Musical Show at Craterian

Jan Kiepura and Magda Schneider, who play the leading roles in "Be Mine Tonight," the big musical picture opening at the Craterian theatre today.

Carried along through the world's most enchanting scenery, on waves of immortal melody, this beautiful work of cinema art cannot be easily imitated, but it may prove an inspiration to those producers in America who have a musical bee in their bonnets.

Katherine Hepburn as the darsel-darling aviatrinx in "Christopher Strong," at the Rialto theatre today and tomorrow, faces a crucial dilemma after meeting a British statesman, Colin Clive.

Lady Cynthia Darrington was speeding at 200 miles an hour when she met Sir Christopher Strong, father, statesman and diplomat. They fall in love, tasting the youthful joys they avoided while pursuing their careers. Cynthia's influence causes Christopher to leave home, abandon his career and forget his daughter.

For a year they live in their clandestine romance, when Cynthia learns she is compromised. She keeps the secret from Christopher, fearing he would instantly divorce his wife. Magnificently, without bravado, she plans a fatal climax to their affair, permitting Christopher to return to his wife and home.

Katherine Hepburn makes her second notable screen appearance as Cynthia in "Christopher Strong," with Colin Clive in support in the title role.

MAP ISSUED BY SPROAT DEPICTS RESOURCES, PLAY

W. J. Sproat, private forester of Medford, has just completed the issuing of an Oregon-California Recreation and resource map, for 1933, which is being placed on sale throughout the city.

Klamath, Jackson, Douglas, Coos and Josephine counties in Oregon, as well as Skiskiyou and Del Norte counties in California are shown on the map, which also displays additional information concerning the products grown in each locality, the names of mines in the district, and names of creeks, areas and occupations.

Besides scenic showing the regular highway, there are other auto roads, trails, national forest boundary, county boundary, railroad and mines listed on the legend.

On the back of the map is a number of pictures of the southern Oregon-California recreational centers, showing Crater Lake, Agness, Roseburg, the Isaac Lee Patterson bridge over Rogue River at Gold Beach, the Oregon Coast Highway, Lithia Park at Ashland, Klamath Falls, the motor boat trips of the famous Rogue River from Gold Beach, the Redwoods, Mill Creek Falls near Prospect, Medford, the Medford airport, Lake of the Woods, Diamond Lake, Camp Anderson, Oregon, on the Rogue, and Bandwagon by the Sea.

"THE MUMMY" IS FANTASTIC FILM
Whether or not you believe in reincarnation, you will certainly be intrigued and thrilled to your very marrow by Boris Karloff in "The Mummy," at the Rialto today.

"The Mummy" reaches back into the mist of antiquity and uncovers a love which existed 3700 years ago in the days of the Egyptian Pharaohs.

Be Mine Tonight Is Musical Treat Now At Craterian

By MARY GREINER KELLY
Like most continental babies, that cinematic brain child, "Be Mine Tonight," which opens at Hunt's Craterian today, is so near perfection musically as well as photographically that it is impossible to imagine the mechanics that recorded it. Far easier to believe that such a flawless chunk of tuneful confection simply dropped out of the clouds.

Yet it's different from everything that has gone before—so different, that the small group of local people who were privileged to see a preview of the picture yesterday, felt, at the end of it, that they had somehow skipped a generation in motion picture enjoyment.

The film with its international appeal in singing, acting and photography, was denied nothing by the brand new high fidelity, wide range

JOHN BARRYMORE IN "TOPAZ" AT STUDIO

John Barrymore's talents are given full play in a comedy drama of strictly modern manners and morals entitled "Topaz," which opens today at the Studio.

As an innocent chemist who is the victim of a hoax by clever swindlers, he learns how to out-smart them and force them to recognize him as a power.

Jenkins' Comment
men subjection of the will of the individual to the welfare of society as a whole, came into being. It was a revolutionary idea, but it WORKED.
We wouldn't do without it now.
THE idea of restraining the unscrupulous individual in business is no more revolutionary than was the idea of restraining the unscrupulous individual in society.
It may not work, of course, but at least it is worth trying.
