

BREAD PRICES ON NEW SCHEDULE IN MEDFORD REGION

A new schedule of bread prices was announced today by local wholesale bakers. Some types of bread will be sold at the same price as heretofore while others have been raised from one to two cents the loaf. The average advance is less than that authorized by Secretary Wallace under the government recovery act.

Under the new retail schedule there will be no change in sliced bread and large loaf prices, these continuing to sell at 10 and 13 cents as heretofore. The small one-pound loaf, white or wheat, has been advanced from 8 to 9 cents. Special breads, such as raisin, rye, French and cracked wheat will sell at 10 cents as before.

Today's price raise brings local bread prices in line with the recent advances made throughout the north west during the past three weeks. The local list is a duplicate of the advance made by Portland, Grants Pass, Eugene, Salem, Klamath Falls and Marshfield bakers last Monday.

In commenting on the price advance one baker estimated that between $50 and $60 is being paid daily by Medford bakers to the government as a result of the wheat processing tax which was instituted the 9th of July. Retail grocers will pay no tax on flour stocks until August 9th but the act was made effective immediately in the case of the baker.

NORMAL SCHOOL HAS DRAMATIC DIRECTOR OF WIDE EXPERIENCE

Angus L. Bowmer, director of dramatics at the Southern Oregon Normal school, has presented some unusually fine productions there during the last two years, as a result of his wide experience and study under outstanding present day dramatic artists.

Professor Bowmer received his bachelor's and master's degree in dramatic art from the University of Washington. While there he studied under both Mr. and Mrs. B. W. James of the famous Repertoire Playhouse. Under the direction of Mr. James he took the lead in "The Show-Off" and a character part in "The Critic". He also played an outstanding role in Tolstol's "Living Corpse," put on by the Repertoire Playhouse.

B. Iden Payne, a nationally recognized Shakespearean director, who directed John Barrymore in his first success, directed Professor Bowmer in the lead of "Love's Labors Lost," as well as in two other character parts.

Director Lovejoy, now well-known in Hollywood, once directed a production of Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion" in which Bowmer played a leading part. In addition to these experiences, Bowmer played outstanding roles in numerous presentations at the Bellingham normal where he was a student. He has also been active in community work in several different places.

"Andrew Jackson" presented here last winter, is an historical play of which Professor Bowmer is the author. He has acted in as well as directed several plays here, including "The Show-Off" and "As You Like It."

He will be seen again in the title role of "Cyrano" at the Southern Oregon Normal school auditorium on August 5.

Charles M. Arthur, passed away at the home of his grand-daughter, Mrs. I. F. Andrea, on the South Pacific highway Sunday afternoon, after a short illness, due to infirmities of age. Mr. Arthur was born at Pon Du Lac, Wis., April 29, 1847.

Mr. Arthur was united in marriage to Martha Frank November 3, 1868, at Webster City, Iowa, living there for 40 years. They had celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary last November. Mr. Arthur had made his home with his daughter for the past five years, and had made many acquaintances who will mourn his departure.

Private funeral services will be held at the Perl Funeral home Tuesday at 10 a. m. Remains will be forwarded Tuesday evening at 7:30 to Portland for cremation.

Bad Man of Jacksonville Takes Personal Interest In Return Pioneer Days

By Leonard Hall. Competition may be the life of trade, but if one old Jacksonville character has his way, it will be the death of the pride for Yreka, who last year emulated the southern Oregon city's Gold Rush Jubilee.

The man in question, popularly known as Bad Eye Pete, has vowed, after cleaning his frontier Colts, that local talent will either outdo the Yreka or else suffer the consequences. "We don't aim to let no California fellers git ahead of us in these here pioneer celebrations," grumbled Bad Eye yesterday as he spured several members of the chamber of commerce to action.

It seems that Yreka, after visiting the Jacksonville jubilee last summer, sort of copied the idea and threw a three-day shindig in the California city. Bad Eye smarted only where a loyal Jacksonvillian could smart—in his wounded pride. He has decided that his home town will either show the Yreka a thing or two about early days and how to recreate them, or he will know the reason why.

Pete got so hot up about it that yesterday he wrote a communication to a Yreka newspaper telling them just what was on his mind. Rather illiterate, but nevertheless pungent with meaning, his letter warned

Yreka that Jacksonville is no western town to be tampered with and that if that city will just drop up to Jacksonville August 19—the big day—it will be given a course in elementary entertainment. Bad Eye added, in his letter, that "we are making ample provision to accommodate Yreka as we are trainin' a bunch of chaperones fer teneft."

The jubilee, the second annual affair for Oregon's first gold camp, will be held Saturday, August 19, this year, with an even greater array of feasters and unique novelties than ever. Bad Eye Pete will be remembered by visitors last year as one of the bartenders who wore a watch-fob nugget the size of a large man's fist and who shot it out with his "pard" for a cameraman in the Marble Corner saloon. Whiskers, moustache and all, he plans to be "hangin' around ter see that everything is oke" this year when the hectic, hilarious days of a pioneer mining camp are recreated for a brief 24 hours.

Pete, concluding his letter, which really was a journalistic chip on his shoulder, invited any Yreka to stand up for his town with the admonishment, "I'll make 'im think he's bin sleepin' on pen points and swimmin' in ink," and then left for the hills, where he indulges in target practice and mining.

PLAN ORGANIZATION OF ANGORA RABBIT RAISERS THURSDAY

A meeting will be held at 7:30 this Thursday evening at the residence of F. C. Findley on South Peach street to form a local Angora rabbit association. All raisers of Angora rabbits are invited to attend.

