Has Tonals Removed—Kenneth Cation had his tonals removed Tuesday at the Community hospital.

For Medical Care—H. L. Wells of the Wells Taxi company, is a patient at the Sacred Heart hospital for medical care.

Losses Chow Dog—Florence Dix of Seattle filed a report with police of the loss of her Chow dog in this city. The lost dog is red with a black muzzle and without a collar.

Railroad Man Here—George H. Kilborn, train master for the Southern Pacific, is in Medford today, attending to business matters in this district for the railway company.

Tuesday Shoppers—Miss Laura Burson of Phoenix was shopping at the department store yesterday. Mrs. L. Hatfield of Central Point was also a caller yesterday.

Medford Man in Town—D. C. Tyree of the investment department of the Copco in Medford, was in town transacting business Monday afternoon.—Grants Pass Courier.

Trout are Biting—Reports from the streams in the vicinity of Diamond lake bring news to Medford that the fish are biting. Several fine catches of trout were brought in from that section Sunday.

Miss Carlon Better—Patricia Carlon, who sustained severe injuries in an auto crash Saturday night, was reported in a much improved condition today and was expected to leave the Community hospital soon.

Englehardt at Trial—Professor Englehardt, farmer of the Long Mountain district, was among people from out of town attending the trial of Walter J. Jones, mayor of Rogue River, today.

Roland in City—Hugh B. Roland of St. Joseph, Mo., representative of an eastern clothing house, was a business visitor in Medford this morning, predicting better times for the clothiers and everybody else.

Routine Transferred—Ray Rutledge has been transferred from the local territory of the Standard Oil company of California to the Stockton, Cal., headquarters. His position here will be filled by Mr. Crockdale.

Van Dorens Return—Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Van Dore, whose wedding was a recent social event in Eugene, have arrived in Medford to make their home, where Mr. Van Dore is engaged as an architect.

Police Dog Bites Boy—Alfred Randles of 814 West Second street, paper boy, has been bitten three times by a police dog at Iverson court, according to the report filed today by his father at the police station. Police are investigating the case.

Unemployed to Meet—There will be a meeting of the Medford Association of the Unemployed Thursday night at the court house auditorium, convening at 8 o'clock. All members are asked to attend the regular session.

Miss Reynolds Better—Friends in this city of Miss Dorothy Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Reynolds, of the Holland Hotel, are glad to hear that her condition is some improved, according to a wire yesterday from Portland, where she is being treated.

Strange Lily Displayed—A black calla lily, grown by Mrs. N. S. Young of 809 North Riverside, is on display today at the Chamber of Commerce.

It is an immense flower with huge purple petals, surrounding in regular lily fashion black center spike. The leaves also display an immense growth.

Smith Fined $15—H. A. Smith was fined $15 in city court today for reckless driving of which he was found guilty as a result of the crash Saturday night, in which Patricia Carlon sustained injuries. Because of the nature of the case, Smith was fined the small amount, although found guilty of the charge.

Window Blinds Torn—Two little boys appeared in the police station this morning to answer a charge of destroying window blinds in the home of Mrs. Frances Hollis, at 425 S. Main street. Both had tears in their eyes and were apparently not enjoying their stay in custody. Complaint was filed at the police station by Mrs. Hollis.

"Two-Faced Flower"—A very interesting specimen was brought to the Chamber of Commerce today from the garden of Mrs. R. H. Emerson, Route 4. It is a gherardia with two faces. It also has two stems, all in one. The flower, which evidently started out to be two flowers, has combined its resources and fails to show any back side. Turning the stem, which is very thick, the viewer is confronted with just another face, forming what is usually the back side of the blossom.

Mrs. Forgy III—Mrs. Martha Forgy of Marie street is receiving treatment at the Sacred Heart hospital today.

Shopping Today—Mrs. J. Sanford Richardson of Beall Lane was shopping in Medford this morning, accompanied by her son, Donald.

Has Tonals Out—Mrs. W. F. Love, underwent an operation at the Community hospital this morning for removal of her tonals.

Mrs. Woodill Improved—Friends of Mrs. Roy Woodill, wife of the manager for Blake Moffatt and Towne paper company, will be glad to learn that she is getting along nicely following an operation at the Community hospital.

