SALES TAX MEANS FUNDS FOR RELIEF NEEDY FAMILIES

Alfred S. V. Carpenter, chairman of the Jackson county relief committee, today expressed great concern over the source of money to be used in relief work here during the coming months. There are, at the present time, he pointed out, 750 families in Jackson county on the committee's rolls, and although a considerable amount of work has been available, there has not been enough to take care of all the needy. Mr. Carpenter said.

Most of those on the lists now are old and physically infirm, and because what they saved in their working life has been lost through unfortunate investments or spent for necessities during these hard times, it appears that many of them will be on the rolls indefinitely.

Yesterday Mr. Carpenter telegraphed the state relief committee concerning the relief funds available in Oregon, and the following communications were exchanged:

Raymond B. Wilcox, Chairman, Oregon State Relief Committee, 1212 Spaulding Bldg., Portland. Does the continuance of relief work depend on passage of sales tax. Please telegraph reply.

JACKSON CO. RELIEF COMM., Alfred S. V. Carpenter, Chairman.

Chairman County Relief Committee, Medford, Oregon. Not entirely. Federal funds available on matching basis. Lack of state and county funds for relief purposes may reduce federal accordingly.

ELMER R. GOUDY, State Relief Committee, C. W. Reynolds, field representative of the state relief committee, was in Medford this morning, conferring with Mr. Carpenter, and told of the federal relief plan which will give the state $3 for each $1 put into relief work.

Under this plan, it was pointed out by Mr. Carpenter, with the passage of the state sales tax, the $250,000 set aside under those appropriations for relief, will make it possible to receive $750,000 from the federal government, allowing an approximate million dollars for such work in Oregon.

Mr. Carpenter stated that since the first of June the relief work throughout the nation has been a matter of federal planning, with an attempt being made at the present time to pass the relief work back to the states, so far as possible.

Mr. Reynolds said today that the July, August and September appropriation by the federal government will not possibly last past the middle of August.

RECOVERY COUNCIL TO DRAFT CODE ON WAGES AND HOURS

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt left with his "recovery council" today the preparation of any general code for higher wages and shorter work hours, as he was confined again to his room by a slight indisposition.

Arrangement was made for a second session of the administration's advisory group, composed of members of the cabinet and chief administrators of the various major departments. They are divided on the necessity for immediate forceful action by the federal government to spur business and consumption.

Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, apparently had ready a far reaching proposal to bring about increases in wages and the shorter hours in labor immediately, pending establishment of many of the new industrial codes to govern compensation and labor time.

Secretary Roper, chairman of the special cabinet board on industrial recovery, said he thought the voluntary action of industry in lining up behind the presidential program made a general "blanket code" unnecessary just now.

SILVER SCREEN REVIEW

By Mary Greiner Kelly.

To those who love laughter more than tears, but are strangers to neither; to those who prefer a biting melody sandwiched between the bread and butter of life; to those who have a bit of Irish blood in their veins, as well as those (try and find them) who haven't, the old stage favorite "Peg o' My Heart," now playing at Hunt's Craterian, will have as great an appeal, if not greater than ever before.

In the light of entertainment, it's a full meal—well balanced as to acting; beautifully served as to direction; and rendered utterly tantalizing through its appealing music and photography.

Marietta Davies, however, is not Laurette Taylor, nor, let it be said to her undying credit, does she try to be. But she is Peg, with a little more emphasis, perhaps, on the tomboy qualities, than will be remembered of the original interpretation.

Then there is the brand new leading man, Onslow Stevens, who should bring back some of the good old-fashioned romance the depression (or something) has knocked out of modern drama. He's handsome, than Gable and—well, girls, just give him a chance.

The undoubted highlight of individual performances is J. Farrell McDonald's, who is one grand old character actor. Others there are, who make this show worth while, including the young lad, whose sweet tenor voice first sends the strains of the theme song on its haunting way through your consciousness, but they are all detail in the artistic whole, that is better seen than described.

Radio Satire Will Show At Craterian

Commercial radio broadcasting with all its intricacies forms the target for a well-aimed shaft of satire hurled in "Professional Sweetheart," which comes to the Craterian Wednesday.

Radio luminaries, broadcast sponsors, press agents and "personality creators" are revealed in all their activity. Ginger Rogers, as the "Purty Girl of the Air" for the Ippiste-Wippiste Wash Cloth program, rebels against her contract forbidding her to drink, smoke, pet, dance and have anything to do with men; inwardly she is a red-headed spitfire yearning for late hours and hot-chips.

Her sponsors secure Norman Foster, a hill-billy from Kentucky, through his fan mail, and marry her off to him. When a rival sponsor offers a contract permitting the liberty she desires, her log cabin husband teaches her how to be domestic with jabs to the jaw and ardent love-making, building up to climatic fun.

KLAMATH COUNTY TENTATIVE CHOICE FOR BALLOT TRIAL

The defense also expressed the hope in open court, that Judge Skipworth hear the trial in Klamath county. The court said he would advise Chief Justice Egan of the state supreme court of his action, and that the chief justice would make the assignment. All the defense counsel favored the continuation of Judge Skipworth.

The court in denying the venue change plea made Monday, cited the Brumfield case, wherein the supreme court of the state had held that newspaper articles were not grounds for granting a change of venue.

The Brumfield case concerned a Roseburg dentist, charged with murdering a harrist by the name of Dennis Russell, and substituting the harrist's body for his own, in an attempt to perpetrate an insurance hoax. The Douglas county papers bitterly assailed the accused man.

The defense, with its first motion submitted copies of articles published in the Mail Tribune, Ashland Tidings, and other Jackson county papers, covering the 1932 primary and general election campaigns, the L. A. Banks murder, and other incidents and observations upon the local situation.

ADDITIONAL SEWER FACILITY SEEN AS HEALTH INSURANCE

should also be considered the fact that the water of Bear creek, below Medford is used for irrigation, for stock watering, and that public water supplies are taken from the Rogue river into which Bear creek discharges about 10 miles below Medford. The discharge of sewage into water subject to these uses is, not only undesirable, but a likely danger to the public health.

The problem in Medford also relates to the capacity of some of the existing sewers. The present Riverside trunk sewer is considerably overloaded at times so that sewage bubbles out of manholes and flows along the street. The Jackson street sewer, where it crosses Bear creek and also for several blocks to the east, is also overloaded and has been found to be difficult to maintain. Relief of these sewers is desirable.

The major objectives of a sewage disposal project in Medford are thus (a) the removal of sewage pollution from Bear creek, (b) the relief of present inadequate and overloaded sewers, and (c) the elimination of septic tanks and septic tank overflow close to built-up sections of the city. The present disposal of sewage in Medford is unsatisfactory, therefore, and should be corrected.

The state board of health of which Dr. Frederick Stricker is state health officer, has ordered that Medford build a sewage disposal plant because the city of Medford is subject to further damage suits, if the present pollution in Bear creek continues. Already the city has been sued and was compelled to pay approximately a thousand dollars.

A similar situation existed in La Grande, Oregon, some years ago, and as the result of a typhoid epidemic, which cost the city over six thousand dollars, the voters authorized bonds to the extent of $105,000 to build a plant which has been in successful operation ever since. A similar condition existed in Baker, Oregon, and within the past year the citizens in that community voted $104,000 for a plant.

By virtue of the fact that Medford will seek R. F. C. funds to the extent of $100,000, of which 30 percent is an outright donation, there should be no difficulty in receiving an overwhelming vote on July 28th if only to prevent further damage suits being brought against the city.
