

LUMBER OUTPUT CONTROL NEEDED TO REMEDY ILLS

Recovery Administration Told Prostrate Industry Did Not Share Boom of '23-29—Wages Will Wait

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP)—Footprinting discussion of hours and wages, the lumber industry yesterday presented arguments before the recovery administration for the adoption of its method of controlling the output of forest products.

Spokesmen described the industry as prostrate and termed controlled production a necessity. The proposed code's maximum 40 to 48 hour-week and minimum $10 to $20 wage scale are unacceptable to the administration and these features are to be worked out later.

Boom Not Shared
Wilson Compton, manager of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, outlined the economic background of the industry, asserting it did not share in the boom of 1923-1929 and was unprepared to meet the depression prices which followed.

W. B. Greeley, manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's association, explained the method of controlling production by allotting hours of operation to each mill, with the nation divided into geographical divisions of authority.

Objection Voiced
William Denman, Oregon lumber manufacturer, objected to the procedure being followed as not allowing him sufficient time to present objections to certain features of the proposed code, particularly with regard to price fixing. He requested additional time. Dudley Cates, assistant industrial administrator, presiding, reserved decision on his plea.

The cost of carrying timber investments and the consequent effort to liquidate such investments, was described by Colonel Greeley as the principal cause of the present situation in the industry.

Mill Run at Loss
It has resulted in an effort to attain at least some return by running mills at a loss on actual operation. He added in order to provide finances for tax payments and other costs.

"Control of lumber production alone can check uneconomic and wasteful use of raw material and provide a sound basis for conservation of forest resources," he said. "This is one of the declared purposes of the code."

"The code purposely lays down no uniform rule or formula for allocation of production. Code authority will assign production quotas to various (geographic) divisions, by suitable periods, based upon its best estimate of anticipated consumption and substantially in ratio of their former shipments, respectively, over representative periods."

General rule impossible
"Within each division quotas will be allocated to individual producers in accordance with the most equitable method adapted to that division. Conditions in lumber production in different portions of the United States are so diverse that no general rule of individual allocation is possible."

"To attempt it would create inequity. This is because of varied controlling situations in different divisions as regards single shifts or double shift facilities, short seasons as compared with year-round operations, and so forth."

"In some divisions allocations will be based upon the uniform number of machine hours for all operating mills; in some divisions upon operating capacities formerly established; and in some on former volumes of lumber shipments."

Publicity Necessary
Cates asked Greeley if hours of quota operation could be transferred from one mill to another under proposed code and he replied in the negative. Cates also inquired if it was planned that publicity be given to the factors on which quotas are based. Greeley said that such was the case and Cates remarked: "I regard that as necessary."

FISH PESTILENCE FATTENS PELICANS

KLAMATH FALLS, July 21.—(UP)—A thousand pelicans were feasting today on hordes of dead chub and suckers in Link river and Ewuna lake here.

A strange malady started killing the fish late Wednesday and the pelicans started gathering in great numbers. Health officials were elated at the influx of the giant birds, as they were keeping the water from being polluted.

Cause of the fish malady is a mystery, but may be poisonous gas in the water.

PATRIARCHS WILL PICNIC ON SUNDAY

Canton Bakiyon and Ladies Auxiliary No. 16, Patriarchs Militant, will hold their annual picnic in Lithia Park, Ashland, Sunday, July 23, the affair being a basket dinner and lunch starting about 1 p. m.

The event this year is not confined solely to the two branches of the order, as in the past but all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are cordially invited and urged to attend. Delegations from Grants, Pass, Central Point, Gold Hill, Klamath Falls, Jacksonville and Medford, as well as from the rural sections of the valley, with their families, will be in attendance, and a large turnout is expected.

KLAMATH PLANS LONGEST PARADE AT LEGION MEET

KLAMATH FALLS, July 20.—(Spl.)—The American Legion parade, scheduled to be the most spectacular and longest parade in the history of state conventions, will be held at 9 p. m. August 10, the first day of the convention to be held here. Being the first night affair of its kind, the committee in charge has planned an exceptional lighting effect, which will illuminate the entire town when the parade is under way.

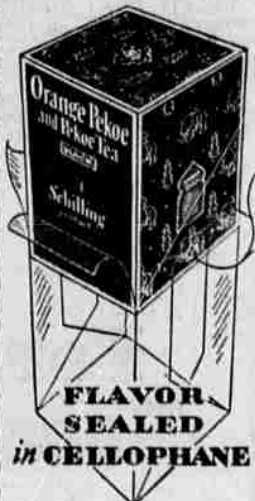

On account of the thousands of people who will witness this parade, it will probably be routed over several streets in Klamath Falls, giving everybody a chance to see the unusual sight. The parade as now planned will consist of three sections: the first section, designated as the Legion section. In this group the Legion post of Oregon having the highest record of paid memberships will have the honor of first place, and the rest of the posts throughout the state will be placed according to their ratings. The second section is known as the 40 & 8 section. In this section all the fun and stunts for which the 40 & 8 society is noted, will be seen. Many entries have already been received for a place in this section of the parade.

The third section of the cavalcade will consist of civic, commercial and fraternal entries, and many local firms are already constructing special floats advertising their products. The committee feels that this section of the parade will give an unusual opportunity for any commercial firm to boost their products and business. Virtually every fraternal organization in Klamath Falls will either march or enter a suitable float.

Many drum corps and bands which will also be seen and heard in this parade, and an unusual display of patriotic flags and colors will head the movement escorted by the armed forces of the national guard units of Klamath Falls and Ashland.

Farmers Use Much Oil
SALEM, Ore.—(UP)—Farmers of the United States used more than 2,125,000,000 gallons of petroleum fuels, and approximately 90,700,000 gallons of lubricating oils during 1930, reported federal authorities.