FRANKIE RINABARGER SUFFERS INJURY IN BIKE-CAR COLLISION

Frankie Rinabarger, 14, daughter of H. E. Rinabarger of 841 East Main street, is in the Sacred Heart hospital today, receiving treatment for lacerations and other injuries, resulting from a crash on Oakdale last night, when her bicycle collided with an auto driven by Melva Parrett. The little girl received several broken ligaments of the left knee, and numerous cuts and scratches. According to the report filed at the police station by Miss Parrett, she was driving her car down King, turning into Oakdale, when she noticed two bicycles in the street. She swerved to avoid hitting them and crashed into a third, she had not seen. It was driven by the Rinabarger girl. On the other bicycles were Peggy Reter and Kathleen Dillard. The condition of Miss Rinabarger was reported as slightly improved at the hospital this afternoon. Following the accident, police today issued a warning to children and all other persons, who are taking up cycling as a pastime, to be careful, when driving at night. Unlighted bicycles cannot be seen by motorists and future accidents are feared if more care is not used by all cyclists.

RELIEF MONEY FOR OREGON AUTHORIZED

HOT WEATHER HINT HOISTS WHEAT PRICE

CHICAGO, June 21.—(AP)—Indications of a return of hot weather in the northwest did much to give a strong upward slant to wheat and other cereals today. Unfavorable crop reports were a dominating factor, with spring wheat advice bullish both as to American and Canadian prospects. There was also an increased disposition to consider winter wheat damage, especially adverse reports from Illinois and Indiana.

BIRTHS

Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Conner of Trail, a daughter, last night at the Community hospital. SERVICE STATION NEAR POSTOFFICE WILL BE REBUILT Adding to the building activity at Sixth and Holly streets where Fluhrer's fine new bakery is now under construction, workmen are busy dismantling the old Post Office Service station. This old station will be replaced by attractive new station and service buildings which will be operated by Rod Waters, under the name of Waters Auto service. Construction will begin immediately on a cement tile building, approximately 70 feet by 25 feet, which will house the wash and lubrication racks, tire sales and service department and the battery and electric department. The station will be closed for a few days while this construction work is under way, according to Rod Waters. As soon as alterations are completed on the station itself, gasoline and oils will be again on sale while the service building is under construction. Gilmore gasoline and motor oils will be exclusively featured by the Waters Auto service with a complete line of Federal tires and tubes. Announcement of the battery line has not been made.

Lowd, relative to Lowd's car being at Jones' home on the night of the ballot robbery, with stolen ballots. He also denied he had helped Wesley McKittrick get the pitch, "to make the ballots burn better." Hugg also entered a sweeping denial to the state's testimony concerning his role. Mrs. Pomeroy Testifies Bearing a Bible and a copy of L. A. Banks' paper, printed on green paper, Mrs. Ariel Burton Pomeroy of the Old Stage road district was called as a witness for the defense. Mrs. Pomeroy testified that Wesley McKittrick, one of the "Banks guards" who has entered a plea of guilty to ballot theft, told her on or about February 10, last, in the "News" office: "The gang has offered me $2000 to double-cross 'Papa' Banks, but I would die before I would do it."

Mrs. Pomeroy said she remembered the conversation with McKittrick. Under cross-examination, Mrs. Pomeroy admitted she had signed bonds for many ballot theft defendants, and "that she had been a worker in the 'congress from the start.'" "You were interested in all the defendants in this case, and in the defense of each," Attorney Moody asked the witness. Ordered to Answer Mrs. Pomeroy insisted on answering, "I was interested in justice." Finally under the orders of the court, after three attempts, the witness admitted that she was. The court also sustained the state's objections to a number of Mrs. Pomeroy's volunteer comments.

R. C. Pinkston testified that he was a Thompson creek farmer, and testified that he formerly lived in Coquille, Ore., and that the reputation of the Sexton brothers was "bad." Pinkston admitted he had lived here three months, and "was migratory," and "a jack of all trades," working as a harvest hand, oil company employee, and lumberman in various sections. Mrs. Ellis Jones, wife of the defendant, testified that no one called, as state witnesses testified on the night of the ballot stealing, as "I would have heard them if they had." She declared her daughter, Hugg, her son-in-law, and herself were "light sleepers," but "Mr. Jones is a sound sleeper."

