

PROHIBITION VEILS REAL ISSUES SAYS YOUNG DEMO CHIEF

Urging the repeal of prohibition to clear the vision of the public, now clouded by the one issue, Moore Hamilton, president of the Young Democrats club of Jackson county, spoke yesterday noon over KMED in the campaign sponsored by the Jackson County Repeal League.

"During the past two decades every national issue has been overshadowed by prohibition," Hamilton stated. "Every candidate, who has sought public office, has been faced by dry organizations, who asked 'how he stood.' Whether he was for or against prohibition. If the candidate were dry, he had the undivided support of the dry voters. If he were honest enough to admit opposition to prohibition, however, he was immediately opposed by all dry voters, regardless of other issues upon which he sought office. Every voter in Oregon knows this to be true, that during the past 20 years a candidate has been either wet or dry.

"Voters, who are opposed to prohibition, do not consider prohibition the paramount issue, and therefore do not stand behind a candidate just because he is a so-called wet. They consider other national problems and issues more important. The present chance to vote on repeal alone, is the first opportunity voters opposed to prohibition have had to express those opinions by their votes."

Gordon McCracken, prominent Ashland attorney, will speak tonight from KMED in the repeal campaign at 7 o'clock.

All are urging the public to vote "300-yes" in the coming election of July 21, and to follow by endorsing the names of George Roberts, Edward C. Kelly, Rawles Moore and A. C. Nisonger.

"We will never have efficient work from our legislative halls, nor efficient results from our ballot boxes until we take the matter of liquor control away from our legislative bodies and place it directly in the hands of the people," Hamilton stated yesterday in closing. "Every law dealing with liquor control should be by popular vote, and then the question would not be garbled up with other and more important issues."

Support of the repeal candidates was urged by the young democratic leader as an endorsement of the recovery program of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and of the Democratic party platform.

Repeal of the 18th amendment to curb drinking among members of the younger generation was also asked by the speaker and as a means of halting the crime wave, which has arisen since prohibition, bringing an increase in activities of kidnap gangs.

CCC SUPERINTENDENT IN KANGAROO COURT

M. A. Murdock, superintendent of the Moon Prairie CCC camp, was taken before a kangaroo court there last night, and after a long trial, with many witnesses, the superintendent was acquitted. Captain Joseph Church, commanding officer of the camp, was presiding judge, with Lt. Niels Fettrup as district attorney and Robert S. Griffin as attorney for the defense.

Grounds for the case grew out of instructions at the camp yesterday of fighting a dummy fire, which was said to have been set illegally. A grand jury among the CCC results returned an indictment against the superintendent, resulting in the trial.

Two Fatalities Oregon Industry

SALEM, July 14.—(AP)—The past week 479 persons were injured in industrial accidents and two fatalities occurred, the accident commission reported today.

The fatalities were B. M. Baucum, state police officer of Josephine county, and Aldino Seratti, logger at Buxton.

Armor For Police

Since the machine-gun slaying of four peace officers near the union station in Kansas City, deputy sheriffs of Jackson county have been equipped with collapsible armor plate like that shown here. It was used in the capture of James "Fur" Sammons, held as a suspect in the June 17 slayings. (Associated Press Photo)

TRIO ARRESTED AS CHANGE JUGGLERS

Three men, traveling north in an automobile bearing a Missouri license, are to be arraigned in Justice of the Peace L. A. Roberts court in Ashland this afternoon on charges of obtaining money under false pretense. They were arrested in Medford yesterday afternoon by state police, following complaints that they were "working a short change racket," here.

The men, Aubrey White, 38, of Seattle, who gave his occupation as a salesman; Ralph V. Williams, 31, of Sacramento, a clerk; Clarence W. Hinkel, alias Clarence Taylor, 31, a hotel clerk, were lodged in the Jackson county jail following their arrest.

ROAD WIDENING JOB CONTRACTED

SALEM, July 14.—(AP)—Award of the third unit of the Canby-Aurora-Brooks section of the Pacific highway widening project was awarded by the state highway commission here today to the low bidder, Northwest Roads company, Portland, at $103,615.

This award was held up by the commission at its meeting earlier in the week pending approval of the bureau of public roads. The job will be paid out of federal funds.

The three awards on the final widening project between Portland and Salem totaled $331,786. Harold Blake of Portland was awarded the other two units.

SALEM, July 14.—(AP)—T. R. Golden was absolved from blame by a coroner's jury for the death of Nellie E. Groves, 39, who stepped in front of his car and was killed here Wednesday.

FOREST TROOPERS CHERRY HUNGRY IS HINT TO GROWERS

A market for Medford's surplus cherries has been found at Union Creek, Mrs. H. A. Thierolf announced last night. It is comprised of more than one hundred young men from Illinois, stationed near there with the Civil Conservation Corps. They may not be able to bring any profits to the cherry growers, but they can care for the consumption without a doubt.

Mrs. Aletha Vawter of this city, who has been vacationing at Union Creek, told Mrs. Thierolf yesterday that the CCC boys are "cherry hungry." She took some cherries with her to the resort and they didn't last long when the boys were introduced to the fruit. Several of them had never seen cherries before and all of them wanted to see more and more cherries. So anyone with a surplus of cherries is asked to donate a little of it to fruit hungry youths from back in Illinois.

Mrs. Thierolf informed the Mail Tribune last evening that she will be going to Union Creek this week end and will be glad to take some cherries with her if growers will call her.

SALEM, Ore., July 14.—(AP)—Mandamus proceedings directing city of Portland authorities to use $150,000 of bonds originally voted nearly a year ago for relief work, as security for the redemption of scrip issued by the municipality, were filed in the supreme court here late yesterday.

HANSCOM'S CLAIM OF DANCE DRINKS MET BY DENIAL

"There was no drinking in that car during my presence," Mrs. R. A. Botta informed the Mail Tribune last night, referring to statements, allegedly made by Earl Hanscom, held for first degree murder, regarding events leading up to the Eagle Point dance affair of last Saturday midnight, which brought death to Albert J. Tingleaf.

Hanscom in statements, claimed made to County Jailer Fred Kelly following his arrest and incarceration in the county jail, placed Mr. Tingleaf, Mrs. Botta, Charles Pettigrew and Irene Gerome of Portland in the car during some "between-dances" drinking.

Mrs. Earl Hanscom, wife of the alleged killer, held without bond, has arrived in Medford from California with her young son. She was seen yesterday visiting the boy on the streets. Both appeared in much better health than when they left Medford some time ago, after Mrs. Hanscom had sued her husband for non-support. He was convicted of the charge and paroled by the judge.

Mrs. Hanscom gave no reason yesterday for being in Medford and stated she knew nothing of the alleged murder until she arrived here. When suing Hanscom, his wife claimed that he "beat the baby," in addition to refusing to support him.

2 SALEM RESIDENTS REPORTED MISSING

SALEM, July 14.—(AP)—A farm boy and a market manager were reported missing since Wednesday in unrelated cases, police said.

J. P. Harper said his son, Ralph, 17, was last seen Wednesday morning driving a coach automobile bearing Oregon license 153,587. He said there was a possibility his son had gone to work in some orchard.

Arthur Atcheson, 24, meat department manager of a Salem store, is also missing. Officials of the store said Atcheson's books were apparently in good shape.
