

KARASICK WINNER WHEN BELCASTRO GOES THRU ROPES

Falls came fast and furious in last night's mat encounter between Al Karasick, the Russian Lion of Portland, and Pete Belcastro, ambitious young Sacramento grappler, at the armory. A wise head, backed by years of mat experience, spelled defeat for the Italian, who lost the first and second falls. Steve Anderson, local wrestler, defeated Pat King of Seattle two out of three falls in the preliminary.

Belcastro lost no time in opening a determined attack on the burly Russian. He started out with headlocks but, due to brute strength, Belcastro was thrown on the floor time and again by a simple twist of the neck. The Italian began a vicious kicking program on the face and body and the Russian took it and gave it back to the youthful Belcastro. Karasick was forced to crawl under the ropes once or twice when pressure of a leg split was not at all comfortable.

Twice before the first fall Belcastro called time out to retire to the dressing room to repair damaged trunks, suffering from the playful antics of the Russian. Karasick became a little impatient with the Italian. He clamped on a headlock, another and another until Belcastro became hopelessly groggy. A few minutes before both wrestlers had tumbled out of the ring and were parted on the floor, where they struggled amid chairs and the rest of spectators. With his sense of direction lost and thinking dulled, the Italian lost the first fall in fifteen minutes.

Belcastro came back strong and started a butting campaign, smashing Karasick around the ring several times. In two and one-half minutes Karasick was down.

Belcastro started the same procedure for the third fall. He struck Karasick twice and on the third but missed the Russian and went headlong through the ropes. He was hit by the Russian, the latter struck him on the jaw, dazing him so badly Belcastro was counted out while prostrate on the floor.

A hammerlock lost Anderson the first fall to King, in seven minutes, but Steve came back to take the second fall in two minutes and the third in ten minutes. King gave Anderson a hard workout, but lacked the strength possessed by the latter. Anderson challenged Belcastro to an early bout and it was also announced Sonnenberg is to appear in the local ring in a short time.

TWO BASEBALL GAMES JACKSONVILLE SUNDAY

JACKSONVILLE, June 22.—(Sp.)—There will be a treat for baseball fans Sunday when the Jacksonville midgets meet the Table Rock midgets at 12:30. This is the midgets' first real game of the season and is expected to be hard fought as the little fellows have been working hard for the last three weeks under direction of Joe Nee.

After the midgets' game the Jacksonville Miners will play Table Rock a return game, having lost Sunday's game to Table Rock at Bama Valley, 8 to 7.

Sharkey Boasts Will Kayo Primo In Ten Rounds

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, once more the furious, venomous fighter in the ring and the "Carrulous Gob" out of it, has put a 10-round limit on his 15-round title defense against Primo Carnera June 29. "You saw that," he said yesterday after battering two of his sparring partners around the ring yesterday. "You saw me winging 'em, eh? Well, you guessed what it means all right. I'm showing how old I am. Ten rounds is about all it will take. I had Carnera down the first time I fought him. He won't get up this time. Ten, do you hear me?"

WONG AND STAHL GRAPPLE TO DRAW

PORTLAND, Ore., June 22.—(AP)—Richard Stahl of Berlin and Wong Bock Cheung, Chicago Chinese, wrestled two hours to a draw in the main event of last night's grappling matches here. Stahl, at 218, had an eight-pound advantage over his opponent.

The two wrestled for an hour and a minutes before Stahl managed to take the first fall, with an arm scissors. It was another 41 minutes be-

Champ and Challenger

After weeks of hard work, the principals in the big heavyweight fracas at New York June 23 are approaching the peak of condition. At left is Primo Carnera, the vast one from Italy, out for a bit of road work and carrying his 260 pounds lightly. Champion Jack Sharkey of Boston tucks up his footwork with a round of rope-skipping at the right.

LOUGHRAN IN COMEBACK DECISIONS STEVE HAMAS

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, the old master of ring strategy, is back in the fight limelight again. He no longer is regarded as a contender for championships of any kind, but after being regarded as "all through" half a dozen times since he was knocked out by Jack Sharkey four years ago, he has returned to the "big time" and big crowd with a 10-round decision over his old rival, Steve Hamas.

