DIPLOMACY HIDES REAL STORY BACK OF PEACE MOVES

learned the preceding Friday what Hitler had in mind. Mr. Roosevelt then started his message for the one big purpose of making Hitler go easy. That was the purpose and that was the result.

Every well informed foreign office in Europe knew what was happening. It may also be denied that the French were pulling out their hair about the matter. They actually sided up to our European field agent, Norman Davis in Paris and whispered that Hitler was about to touch off the European powder barrel. They said a crisis would be precipitated. They could not do anything about it but we could. They urged us to take action.

Their importunities may have had more influence but not much. We knew what was needed.

The reasons for connecting fairy tales about this thing now are obvious. The face of Mr. Hitler must be saved. His people must not be permitted to believe that an outside nation had any influence on him.

Also Mr. Roosevelt must not be subjected to a charge that he interfered in the internal affairs of another country.

The French were worse off after Mr. Roosevelt's message than before. What he sent them was not what they asked for. They wanted to stop Hitler but as usual they did not care to sacrifice much themselves.

The Roosevelt program called for them to sacrifice plenty. Our officials knew when the message was written that the French rely on the type of weapons Mr. Roosevelt sought to abolish. Their military strategy is based on big tanks and heavy artillery. No other nation uses such weapons to the extent they do.

The upshot of the thing was that Hitler wound up on our side and France was isolated in opposition to the world disarmament program.

If Mr. Hitler figured that out ahead of time he is smarter than anyone here will give him credit for.

It will not be news if Treasury Secretary Woodin retires in the fall. His job has been largely assumed by Budget Director Lewis Douglas.

There is a young man with a future. He is acting backstage in about the same capacity as Ogden Mills did during the last days of the Mellon rule. Woodin sits in the front office. Douglas does the work. Generally they see eye to eye.

If the time should ever come when they do not, the Douglas eye will prevail. Woodin's younger understudy is a fair-haired boy at the White House.

The underlying situation at the treasury was fully disclosed at the White House hearings on the public works bill.

Woodin was called to explain the bill. He merely introduced Douglas and then sat down. Douglas made a full statement of the administration position. He did not say Mr. Woodin thinks this or that. He used the word "it".

There was no doubt in the minds of those present as to who was the real treasury of treasury.

The speculative rumors about Woodin's resignation now always include the tip that Douglas will succeed him. That speculation is premature. Douglas will be very well satisfied to carry on under the present arrangement. The president may consider Douglas too young for the secretaryship. His hair shows no gray. That has always been considered a requisite for a major cabinet post.

Anyway the present arrangement is ideal for the time being. It will continue until Woodin decides to break it up. That may be three months or six or even longer.

Leakage in the state department has aroused inside commotion there. Secretary Hull is very much put out. He would like to know who tipped a press association ahead of time that Mr. Roosevelt was planning a world peace message. In a press conference the other day he offered $500 reward for the identity of the culprit.

Nobody said anything about Prof. Moley, but immediately after the Hull conference Moley called the newsmen into deny he had given out the information.

The finger of suspicion pointed toward Prof. Moley because he had been seen in conference with the newsmen who wrote the story only a short time before the story was written.

The truth is that the first tip on the message came from a New York financial source. Three days before the press association announced the news this source had information that Mr. Roosevelt was dispatching a note to Great Britain.

Quantity Recipes

Every now and then one finds oneself needing to plan a food service for a crowd, possibly twenty-five, fifty or seventy-five people. Perhaps it is a lodge gathering, large tea, civic entertainment, or some such affair, calling for quite a bit of cooperative planning. In any case you will be glad to have on file a list of good foundation recipes for serving large groups.

A few general rules help in estimating food quantities. One-half cupful is a good helping of many foods, unless they should happen to be the main course. In this group are cocktails, vegetables, buttered or creamed, salads, other than potato, baked beans, scalloped dishes, creamed meats or fish, puddings and stewed fruits. Multiply this by the number of persons to be served and you can come to a good idea of the exact amount to provide.

In buying roasts one-fourth pound is allowed for each person, altho in very large roasts, a little more will be realized since they cut to better advantage and there is less shrinkage in cooking. Two good sized chickens will serve twenty-five people with creamed chicken or chicken salad. For use in larger sections a chicken about four pounds dressed will serve six to eight persons.

Cakes and pies, baked in large, square pans cut to best advantage and are easy to handle. Two slices of bread or two rolls are usually allowed for each serving.

The following amounts will serve twenty-five persons.

- 1/4 pound of coffee.
- 1 1/2 pints cream.
- 1/2 cup sugar.
- 3 quarts of ice cream.
- 1/2 pound of butter.
- 1 gallon, potato salad.
- 1/2 gallon, vegetable or fruit salad.
- 1 pint salad dressing.
- 3 pounds meat loaf.
- 8 pounds baked ham.
- 1 pound cheese.
- 4-No 2 cans of corn.
- 4-No 2 cans of peas.
- 4-No 2 cans of string beans.
- 1/2 peck potatoes, mashed.
- 3 pints olives.
- 2 gallons of soup.
- 1 1/2 pounds, crackers.
- 1 sandwich loaf makes 25 sandwiches.
- 3 to 4 cups of filling will make 25 sandwiches.

INVITE FIRESTONE TO VISIT MEDFORD

Hearing that Harvey Firestone and party were in Portland yesterday the Chamber of Commerce wired C. L. Hopkins, local representative of the company, who was in the northern city, to extend an invitation for Mr. Firestone to come to Medford. This morning W. S. Bolger, president, received the following telegram:

"Mr. Firestone and party appreciate invitation to come to Medford as they have pleasant memories of last visit but it will be impossible to accept at this time, due to advance schedule. Leonard Firestone is planning a visit to Medford soon and will address members and business men at that time."

Some time ago Leonard Firestone accepted an invitation to come to Medford but has been unable to arrange his plans for the visit, but, according to the telegram, it is expected he will be here in the near future.

Come into the kitchen

Hester Heath chooses the "balanced" flour Pillsbury's Best

She will use it for all her baking during the Mail Tribune Cooking School, because she knows that "balanced" flour will work perfectly for anything she wants to bake, from bread to the most delicate pastry.

Sometimes you'll find a flour that works all right for bread, but not for pastry or biscuits. Sometimes you'll find one that's just the opposite—good enough for biscuits or pastry but no good for bread. These flours are not properly "balanced." Sometimes they are made of only one type of wheat. Pillsbury's Best is made of a blend of different types of fine wheat, "balanced" to work perfectly for anything you want to bake. Pillsbury's Best is best for bread, best for biscuits, best for pastry or cakes, best for anything you decide to bake. Come to the Cooking School, and see how perfectly it works!
