DECISION ON FEHL CHANGE OF VENUE DUE BY SATURDAY

change of venue was "important to the state, because of its bearing upon the trials to come, and other defendants."
The state also contended that under the law the court had no jurisdiction to grant a venue to one defendant, where several defendants are jointly indicted, and that the merits of the motion for a change of venue "are not sound."
Fehl, through his attorney, offered to have his case tried before either Judge Norton or Judge Skipworth, waiving the right of jury.
"I have little faith or confidence in the claim of the defendant that he is willing to be tried before Judge Norton. His every action betrays his words," Attorney Moody said. The court commented that Judge Norton was disqualified. The court and Attorney Hough paid high tribute to Judge Norton, as a lawyer and a jurist.
The state's attorney said the law providing for trial by judge, was new on the statutes, that its validity had never been tested, and that "the court would be pioneering." The court held that the trial was a matter for a jury, not a judge.
Attorney Hough proposed that if a change of venue be granted, the trial be transferred to Josephine county, at Grants Pass.
Attorney Moody opposed Josephine county as a trial scene upon the grounds "that the defendant's counsel and the defendant have interests there. It's too close to home, and the state hopes it will be moved, if it is to some other county than Josephine."
Attorney Moody suggested either Douglas or Klamath counties.
The court declared that "Lane county was out of the question." The court further stated that the legal phases would be ruled upon before any thought would be given to the trial site, if the venue motion was granted.
Both sides submitted memorandums on the law in the case.

HONOR GUARD FOR BODY OF BAUCOM IN PORTLAND RITE

PORTLAND, July 6.—(AP)—Members of the Oregon State police and of the national guard provided an honor guard here today for the body of State Policeman Burrell Milo Baucum who was shot to death by two youths on Sexton mountain, in southern Oregon July 1.
State policemen who were his comrades, and members of the national guard met the train on which the body arrived from Medford. State Patrolman E. C. Snow accompanied the body to Portland. State officers in charge of Captain Wayne Gurdane comprised the honor guard, and an escort company of B company, service company, 186th infantry, National Guard, and F company, 162d infantry, and the 186th infantry band made up the cortege which led the procession. Baucum commanded headquarters company, 3d battalion, 186th infantry, at Medford.

B. M. BAUCOM

The body will lie in state until 1 p. m. Friday when services will be held at the Portland crematorium. Dr. J. J. Staub, pastor of Sunnyside Congregational church, will officiate.
The salute was fired, and the final bugle call sounded yesterday afternoon for State Police Officer Burrell Milo Baucum, killed Saturday while patrolling on Sexton mountain. Impressive military services were conducted from the Medford armory, and hundreds of friends of the slain officer were in attendance at the services.
State police comrades from points throughout the district, and Superintendent Charles Pray of the police came to pay their last respects, and participate in the services as did members of headquarters company of the National guard, of which Baucum was organizer and commanding lieutenant. Guardsmen of company A of Medford, and Brig. Gen. Thomas Riles also took part in the services, as did California police patrolmen.
The funeral cortege, headed by City Traffic Officer T. H. Robinson, proceeded down Main street from the armory following the service, which was read by Captain Carl Y. Tengstad. In the procession were National Guardsmen, state police, California traffic officers, Medford city police and Ashland city police.
While a veteran of the Spanish-American war, and soldiered in the islands with Jack Hemstreet of Medford, he said this morning.

COUNTERFEITER, '5 TIMES LOSER,' ARRESTED AGAIN

Having spent about twenty of his 65 years behind federal prison walls, Paul F. White, "five-time loser," as a counterfeiter is in the city jail, awaiting legal proceedings which will put him back in McNeil's Island, "where I won't be a stranger, anyhow," he said this afternoon in an interview. White said he had also served in Atlanta, Ga., federal penitentiary, and two terms at Leavenworth, having left the latter prison in February.
White was arrested last night at a cabin he had rented two miles southwest of Bush, by federal and state police, after assistance had been rendered by the Medford city police. According to the officers, White soon admitted his identity, and turned over his counterfeiting apparatus and about $25 of spurious money he still held.
Truman W. Phillips, 19, of Mound City, Kans., and Donald R. Campbell, 21, of Newark, N. J., bound over to the federal grand jury yesterday on charges of passing counterfeit money, were working for White, he said this afternoon. Campbell joined him at Oakland, he said, and Phillips at Sacramento.
"I hated gettin' picked up," White said, "cause I had just got a whole lot of supplies and rented a cabin." He said he had gotten there a week ago last Saturday. Speaking of the boys he said, "Campbell was too sleepy to go to town. They didn't go every day. He could get as much as both Phillips and me. I had a couple of fellows in Fresno, but they got arrested. Another fellow that I had passed the money, he was no good at all, so I bounced him." The boys had as much money as they wanted, he said.
Asked when he made his last counterfeit money, White explained that it was "out near Jacksonville. I forgot all about that until this morning. I made about 133 half-dollar pieces. The dyes are all pulverized, now. I brought two up from Stockton with me in a blanket."
"I had to make that batch around a camp fire," the elderly man said, then he laughed, "and it isn't everybody that can make it. There, I'd get up at midnight and make it, cause there were too many kids around there in the daytime. I'd talk to old man Jones, a miner, and he thought I was an assayer waitin' for another fellow. Those boys with me, they never saw the full process."

Air Thrills In Craterian Film

The thrilling story of the drama, excitement and adventure of war aviation, "The Eagle and the Hawk" soared into town yesterday, made a happy landing at Hunt's Craterian theatre, and kept a highly enthusiastic audience literally on the edge of its seats from fade-in to fade-out. Packed with even more aerial thrills than were seen in "Wings" and "Hell's Angels," the film reveals the tragedy and romance and philosophy in the lives of the intrepid aviators who soared through crimson clouded skies during the war. The power and strength of the story are equalled only by its star-filled cast—Fredric March, Cary Grant, Carole Lombard and Jack Oakie.
Moving with lightning-like rapidity, it bulges through upon thrill and reaches one of the most unusual climaxes that has written finis to any picture.