Carrying on a quiet comeback campaign, Tommy staged perhaps the greatest comeback of them all before 10,000 excited fans at the Yankee stadium last night. For eight rounds he barely staved off the rushes of the fiery Wellington, N. J., youngster, absorbing quite a bit of punishment. He gave Hamas a lesson in the use of the straight arm, such as Steve never received on the Penn State football field, poking his left into Hamas' face with almost monotonous regularity, but that wasn't quite enough. Then in the ninth, bleeding from cuts over both eyes and apparently not far from a knockout, Loughran suddenly switched from boxing to fighting. He rocketed Hamas' head back with hard rights and lefts, slugged and swatted on even terms and won the last two rounds and a close decision.

The triumph over Hamas, who knocked him out less than two years ago, while it only evened the series at two victories, provided something of a climax for Loughran's latest bid for a place among the leading lightfore Cheung could even the match. He won the second fall with a Mandchurian choke hold. The two-hour time limit expired before either could produce the deciding fall. Walter Podolak, 208, Syracuse, won two falls out of three to take the semi-windup from Harry Demetral, 198, Chicago. George Nelson, 215, Ogden, Utah, won the opener from Nore Jerlstrom, 210, Chicago, taking a fall in the third and final round.

GONZAGA COACH HERE AS GUEST OF REDDY

M. J. "Mike" Pecarovich, head football coach at Gonzaga university and John Masterson, publicity director, were Medford visitors yesterday, guests of John Reddy, former Gonzaga student.

Pecarovich, whose name was prominently mentioned in the Oregon State coaching selection last winter, was en route to his home in Los Angeles from the coast conference meeting in Spokane last week.

Masterson, who recently completed a program of sport broadcasts over KGA, the last of which featured an interview with Prink Callison, University of Oregon and former Medford high school coach, will spend two weeks in Medford after which, with Reddy, he will join the coach in Los Angeles and continue to Chicago for the world's fair.

PLAYER TRADES IN NATIONAL LEAGUE PROVE PROFITABLE

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer. The last minute trades by which several National League clubs endeavored to gain strength for the mid-season struggles appears, at first glance, to have panned out exceedingly well.

Notable among them was the switch which sent Lefty O'Doul to the New York Giants and Sam Leale to the Brooklyn Dodgers, but the Boston-Philadelphia deal, involving Pinkie Whitney, Hal Lee, Wes Schulmerich and Fritz Knothe also seems to have been beneficial to both teams.

O'Doul, who wasn't hitting at all with the Dodgers, again made himself an important figure with the bat yesterday when, for the second time since the June 15 trade, he paced the New Yorkers to a victory that helped them hold the lead in the elder circuit. Lefty made two hits as the Giants downed the Chicago Cubs 3-1. One was a home run that put New York ahead to stay.

Leale's clouting already has won a couple of games for the Dodgers. Whitney, the leading figure in the trade between the Braves and the Phillies, got a new job at second base yesterday when the veteran Rabbit Maraville was benched and Dick Gyselman was put in at third. He not only filled the bill ably but he walloped three hits and batted in five runs as the Braves took both ends of a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-5 and 5-3.

The Phil's new acquisitions, Schulmerich and Knothe, batted in six of the ten runs Philadelphia scored in the sixth and seventh innings to beat Cincinnati 10-8.

Mr. Gribble Leaves—John E. Gribble, recreational supervisor for Lake of the Woods, who is in the employ of the forest service, is leaving today for the lake, where he plans to remain for the summer.

EGAN TO DEFEND P. N. A. GOLF HONOR

VICTORIA, B. C., June 22.—(UP)—Added next to the 35th annual Pacific Northwest golf championship next week came today with word that H. Chandler Egan, defending champion, of Medford, Or., will bid for his sixth title over the links of the Victoria golf club at Oak bay.

The brilliant stylist, former national amateur champion, won his fifth title last year at Alderwood Country club in Portland.
