GREATER JUBILEE PLANS ARE DRAWN AT JACKSONVILLE

Committees Named for Work In Staging Annual 'Gold Rush' — Full Day's Program to Attract Throngs

Meeting in a brief but enthusiastic session last week, Jacksonville chamber of commerce members laid preliminary plans for the second annual Gold Rush Jubilee August 19. Committee heads were chosen and features outlined, with a division of preparatory work being made.

An executive committee, which will be in direct charge of all jubilee activities, will be composed of the following: Oscar Lewis, president of the chamber of commerce, historic parade, street lighting and decorating; Mayor Wesley Hartman, U. S. hotel building activities and entertainment; Ray Wilson, supervison of all concessions; J. R. Knight, free entertainment features and program, and Leonard Hall, publicity and advertising.

Big Throng Last Year.

First conceived because of a desire on the part of city dads to advertise the state's first mining camp's history and fame to the world, and to raise needed finances to purchase a gold mill site—which now boasts a 24-hour, 30-ton mill—last summer's Gold Rush Jubilee attracted more than 10,000 people to the old town for the one-day celebration, which was, in effect, a recreation of a blazing mining camp replete with gunfights, barrooms and pioneer costumes.

This summer's jubilee, according to plans already underway, will be even more unique and original, with real beer, an outdoor dancing pavilion, back yard mining, gold milling and many other features contributing to the full day's program, which will be both historic and humorous. The pioneer parade, one of the highlights of last summer's show, will be reproduced this year on a much larger scale, as will all other features.

Plan New Features.

Because of their experience of last year, and because of an increased confidence in the inherent ability of their historic old town to attract people from hundreds of miles, Jacksonvillians plan a celebration this summer that will strike an entirely new note. The jubilee program, in the main, will be held over soil containing the richest placer ground in the west, and the sleeping mining town again is beginning to buzz with anticipation and activity as it prepares for its one big splurge into Pacific coast limelight.

COWGILL BIRTHDAY RATES WRITEUP IN SUN. OREGONIAN

The following sketch of a well-known Medford man appeared in Sunday's Oregonian under the heading "It's the Birthday of Ralph Penniwill Cowgill, who was born in Dakota in 1880":

Weather was beginning to get warm back in old Dakota territory when Ralph Penniwill Cowgill was born. His native town is Springfield, now in Bon Homme county, South Dakota. Mr. Cowgill reached that town Friday, May 21, 1880. In the then small city of Portland, Ore., that night was formed the San Jose club, a well-known organization here a half century ago. The initial meeting was held in Hibernian hall, and C. J. Curtis was elected temporary chairman and J. C. Clary was named temporary secretary. The committee on permanent organization was also appointed that night. Mr. Cowgill now has the pleasure of being engineer for the state game commission; he was appointed to that newly created position at the meeting of the state game commission held in Portland, May 12, 1931. His home is in Medford.

Prior to this appointment Mr. Cowgill had been in charge of engineering work in connection with fish screens, fishways and dams for several years. He studied engineering at Washington State college, and from 1925 to 1931 was field engineer for the Medford irrigation district. He also served as field engineer for the Medford water commission in charge of the location and construction of that city's new water system. From 1898 until 1910 Ralph Cowgill served with the justly famous and hard-working United States geological survey. When the World war came, Mr. Cowgill went into the service, with the engineering corps. He was stationed, with rank of captain, at Camp Humphreys, Virginia, during most of the period of the war. He is now a major in the Oregon National Guard.

In 1913 this native of stormy Dakota was married to Miss Mildred Byers, and their children are Ralph and Juanita. Captain Cowgill served as a member of the state house of representatives in the sessions of 1923, 1925 and 1927. His hobbies are outdoor sports, but one cannot help but think that he is also fond of organization meetings, as he is a member of the Masons, Knights of Pythias, Elks, American Legion and Sigma N. He is well known to all southern Oregon sportsmen, and is said to be able to name more good fishing holes than any other man of his weight in the state.

CIVIC LEAGUE TO HOLD PROHI MEET PHOENIX TUESDAY

E. A. Oldenburg

On Tuesday evening at 8:00 the Jackson County Civic league will meet at the Presbyterian church in Phoenix. If you are interested to help ward off the threatening calamity try to be there. Those in Medford who lack transportation but wish to go may come to the Y. W. C. A. by at least 7:30. Those who have room in their cars will also come to the Y.

Calmly think over the issue as already flamboyantly proclaimed by the wets and it becomes at once evident that much more is involved in the vote on the 18th Amendment than merely the question of wet or dry. In fact so much more is involved that however one may think of that question he will hesitate indeed before through his vote on July 21 he will call into power the unholy brood already leering around the corner.

Investigation will prove that in excess of $2,500,000,000 was spent each and every year by the American people for booze. To regain that tremendous graft is the primary business of the booze barons. Their cant about morality good or bad reminds of Christ's injunction: "Beware of the leven of the Pharisees." Were they to spend $500,000,000 to regain that trade they would consider it cheap. They are spending money like water to gain their nefarious end.

