Fehl Wants to Campaign

COUNTY JUDGE FEHL again requests a "recall election" on July 21st so he can take the stump and tell the people about the "most corrupt political organization that has ever been permitted to exist since the crucifixion of Christ."

Many issues of vital importance to this community and the state are to be voted upon July 21st. We believe they should be decided on their merits, and not be scrambled and clouded by such a recall election as the county judge suggests. Let the state election be held, as far as possible in an atmosphere free from local dissension and strife.

WE oppose the recall of Judge Fehl four or five weeks hence for another reason. He is a defendant in the ballot cases now being tried. In all probability his trial will come up during this period, in which, if his request is granted, he would be engaged in his personal political campaign.

We don't believe the two events would work either to Judge Fehl's benefit, or to the benefit of the people of Jackson county. As a defendant charged with a very serious crime, we should fear his style, as a campaigner would be seriously cramped, for during a trial, we believe the law provides the defendant should be present in court. We don't believe even our resourceful county judge, could successfully have his day in court, and his nights on the political stump, at one and the same time.

In fact under the circumstances we fail to see why Judge Fehl should be so anxious to have his recall at the same time as his trial. It appears to us—and we believe will appear to the people of Jackson county,—as a most extraordinary request!

OUR county judge further desires an immediate decision regarding this recall so he can "canvass Jackson county a few days and tell the people just what he knows about the inner workings of the gang."

But Judge Fehl has been telling the people of Jackson county about the inner workings of this so-called Medford GANG, for the past 15 or 20 years. And if since his election, he has been doing anything but "canvass" the outlying districts and attending meetings of the Good Government congress, then we would like to know what it is.

We fail to see why he needs a special recall election, to enlarge his operations in this direction.

MOREOVER we should suppose a public official, holding such a responsible position as Judge Fehl, facing such serious charges as he faces, would first want the truth or falsity of those charges cleared up before he goes before the people, and asks them to retain him in office.

Until the people of Jackson county know, just what part Judge Fehl took in this raid on the court house and the burning of the ballots,—or did not take,—how can they be expected to vote intelligently upon the issue, his recall election would present?

We are surprised that such a firm believer in democracy and the orderly processes of our established government as Judge Fehl, should call upon the people of this community to vote, so completely in the dark.

MORE than that we should think, Judge Fehl would not only PREFER to have his recall come after the charges against him had been cleared up, but would INSIST upon it.

For until these charges are cleared up, his public record certainly rests under a cloud. If he was in no way involved in these ballot thefts, the people will feel one way about them, if he WAS involved, they will feel quite another. Only his trial, under the rules of the proper court, NOT a stump-speaking campaign, can determine this important fact.

He Had His Chance

WE don't know what "powers" informed the county judge at the time of his induction into office, that at the end of six months he would be "called upon to face a recall."

Our own recollection is that at the time of his election, few men ever accorded important office in this county had a BETTER chance to make good.

Even those who opposed him in the election, were disposed to abide by the verdict at the polls—(which was generally assumed to have been legal and regular in every way)—and give the county judge-elect, a free hand, in demonstrating that in believing him unfit to hold public office, they were MISTAKEN.

It was only subsequent events that changed this attitude,—and for his present predicament, and for the constantly increasing public sentiment against him, County Judge Fehl, has ONLY HIMSELF TO BLAME!

The Law on the Recall

FINALLY Judge Fehl is willing to resign at once, and leave the final verdict to the people at the election July 21st.

But, if a county judge resigns, his place must be filled immediately by the governor. In other words if Judge Fehl resigns now he loses his job.

If a recall petition is filed against a county judge, he is given five days in WHICH to resign, if he refuses to do so, then the recall election must be held within 20 days.

Having been so anxious for a recall election these many months, we are surprised Judge Fehl failed to have the preliminaries attended to himself, when he saw there was no disposition to do so, DURING THE PROGRESS OF THE BALLOT CASES, by others.

GROW YOUR OWN ARCH PROPS

A great deal of foot misery may be prevented or cured by the simplest means. Going barefoot at every opportunity is one means. Wearing the proper shoes rather than the shoes the salesman urges on you is another. Walking always so that your feet point in the same direction as the toes when you walk, is another. Doing some exercises with the feet bare or in stocking feet is another way to enjoy foot comfort.

