Activities of Legion Auxiliary

By Mrs. Cole Holmes

The new Veterans' regulations authorized under the Economy Act were signed by President Roosevelt March 31st. The new regulations cover some forty typewritten pages. An excellent resume of their contents has been sent all Legion posts. The theory that the government should make an effort to compensate veterans and widows for World War disability or death is now a thing of the past. Compensation has ceased to exist. All World War monetary benefits, outside of emergency officers' retirement, are known as pensions, and the recipients will be pensioners. Among other things, the new Veterans' Regulations wipe out compensation for World War veterans crippled by battle wounds, amputations and diseases contracted in the service, and substitutes pensions at a 20 percent less rate than the compensation which these disabled have been receiving. The highest pension that can be received under this new act is $80 a month. Family allowances for crippled veterans with dependents are eliminated. Single veterans, without dependents, will have their pensions cut to a monthly while in hospital or home. The new regulations wipe out all payments for temporary disability and non-service free hospitalization for temporary disability. Hereafter no payments will be made for any disability other than permanent, whether or not connected with the Spanish War. Veterans' pensions at age sixty-two are set at $5 a month. The only class of persons whose pensions are not cut under the regulations are the widows and orphans of veterans whose death is directly connected with service. The amount of burial allowance is reduced to $75 but a flag will be provided in all cases. The regulations are effective July 1st. These are just the highlights taken from an article written by John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman, National Legislative chairman, and published in the May edition of the Forty and Eight magazine.

Holloway is the chairman of the refreshment committee for May.

The next important event of Medford Auxiliary is the Poppy Sale on May 26th and 27th. Each and every member is urged to be prepared to help the committee in every way possible so that our quota of poppies will be sold, insuring aid to those in the hospital and to our welfare fund for next year.
