PICTURES TAKEN HERE BY CHAMBER BRINGING WIDESPREAD PUBLICITY

Photographs and publicity material of Medford which have been sent to magazines and newspapers during the last three months are beginning to bring results, it was announced at the Chamber of Commerce this morning.

Pictures of the gold panning contest which were distributed from here about two months ago have been circulated through newspapers the past few weeks, and Mrs. Bessie McConochie, the winner, has received letters from old friends as a result of the publicity. A picture of Mrs. McConochie, published in the Los Angeles Times last week, was seen by a former acquaintance of hers and this morning she received a letter from the lady.

This is but one of many instances where Mrs. McConochie has heard from old friends who have seen her picture in magazines and newspapers. The publicity department will keep up its militant campaign and as time goes on there is no doubt that considerable publicity for Medford will accrue.

having made a boxer out of the former circus freak. "We practiced it in private, just Primo and me, and I knew in my own mind what would happen when it landed on Sharkey's chin. One was enough."

In Carnera's opinion, Sharkey was a better man last night than when he gave Primo a beating two years ago.

"Yes, I think he's better this time," declared the unmarked champion. "But I was better than that, eh?" and his great laugh pealed through the crowded quarters.

"Jack never hurt me. I feel better all the time, stronger, and I know I going to win after the third round. Jack's knees wobble when I hit him in stomach. I say 'oh, oh, it won't be long now.' Then Mr. Duffy told me to go get him."

As far as Primo is concerned, they can bring on the challengers now. He probably is the best confident champion who ever demanded the big end of the gate.

"I fight Baer, I fight anybody. I whip all of them. You'll see. Primo is champ."

He likes the latter phrase. It was as though he had been saying it to himself over and over, for endless days and nights and suddenly found he could say it out loud. His happiness was almost childlike.

When or where the modern goliath will make the first defense of his title neither he nor his advisers know. But it will be for Madison Square Garden, Primo having contracted for one more fight under the corporation's auspices.