Children in their early "teens" or younger are quite likely to have protruded feet, (weak ankles), especially when their physical education is neglected or left to chance. This is functional, potential or static flatfoot and if not wisely treated may eventually develop into rigid flatfoot which is a permanent deformity amenable only to surgical reconstruction of the foot. This common weakness in the child's feet is largely a matter of faulty nutrition, poor general health, but general hygiene, it is a serious mistake to subject a child or an older person with static or functional flatfoot or "falling arches" to any kind of prop, support or mechanical appliance on the feet without medical supervision. If the family physician is not prepared to deal with this common foot disability and the general health impairment which underlies it, he will at least refer the patient to an orthopedic surgeon—that is a physician who devotes attention exclusively to deformities and diseases of the bones and joints and form and posture. Do not be tricked by self-commended "foot specialists" who prey on gullible customers of second rate shoe stores.

Besides the habit of walking with feet parallel or even toeing in a bit, which every one should curb, the person with weak or painful feet should wear only shoes that favor this natural walk, that is, shoes having straight inside sole lines, responsibly wide soles or toes, and the lower the heels the better. For children under 16 the shoes should have no heels at all.

Following are some exercises which are beneficial for any one with weak protruded or early flatfoot:

1. Sit with bare or stockings feet on floor parallel and six inches apart. Raise the inner border of the feet from 10 to 20 times without rolling the knees outward.
2. Stand on the edge of stair or a thick plank with toes protruding over the edge. In pigeon-toed position. Flex or turn toes inward with a hard pull on the muscles of the sole at the extreme point of flexion. Repeat this 10 to 20 times.
3. Sitting with one foot crossed and resting on other knee, turn the foot upward and downward 10 to 20 times. Repeat with other foot.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 So Garlic Has Virtues?
 I wish to eat garlic for the health benefits. But even if I take it only just before going to bed, the odor and taste is present in my mouth late the next day. Can you tell me of a formula for some mouth wash or gargle to prevent the odor. If you don't help me some of my friends will help me out. (H. W.)

Answer—I know of no such formula. Isn't it just a joke, about the "health benefits" of garlic?
 Kindly tell me what bland fruit juices are, and how to make jellies from bland fruit juices. (Mrs. D. B.)
 Answer—I dunno. I should say the most palatable of all fruit jellies is made from a fruit that is not so bland—currants. But who cares whether the jelly is made from bland fruit juice, if the jelly is good to eat?

Please tell me how to get rid of centipedes. (Mrs. C. A.)
 Answer—Write your congressman or the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C. for free Bulletin No. 627 on The House Centipede. Other free bulletins are "House Ants" No. 740, The Silverfish or "Blicker" No. 982, The Bedbug, No. 754, Methods of Destroying Lice, No. 293, Mosquitoes, No. 444, The House Fly, No. 851.

The federal department of agriculture also has a free bulletin about an improved fumigant for moths, but I haven't the number or name of this one.

 They still work away upon the cathedral of St. John the Divine, a job requiring more than 20 years and still unfinished. I stopped in the other dusk and felt the affection churches invariably extend pilgrims. A kindly, deaf verger—a double for George Arliss sans monocle—detached from a group to offer service, I told him I just wanted to ramble. "I understand," he said, and tip-toed away.

Near the great church I tumbled upon a contrasting mood. A shirt-sleeved pipe-smoker was sitting a white poodle on a leash. A plus-foured owner of a police dog coming toward him, allowed his charge loose. The master of the poodle called to him to put his dog on leash. Like most police dog owners, he wanted to show perfect control and did not heed. The poodle received a nip in the hind-quarters and plus fours a beautiful sock in the jaw. And did I go skipping down the lane!

Judge Fehl Wants Recall.
 To the Editor:
 As judge of your county, I assumed the duties of my office on the 2nd day of January, A. D., 1933, at which time I was notified by the powers that would control Medford and Jackson county that at the expiration of six months after I assumed the duties of this office, I would be called upon to face a recall election. Since that time and during the six months, I have accepted without protest the libelous, slanderous utterances of the infamous presses of Jackson county relative to my duties as a public official and as a private citizen. Now that this is the last time that I will be able to come before you through the press before the expiration of my six months' tenure in office, I am taking this opportunity of reaffirming my statements heretofore made to the public in regard to my position.

