

TWO CCC CAMPS DESIGNATED FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Pistol River and Ingram Given Special Personnel—Lumber Supplies Going to Sites Within Area

Pistol River camp, F-48, and Ingram camp, F-49, have been designated as veterans' camps in the civilian conservation corps program for the Southern Oregon district, it was announced at headquarters yesterday, following receipt of radio message from the commander general of the ninth corps area. It was also made known that Elk Creek camp, F-37, will be reserved for a special company.

Athletic equipment costing about $150 per camp is to be purchased for Silver Creek camp, Agness camp and Applegate camp. Each of the will also have a permanent library. It was revealed, and books are expected to be shipped directly to the camps from the east. A traveling library will be established for each of the nine camps.

Men Enrolled
All men between the ages of 18 and 25, to be placed in camps in this district, have been enrolled. Lieutenant Geo. A. A. Jones has announced. The last quotas included ten young men enrolled at Cliff Springs, 50 Curry county and seven, Coos county at Agness.

Wednesday Major Clare H. Armstrong, in command of this district, and E. Solinsky, superintendent of Crater national park, conferred with the chamber of commerce officials at Klamath Falls.

Lumber Delivered
Lumber supplies have been delivered to Camps Ingram, Cliff Springs, Applegate and Agness, Captain William H. Sadler, quartermaster, said, and arrangements have been completed for sending material immediately to 11 more camps as soon as word is received that the men are coming. Captain Sadler said that large food bids had not been let as yet, but that necessary supplies are being purchased all the time from bidders, mostly local merchants.

Major Armstrong said about nine cadres are expected in this district from Vancouver in the next five or six days.

EUGENE, Ore., June 8.—(AP)—A special train carrying 2000 young men from mid-western states was rushing westward Thursday from Fort Crook, Neb., and Leavenworth, Kan., with Eugene and Roseburg as its destinations.

The men will make up the civilian construction corps personnel of 10 camps in the Eugene district. Official confirmation on the plans for the 10 camps was received Thursday by Major Charles Corlett, commander of the Eugene district, from Major General Mallin Craig, commander of the ninth corps area.

The train is made up of 18 cars and will arrive in Eugene either Saturday night or early Sunday morning. The men have already been conditioned and will be taken directly to the camps upon arrival here.