The Angora rabbit is a "wool rabbit," not a meat rabbit. It is raised every two months and according to Mr. Findley who has had an exhibit in the chamber of commerce building, the demand for the wool is now unlimited. The local wool finds a ready market in Massachusetts.

The purpose of the organization will be to stabilize the industry in southern Oregon, give the true facts concerning it to the people, eliminate improper promotion and establish a permanent source of revenue for the growers.

"No one can get rich quick from wool rabbits" declares Mr. Findley, "but they can make a decent living and the more people that do that nowadays the better. Southern Oregon is an ideal place for Angora rabbit culture."

Moon Prairie CCC Wins From Locals

Medford CCC district headquarters baseball team went down to defeat, 16 to 4, at the hands of the Moon Prairie CCC camp Sunday morning at the fairgrounds. The CCC league games are to open next Sunday, according to announcement today.

WOODBURN JUNIORS DEFEAT MILWAUKEE

WOODBURN, July 24—The Woodburn Legion Junior baseball team was one up on Milwaukee after a 10 to 0 shutout yesterday.

The teams meet again Friday in the second of a best two out of three series to decide which will play in the state finals at Klamath Falls.

GOSS SENTENCED SIX MONTHS FOR SALEM AGITATION

SALEM, July 24—(Special)—O. H. Goss, formerly of Medford, leader and speaker for the Unemployed Council of Salem, was found guilty by a justice court jury Saturday afternoon of the crime of vagrancy. Justice of the Peace Miller B. Hayden immediately sentenced Goss to serve six months in the county jail. Goss gave notice of appeal.

When sentence was passed Goss' attorney, Irwin Goodman of Portland had not reached the court room and the court waited several minutes for his arrival. In passing sentence the court informed Goss that, since he had handmen, he would not be remanded immediately to the custody of the sheriff for transfer to jail.

In the absence of his attorney Goss spoke for himself and stated that the case would be appealed. Early next week some readjustment of the defendant's bonds will be made by stipulation of attorneys.

The court room and the stairway leading up from the street was crowded with Goss' sympathizers.

BANDIT SUSPECTS TAKEN IN BATTLE

DEXTER, Iowa, July 24—(P)—Marvin Barrow and his wife, bandit suspects, were captured here today in a battle with state and county officers. Barrow was critically wounded.

Two men and a woman, believed to be Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Barrow, and Jack Sherman, escaped in a stolen car.

Three squads of state and county officers surrounded the woods where the five suspects were hidden. As they closed in, the suspects began to fire with machine guns. The officers returned the fire, wounding Marvin Barrow. "Rags" Riley, Polk county deputy sheriff, also was wounded.

Near Barrow and his wife, the officers found two machine guns and five revolvers.

Crater Lake Is Given Publicity On Formay Hour

Al Pearce and his happy-go-lucky gang, who feature Formay shortening on their Tuesday and Thursday afternoon programs, recently gave Crater lake a bit of publicity, on one of their special broadcasts.

In part, the announcement said: "I'm sure that most of our friends in the northwest know Crater lake, one of the most beautiful vacation spots on the Pacific coast. But, for the sake of our other listeners, let me say a little about this wonder-land and also make a suggestion.

"Calling Crater lake the sea of sapphires just about tells the story. There are few lakes in the world that can compare with it for sheer beauty. It's a sight you'll always remember, and you can enjoy it at a cost well within your means. The government camp grounds are splendid, if you like to rough it. Or you can take a cabin, or stay at the Crater lake lodge. You can vacation in the style you like best.

"Now for that suggestion. Should you decide to camp or live in one of these cabins, make it a point to be well supplied with Formay. That's one way you can be sure of having the same good things to eat as you get at home. You'll find that the perfect shortening is just right for the cooking you'll do. Your biscuits will be light and tender, your fish will be done to a perfect golden brown, when you use Formay.

"Remember, too, that it will stay sweet and fresh for weeks, without refrigeration, and that you can buy Formay almost any place you go."

Oregon Weather.

Fog on the coast; otherwise fair tonight and Tuesday; no change in temperature; moderate north and northwest winds offshore.

STANDARD GASOLINE is unsurpassed in 1. STARTING 2. ACCELERATION 3. MILEAGE 4. ANTI-KNOCK

But someone said: "How about SPEED?"

All right, AAA CONTEST BOARD What do you say?

TOP SPEED!—Standard is unsurpassed in that super-capacity for action that makes a car go faster with one gasoline than with another.

Over and over again leading Pacific Coast gasolines were pushed to their last ounce of speed on the blistering desert course. Every test—every reading—every purchase of gasoline was made by the AAA Contest Board. And here is the answer from this supreme court of motoring—

The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association finds STANDARD GASOLINE unsurpassed in SPEED

Here is the AAA Report. Read it: "This is to certify that in the series of speed tests in which Standard Gasoline and six other strictly non-premium motor fuels, considered to be leading brands, were individually tested for maximum speed in two popular makes of cars, we find Standard Gasoline unsurpassed for SPEED.

The cars selected for these tests were a six-cylinder stock car in the seventy-five-mile-an-hour class and an eight-cylinder stock car in the eighty-mile-an-hour class. The method used was as follows:

To fully depress the throttle, permit the car to attain its maximum speed before contacting the timing device, and running over the course selected under full throttle.

Each of the seven fuels tested was purchased by our representative in the open market from regular consumer outlets and was identifiable during the tests by code name known only to us.

All tests were conducted by us under carefully controlled conditions of operation in accordance with the rules and policies of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

This statement is based on data developed by and on file with the AAA Contest Board."
