lightweight.

Lillard left Thursday for Klamath Falls, where Herb White will fight Young Jack Wills in a six round main event, and Spider Fields will meet Perry Hueston in the semi-final. This will be White's first main event in Klamath Falls and many Medford fans plan to attend the fight.

Track Stars Will Meet

All sections of Oregon will be represented at the annual state inter-scholastic track and field meet at Eugene Saturday. In the picture are, left to right: Ken Miller, Oakland high school's great all-around athlete; Chester Varnes of Salem high, who will make it tough for the discuss tossers, and Sam McLaughney of Roseburg high, star miler and half-miler. The high school track meet will wind up a week-end of track activity at the university campus. On Friday afternoon Oregon and Oregon State will meet in a dual track meet and that night Bill Hayward will be honored at a big civic banquet when he starts his thirtieth year at the university.

GILMORE LIONS WILL PLAY JACKSONVILLE

The Gilmore Lions, newly renovated Medford baseball team, will meet the Jacksonville nine at Jacksonville, promoter says also will be a grudge affair.

Addition of Caldwell, Morgan and Newland to the Oilers has strengthened their team, with Newland catching Sakriati. The team is composed of all good players, now, and some lively baseball is expected. The Lions lost to Butte Falls, 5-4 Sunday, their first defeat of the season.