"Its influence upon national elections." One can almost see them grin as they try to feed people that hollow platitude. If anything corrupted politics it was the booze crowd. Let them get their way and there will be a little Tammany Hall in every administrative unit. Their very set-up in Jackson county is proof that they are trying their utmost to get control of its politics again.

Jackson county is "one of the best organized for the repeal." So they will tell every other county that it is best organized. It is a stock phrase used everywhere. At that it may be everywhere right, not because of local organization but because of the national and state organizations with unlimited means behind them. So they consider Jackson county already duly delivered.

That however clarifies the issue. It makes it distinctly a fight for Jackson county as far as the voters therein are concerned. Let every other county fight for itself. It is recorded that during the revolutionary war some folks said that they fought in the fear of God and some one answered: "Fear God but keep your powder dry." Let us fear God and keep Jackson county dry.

To do that you must be sure that you are properly registered in the office of the county clerk. June 21 is the last possible day to do that. You may have lived in the county all your life, but if you have changed precincts since your last registration you must register again. Many have not looked after that matter for some years and some have come of voting age. Do not neglect your registration.

Fear God and keep Jackson county dry.

NEW PROTECTION FOR BEEKEEPERS IN ADEQUATE LAW

Beekeepers in Oregon secured the passage of an adequate bee law at the last session of the legislature, and it is expected that apiarists in the state will be greatly aided by the new legislation. Bees, said to be of great assistance to fruit growers, in pollenizing the fruit blossoms, and also as food producers, are becoming one of the leading industries in this section, and many have become interested in apiaries.

Charles A. Cole is division chief of the state department of agriculture, division of plan industry, and George A. Stewart of Medford, deputy state bee inspector for Jackson, Klamath, Josephine, Douglas, Curry and Coos counties.

The brief of the new law follows:

CHAPTER 160, OREGON LAWS, 1933
Brief of Oregon Apiary Inspection Act.

"Apiary" includes bees, hives and appliances.

"Disease" shall mean American Foul-brood.

"Location" is premises upon which the apiary is located.

"Apiarist" is one who owns or keeps bees.

Unlawful to import into state bees or used appliances not accompanied by certificate of inspection.

Unlawful to place food containing honey in combless package of bees or queens offered for sale.

Bees moved from one county to another or from one location to another must be accompanied by an official certificate.

The apiary inspector shall make inspections of any or all apiaries in his district and plainly mark the hives containing diseased bees, if any, and serve a written notice of the findings on the owner or person in charge, who must eradicate such disease within time specified in notice. If disease is American Foul-brood, the time shall not be less than 24 hours nor more than 120 hours from time of serving notice. Eradication of American Foulbrood shall be by killing the bees in the marked hive and burning the diseased colonies, including the bees, brood, combs, frames, honey and wax in a pit and burying ashes no less than two feet deep and disinfecting the hives, bodies, bottom boards, covers and supers by scorching until slightly charred. Every such diseased apiary is hereby declared a public nuisance and if the owner can not be found or refuses to abate the nuisance, it shall be the duty of the inspector to abate the same in the manner above described.

The owner or bailee of an apiary may send in a written appeal from the inspector's field determination to the department, together with a specimen of diseased material chosen and sealed jointly by the inspector and owner or bailee and accompanied by a statement signed by both, that the sample was taken from the portion of apiary described in the abatement notice. The sample shall be subjected to a laboratory determination and the findings shall be final.

It shall be unlawful to sell or offer for sale bees or appliances infected with disease.

Unlawful to keep bees in immovable frame hives. Such bees shall be transferred or destroyed.

Every beekeeper shall register on or before the first day of March each year. The fee shall be 50 cents for the first 10 hives and 5 cents for each additional hive, provided no fee shall exceed $15.

Any person violating the provisions of this act or failing to comply with the notices issued thereunder is subject to a fine of $25.

FORMER MEDFORD MAN TRAINS TOTS FOR ORCHESTRAS

Interesting news of a former Medford man, Karl Moldrem, of whom much has been said in the music world, is found in the May issue of Reader's Digest. The article tells of the spread of his work in the organization of children's orchestras with which he has been dealing for the past 20 years.

In his New York infants' orchestra are 15 players, not one over six years old. One of the orchestra leaders is 23 months old. Mr. Moldrem, the article states, has founded 26 baby orchestras to 20 of which he gives his personal attention. There are in all about 400 children's orchestras in the United States, said to be the fruits of his idea.

His most famous children's orchestra was the one in Hollywood, which played at the estates of Chaplin, Fairbanks and other stars, and was put into the news-reels 24 times. In 1930 that orchestra, the Reader's Digest excerpt from The New Yorker states, gave 130 concerts for charity, with profits amounting to $130,000.

When Moldrem first started his orchestras it was impossible to get a violin in America smaller than half-size. Now more than 1000 of eighth and sixteenth sizes are sold every year.

COQUILLE, Ore., May 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Leda E. Parker of Klamath Falls was elected president of the Oregon Business and Professional Women's club which ended its annual convention here Saturday after selecting Portland as the 1934 meeting place.

Mrs. Dena Backes of Klamath Falls was elected recording secretary, and Mrs. Winifred R. Herrick of Salem, treasurer. The new officers were installed by Mrs. Edith Falbe of Roseburg, the retiring president.