I have heretofore stated and now affirm that I stand ready and willing to submit my resignation as county judge of Jackson county, subject to a vote of the people of said county, which resignation can be made available at any time that I am assured of an election being had, and inasmuch as there is a special election to be held on July 21, I can see no reason why my qualifications for this office cannot be voted upon at that time. It means I am willing to waive my constitutional rights and my statutory rights and submit my resignation for this office, subject to a vote of the people on the day of July 21st. Now I am publicly asking those who desire my position to accept this proposition. I am also publicly asking the press of Jackson county, which is so fully arrayed against me, to now use their supposedly assumed power with the electorate in bringing about this procedure. All that I ask is that this offer be accepted immediately in order to give me a few days to canvass Jackson county and to personally and publicly tell the good people of Jackson county just what I know about the inner workings of the gang in Jackson county by my six months' experience as county judge. After having been accorded this privilege, I am content to wait for the verdict of the people of Jackson county as a whole because I would be just as well pleased by having the people of Jackson county know the facts and be retired by them from public office as I would be to sit in this position under present conditions and watch the exploitations of the rights of the citizens of Jackson county by the most corrupt political organization that has ever been permitted to exist since the time of the crucifixion of Christ.

Britain Starts War on City Slums; London's East End Hard Problem

By OSCAR LEIDING
 LONDON—(AP)—London's dens of dirt and disease are the country's knottiest problem in a five-year effort to wipe the slums from the national scene.
 Every community has been given until September 30 by the minister of health to survey its unhealthy areas and submit a program for complete abolition by 1938—with only London allowed any extra grace.
 Must Seek Land Room
 The world's largest city thinks it needs a little grace not only because of the relative size and extent of its sore spots but because the populations of those districts are dense and there is no spare land.
 All slum clearance here must be based on the re-housing of displaced peoples. Since they are poor and many need to cling to their locality to be near what work they can get, they resist attempts to move them to suburban areas.
 Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, is authority for one story reflecting the philosophy of slum dwellers refusing to be displaced.
 "A rat in an 'ole," a dweller told him in his vernacular, "is better than a rat out of an 'ole."
 East End Districts Worst
 So complex is the city's problem that not even the London county council, which has charge of clearance and re-housing, can say exactly the full extent of the congested areas.
 The worst district, the council says, stretches northward in a broad belt from Limehouse and the Thames dock area into the boroughs of Stepney, Bethnal Green, Shoreditch, and Finsbury.
 The first three are the heart of London's infamous East End, containing Whitechapel and rank on rank of "back-to-back" dwellings, damp and ill-lighted basement caves, and small rooms housing whole families.
 Tightly Packed Populations
 Shoreditch, with measures slightly more than a square mile, has 104,000 inhabitants; Bethnal Green, covering 780 acres, has 98,000 persons to the square mile; Stepney, 1,767 acres, has 90,000 and Finsbury the smallest area, 587 acres, has a population of 75,995.
 Some of the very large congested areas have already been dealt with, either by regular clearance and development programs or as by-products of street and road improvements.

Before and After in London

Great Britain has called upon all British cities to plan five-year campaigns in which to wipe out slum areas. London's East End already has seen some improvement, the pictures showing a block of tumble-down shacks which have been replaced by the airy apartment house.

but the East End remains as the most complex current problem.
 In 35 years since 1898, some 100 acres of slums have been cleared and more than 28,000 persons have been re-housed; a further program involving an equal area and more than 30,000 persons was under way when the 1931 financial crisis put brakes on it.

3 DAYS GRACE
 Summer, whose arrival was doubted last week, apparently has arrived. The heat gave us a respite yesterday of reaching the stalling point by July 4th, which this year comes on Tuesday—a day too close to Sunday, and with a Monday intervening. Sunday is a day of rest, some of the resting occurring with the rest up to his middle in the rushing waters of the Rogue, endeavoring to catch a fish. Monday is the day devoted to resting up from the Sunday rest. Then comes Tuesday, this year to be used for the observance of making the eagle scream. Monday seems to be in the way of a successful display of patriotic autoing, camping, fishing, and what have you. Monday is no good anyway, save for washing clothes, and it is moved, that part of it is tucked onto Sunday, and a three day moratorium be declared, as the banks and barber shops will close up anyway. This will leave everybody broke, and the male section whiskered, and enable everybody to return from the 3-days rest completely tucked but triumphant.
