venge," he said. "Some one might be aggrieved at the Democratic county organization of which Ed (O'Connell) is chairman."

"Since John left school he has been everywhere with Dan. His two uncles feel like fathers toward him, and any threat of harm to him strikes at them deeply."

In Beer Business. Young O'Connell also has been engaged in the beer business, as an officer of the Hedrick brewery, Samuel E. Aronowitz, president of the brewery, is law partner of Ed O'Connell.

The actual kidnaping continued to be shrouded in mystery today, as the uncles and members of the family steadfastly refused to give out any information. Because of warnings that young O'Connell, a powerful young athlete, would be killed if police were informed of the kidnaping, neither newspapers nor police reports until 7 p. m. Monday.

Two witnesses of the kidnaping were heard: One was that O'Connell was overpowered as he stepped from his car at his home about 1:15 a. m. Friday. The other was that two men accosted him with revolvers about 12:40 a. m. Friday, as he dined with a young woman friend in a South Pearl street beer garden, and forced him to go with them.

AUGUST 11, July 11.—(AP)—August Luer, 77, semi-invalid banker, bedridden in his home as he rested, is the latest victim of middlewestern kidnapers.

Luer, who combines banking with meat packing interests, and is a wealthy, prominent citizen of Alton, was abducted last night by a comely young woman and two men. No word of his whereabouts has been received since his disappearance in the abductor's motor car.

Relative, professing no knowledge of the identity of the kidnapers, today anxiously awaited receipt of ransom demands. They feared for the captive's life, even if money payment is arranged.

He has been in partial retirement because of frequent heart attacks. A recurrence, without the aid of medicine he habitually uses, might easily prove fatal. His life had been previously threatened if $5000 was not forthcoming.

Entrance by the kidnapers into the Luer home was obtained by a ruse. The young woman and a companion presented themselves at the door, and inquired for Henry Buse, a neighbor. The banker's wife explained he lived nearby, and invited them inside when they asked if they might use the telephone.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 11.—(AP)—Unharmed after a wild ride across three states as the prisoner of kidnapers, John C. Lyle, Crawfordville, Ga., rural mail carrier, checked his mail pouch today, found it had not been opened, and prepared to return to his Georgia home.

Lyle came to Raleigh early today from Wake Forest, 16 miles from here, where three escaped Georgia convicts, who have kidnaped four men in their flight, released him last night.

The kidnapers, two white men and a negro, left Lyle tied to the rafters of a barn but he soon released himself and telephoned Crawfordville from a nearby farmhouse.

Although the kidnapers took $7 from Lyle, he said no threats were made against him and his mail was returned to him when he was put out near Wake Forest.

SCHERMERHORN LAX IN PROBING CRIME IS CLAIM

Schermerhorn about three times; about 8:30 o'clock on the jail stairs; in the rear yard of the court house about 9 o'clock, and at the northwest corner with Oliver Martin about 9:30 o'clock.

Daniels testified that he had seen Fehl, Fischbeck, Chuck Davis and one of the Sexton boys about 7:45 talking on the first floor at the sheriff's vault; that he had seen Glenn call the Sexton brothers away; that he had been with Brechen outside when the light flickered on in the vault, and Brechen asked: "Is that where they keep the bailiffs?" and that he had seen Fehl in front of the auditorium about 10 o'clock, and that at 10:35 when he went to bed the "congress" was still in session.

Under cross examination, Daniels said he had been questioned about what he had heard, but "did not remember conversations Daniels admitted the state thought he knew. Daniels corroborated in many important details previous testimony given by state witnesses who admitted ballot stealing and have pleaded guilty.

Alibi Basis Laid. Mary Sweeney, 704 West street, a former county employe, was the first witness called by the state to prove the contention that Schermerhorn laid foundations for an alibi. The witness testified she was in the sheriff's office on the night of the ballot robbery between 7 and shortly after 9 o'clock, and that Schermerhorn came in twice, and she was introduced to him by Chief Deputy Olga Anderson. Schermerhorn made a trip to the jail and returned. Shortly afterward he returned and received a phone call, saying when the call ended, "That's from the Daily News. I will see them on my way down, as I want to be in bed by 9:30." It was then about 9 o'clock. With Olga Anderson, the witness left about 9:10. Mrs. Anderson was doing extra work at night.

Paul La Claire of Rogue River testified he was at the court house "between 8 o'clock and close to 10," and that about 9:30 he saw Schermerhorn leaving the rear of the court house, and saw Earl Fehl standing out in front of the court house. He left about 10 o'clock with C. Jean Connors, who pleaded guilty to participation in the vote looting.

La Claire testified that about this time he knew the ballots had been stolen and had it fully confirmed the next day. The witness said that after 10 o'clock he went to Witham's service station to work on an auto, and he had "been wandering about town and in and out of the Daily News all day," and had seen Connors there.

WATSON VERDICT FOR PAYMENT IS UPHeld

SALEM, Ore., July 11.—(Special)—Among opinions handed down today by the state supreme court was one denying a rehearing of the case of J. F. Watson vs. the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co., from Jackson county. The denial upholds the verdict of the Jackson county court that payment on a policy under the disability clause should be made.
