DEFEAT OF SALES TAX LEAVES HUGE DELINQUENT LIST

SALEM, July 22.—(AP)—Defeat of the general sales tax by voters of Oregon yesterday leaves the tax structure of the state unchanged with the real property tax remaining in full effect, with a 45 per cent average delinquency in the 36 counties. It was declared by Charles V. Galloway, chairman of the state tax commission today.

The delinquency figures were compiled as of June following date of payment for the first half of the 1932 taxes. Over the state the annual tax for all purposes of government assessed against real property is $42,000,000. Half of this amount was due in May of which about $12,000,000 was paid. The state share of the entire annual tax on property is about $3,500,000.

The sales tax as passed by the legislature and referred to a vote of the people by that session would have been used to offset this property tax with most benefit going to counties and cities, Galloway stated.

Asked if a special session of the legislature could remedy the situation over the state, Galloway replied, "What can another legislature do in the face of the overwhelming defeat of the sales tax? Any special tax would be defeated now. Any tax to relieve the situation apparently would meet the same fate. All tax measures are subject to referendum."

NEW YORK THROUG GOES WILD WHEN JAUNT COMPLETE

Police men and pushed toward the Winnie Mae's spinning propeller. Post was forced to stall his motor to prevent possible injury to them. The flier did not climb from his slip immediately. It was pushed up the taxi strip to the administration building with him still in the cockpit.

Post had flown from Edmonton with phenomenal speed. He had left there at 9:41 a. m., coming southeast across Canada and thence back into the United States.

The enthusiasm of the crowd for the 34 year old aviator's stirring achievement exceeded anything ever seen at the field, attendants said.

Photographers pressed around the purple and white monoplane to take pictures while Post still was in his seat.

As the deafening cheers continued unabated, Post rose and waved a couple of times, then slumped back into his seat. Apparently he was close to exhaustion.

After several minutes Post was pulled from the cockpit by Lee Trenholm his representative and a policeman. He was taken immediately to an automobile and there was no opportunity for anyone to speak to him.

He was wearing a blue shirt and had a handkerchief tied around his forehead.

In the forefront of the throng that had rushed to the Winnie Mae was a group of Oklahoma men who had flown here to welcome Post.

NEXT WAR IN SKY DECLARES BALBO

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP)—A firm belief that the next war will be fought in the air and that governments should concentrate on development of their air forces was attributed tonight to General Italo Balbo by a source close to the Italian aviation minister.

The leader of Italy's air squadron of goodwill, which is en route home after an epic mass flight to Chicago's century of progress, also is convinced that lighter-than-air craft are valueless commercially or as a means of aerial defense or offense.

"He is also of the opinion," the informant said, "that the aviation branch of the armed forces should be a separate entity—a bureau in itself—without direct connection with the army or navy."

Until we learned better

Henry Ford Dearborn, Mich.

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change.

We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable.

Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

Henry Ford