The wife also testified that the family dog was given to "barking at strangers, and nipping them." The witness said the dog was a "good dog," and when the family returned was accustomed to "joyful barking." She had no distinct recollection of the dog barking, except when they returned home from the "congress" at midnight on the night of the ballot theft. Mrs. Jones was positive that the dog would have barked had Laddie, Edington, and McKittrick come to the Jones home on the night state witnesses testified they did, with stolen ballots in the rear of Deputy Sheriff Phil Lowd's auto, that Laddie barrowed.

Mrs. Jones testified the dog had been poisoned. The defense in the trial of Walter H. Jones, mayor of Rogue River, charged with ballot theft, introduced a dozen witnesses at the Tuesday afternoon session, tending to show that Jones and County Judge Fehi were at the home of Fehi in this city, eating supper, at the time state witnesses testified they were on the ground floor of the courthouse discussing ballot theft plans with the Sexton Brothers, Charles W. (Chuck) Davis, Tom Brechen, and former County Jailor John Glenn.

Mrs. Electa A. Fehi, Mrs. Lee Hugg, daughter of Jones, and her husband, Jack Hugg, a roomer at the Fehi home, and Delbert Fehi, Jr., a nephew of the county judge, testified that they sat down to supper in the Fehi home, about 7:30 o'clock on the evening of the ballot theft, and that Jones, Fehi and Jones' son-in-law arrived at the courthouse between 8:00 o'clock and five minutes past that hour; that Jones went to the first floor corridor, and Fehi to his office to get a law book.

A half dozen state witnesses, including Joe Daniels, janitor, testified that Fehi and Jones were on the courthouse first floor corridor, at the time of the alleged Fehi supper gathering. Serving of the supper was delayed, the witness said, by Fehi saying "he was going over to Enright's." Mrs. Fehi testified that she and Mrs. Hugg arrived at the Fehi home shortly after six o'clock, and that her husband and Jones arrived about 6:45 o'clock. Henrietta B. Martin testified that on the night of the ballot robbery she had asked Jones to keep watch outside the courthouse, because "we had heard the rumor that Leonard Hall and a group were going to throw stink bombs."

Mrs. Martin, as president of the "Good Government Congress" acted as chairman, and testified the meeting was late in convening and the reading of the minutes was dispensed with. Mrs. Martin was subjected to a long cross-examination, on minor details of the incidents of the evening, particularly on the members of her party on the platform, and the course they took in reaching Van Weegen's car, parked in the rear of the courthouse, and their means of getting to and from the meeting. Mrs. Martin said she noticed nothing wrong with the vault window, when she passed after the meeting. Parents Corroborate Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Brown, called as witnesses, each corroborated their daughter, Mrs. Martin, as to time and events, and testified the "congress" took place on the platform with Mrs. Martin, early in the meeting. Lee Hugg, son-in-law of Jones, who lives at his home, denied that he had seen La Dieu, Virgil Edington or Wesley McKittrick at the Jones home in the early morning after the vote stealing. He also denied that he had told Deputy Sheriff Lowd, "I saw your cat at Rogue River yesterday morning," that he had a conversation with Lowd in the sheriff's office, or that he had helped cut pitch kindling with McKittrick.

Lowd testified that Hugg told him he had seen his car in Rogue River the morning of the crime, and had repeated the conversation with Hugg in his presence, to Suspended Sheriff Schermershorn and Jones in the sheriff's office. Edington and McKittrick testified that with La Dieu they had driven to Jones' home on the night of the vote stealing, and asked him for advice on the disposition of the ballots, and he had advised them to burn them at McKittrick's parents' home, and that Hugg had helped McKittrick cut some pitch "to make the ballots burn better."

Malkemus Planned Frank. Edwin L. Malkemus, who made the motion to dispense with the reading of the minutes at the "Congress," testified to that effect and that when the session got under way he crawled out the ante-room window to play a joke on some "newspaper reporters" on the outside. He never perpetrated the joke. He said he made the rounds of the courthouse, and saw four or five men near the vault. He could not identify them. "You met some around the courthouse, who were not willing to go to the rear of the courthouse with you?" Malkemus was asked. He answered in the affirmative, but a defense objection to further explanation of the event was sustained.

Frank C. May, keeper of a service station near Rogue River testified he had sold the R. C. Cummings family some wood on a check signed by George A. Coddling for $3.

Cummings was a state witness, and it was his job, along with the "Congress" cheering, that the state holds downed the sound of clattering glass when the vault window was smashed. S. H. Iverson corroborated previous testimony that Jones had passed him on the way home, on the Pacific Highway.
