

MORGAN'S POSITIVE BANKING METHODS ARE WITHOUT SIN

any evidence. But however shadowy the connection it has had its uses. One Morgan partner has found a mournful solace. He told a friend: "They may ruin our business, but at least we'll take a lot of politicians with us if we sink."

The practice of cutting friends in on the ground floor of new issues was by no means confined to Morgan's. Nearly every house of issue has done it at some time. Usually no payments were called for until profits were already assured.

Local conservatives who opposed Roosevelt even before his nomination are now saying "I told you so." They think the investigation is pretty poor stuff and are convinced that it will backfire in the President's face. They simply cannot grasp the possibility that the new deal is more than a political trick.

Most local Republican leaders are delighted with investigation developments. They figure they can stick their thumbs in their eyes and watch ninety-odd congressional seats drift back to the O. P. in 1934 as a conservative protest. That would give them control of the house and embarrass Mr. Roosevelt's last two years considerably.

But one of the keenest of the Republicans says it will not be as simple as that. He estimates the balance of power will lie with 80 seats to be closely tested in selected districts.

In spite of Allied Chemical's apparent stubbornness you can get three to one it will yield enough to satisfy the Stock Exchange before the August 23 deadline for its eviction from the Big Board.

There is a reason for Allied Chemical's reticence about its security holdings that doesn't appear on the surface. The corporation has ambitions for an industrial empire of its own. For some months it has been quietly buying stocks in the open market to acquire control of several smaller corporations in varied lines. It doesn't want this activity to become public knowledge as yet and particularly doesn't want its DuPont competitors to find out about it. It would of course be denied officially by there is inside evidence that it is true.

Allied Chemical's stock market operations are more carefully guarded than those of almost any other trader. It keeps the identities of its brokers carefully concealed and none of its agents knows what the others are doing.

FIND BURIED AUTO ON MOUNTAINSIDE

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 2.—(AP)—A new kind of mystery confronted the sheriff of Clark county today. It centered around the discovery yesterday of an automobile which for eight years had lain buried in a shallow pit on the northeast slope of Green mountain.

The automobile, a large, expensive touring car, was obviously new when it was hidden in the pit. The entire chassis had been sawed in two. The top, wheels and tires were missing. The car bore 1928 Washington license plates, No. 181-493. The car (a Cadillac) was sold new in that year.

Workmen who were clearing land on the slopes of Green mountain made the discovery yesterday. Sheriff R. E. McCrite, who has communicated with license bureau officials at Olympia in an attempt to solve the mystery, said those who have worked on the case have found no explanation as to why the car was buried in the lonely spot.

Sale of the Post was ordered recently in the District of Columbia supreme court on account of financial difficulties. It has been operated by a receiver for some time but he reported he was unable to make the paper show a profit.

BOY SCOUTS SEEK APPLGATE CAMP

Following definite decision not to open the Scout camp at Lake of the Woods, necessitated by lack of funds, plans have been started to provide a camp on the Applegate, where Boy Scouts of Medford and neighboring towns can enjoy an outing and Scout activities this summer. Larry Schade announced today. As soon as all details of the camp provision are worked out all the troops will be notified. A wonderful opportunity for camp life at a very minor expense will be offered the boys, according to the program underway. Scouting activities throughout the district have been progressing well during the past two weeks. Mr. Schade stated today in spite of the very limited funds. Northern California conducted a successful grand day last week and Ashland and Grants Pass had well attended courts of honor.

Compare Schilling

Mix a thin paste of Schilling Mustard and water in a cup. Do the same with some other kind. Smell the aroma from both. Note the difference in strength. The reasons: A mustard seed contains two oils—one a flavor oil—the other flavorless. Most of the flavorless oil can be removed, leaving the flavor oil concentrated in the ground mustard. Schilling does it.
