GOVERNORS FUND FINDING DEMAND IN MEIER REGIME

SALEM, Ore., May 31.—(UP)—The governor's special fund, which practically fell into a discard under I. L. Patterson and A. W. Norblad, is finding plenty of uses under Julius L. Meier.

The governor requested $20,000 for use in private investigations of various sorts for the biennium, but the legislature cut him to $10,000. He has spent $2,378.37 thus far in 1933.

Meier expended $7,186 for the 1931-32 biennium. Governors Patterson and Norblad used $1,851 in 1929-30, and Patterson spent $1,662 in 1927-28. Walter M. Pierce spent $4,000 and $3,990 during his two bienniums in the governor's chair.

The most important beneficiary of Meier's fund this year is George Black company, auditors. The company received $750 for going over the accounts of the bonus commission. Russ E. Custer, Salem attorney, got $700 for keeping watch of legislative bills for the governor. W. W. Ridehalgh, former superintendent of transportation, was paid $330 for special investigation during the legislature. He received $503.68 in 1931.

James P. Powers, Portland attorney, has received $300 in 1933 for services to the governor. In 1932, Powers was on Meier's payroll for $1,300, and in 1931, for $750. William Ehnig was paid $766.60 in 1931, prior to his appointment as state purchasing agent.

Among persons receiving money for expenses or salary from the special fund during the last two years are Ray W. Gill, state grange master; Victor P. Moses, county judge of Benton; A. W. Norblad; Mrs. Cornelia Marvin Pierce; and Hector McPherson, former Linn county legislator.
