

GLENN TO OFFER ALIBI IN BALLOT TRIAL IS SHOWN

rid of the ballots, "or we will all be out in the street."

Went to See Fehi

The defense counsel said he would show that about 9 o'clock Glenn met Amos W. Walker, former deputy sheriff and county court probation officer, near the auditorium door, and Walker said:

"If you want to see Fehi, he's in his office now."

Glenn then went to Fehi's office and talked with him until 10 o'clock about a loan Glenn was thinking of making Fehi to permit him to purchase newspaper equipment.

After leaving Fehi's office, Glenn contended he met Assistant Jailer Glenn Thomas and the two went to the county jail and retired, and about 10:45 o'clock Janitor Joe Daniels came to Glenn's quarters and reported "All is quiet," and the accused went to sleep and did not learn of the ballot robbery until the next morning.

Say He Was Nervous

Assistant Attorney General Moody, in his opening statement, said:

"The state will show that on the night of the ballot robbery John Glenn was so nervous that he kept going to the jail windows to see what was going on and that he was so perturbed that he forgot to lock up the prisoners in their cells until far past the regular hour."

Attorney Moody also declared the state will show that Glenn participated in the conferences when the destruction of the ballots was discussed; that he enacted a leading role, and reviewed his part not only as told from the witness stand in the LaDieu and Jones cases, but hinted at in evidence.

"The state will not only prove every claim it has made—but more. The state will prove that every man indicted—and maybe more—is guilty, not only beyond a reasonable doubt but beyond all doubt.

"We will show by witnesses who stood outside the court house that night that Fehi was walking back and forth on the side of the auditorium—something unusual for him to do—and that he was highly perturbed.

"When Fehi was thus displaying his nervousness, a bystander said: 'Won't they let Fehi in?'

"And Fehi came back and asked: 'Who said that?'

Schermerhorn on Edge

"Gordon Schermerhorn, then sheriff, was also nervous. He was fitting around, and in and out of the jail, with a private key."

Attorney Moody said that the state would prove a conspiracy to destroy the ballots to prevent a recount, and that L. A. Banks and his wife were scheduled as the "alibi makers."

The first witnesses for the state were called yesterday afternoon. They were County Clerk George R. Carter and Deputy Clerks Nydahl Neil and Helen Dugan. They testified, as in former trials, to the existence of the court house and vault, and to the stolen ballots and preliminary details of the case.

The court overruled a defense plea for reintroduction of their plea of former jeopardy.
