

MOLEY TO BREAK TIE-UP BETWEEN GANGS, OFFICIALS

Roosevelt Has 'Inside Dope' Local Officers Hand in Glove With Kidnapers Is Reason for Appointment

Copyright, 1933, by Paul Mallon WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The private reason offered for President Roosevelt selecting his own right hand man to chase kidnapers goes much deeper than the mere subject of kidnaping.

Prof. Moley is supposed to be bent on breaking up ungodly relations between certain local officials and gangland in various sections of the country.

The administration has confidential information indicating there is more than just plain inefficiency behind the failure of local officials to break up kidnaping rings.

These cases indicate collusion will be exceedingly difficult to prove. D. J. agents have not been able to do it.

It sounds true and later developments may substantiate it. If Moley turns up some officials he will gain more in popular prestige than anything he can do on war debts or Russia.

Nevertheless you cannot keep nine out of ten people in Washington from believing that Mr. Roosevelt is moving Moley out of the way until State Secretary Hull cools off.

The administration policy makers are quietly taking the war time sting out of their high-wage drive.

They have decided to breathe the big stick and take up the megaphone. A conciliatory tone is being used.

The inside story about the general, colonels and majors shows what has happened. On July 27, the N. R. A. announced local organizations would be military in character.

It is said and denied that this is what brought Charles Michaelson, the democratic publicity demon, into the N. R. A. picture.

SOFT COAL MINE STRIKE BROKEN

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 8.—(AP)—More than 100 heads of United Mine Workers locals, representing about 20,000 miners, voted unanimously today to return to work in the soft coal fields of southwestern Pennsylvania.

The action was taken in a rising vote after Edward P. McGrady, labor advisor of the national recovery administration, delivered a stirring appeal to the men to support President Roosevelt's recovery program.

The men have been on strike for more than two weeks, demanding recognition of the United Mine Workers of America.

RE-ESTABLISH SIX MILK PURVEYORS ON GRADE A BASIS

The following milk grades are re-established: Gold Seal Creamery, grade A. Squires Dairy, grade A. Cloverleaf Dairy, grade A. Lindy's Depot, grade A. Meadowbrook Dairy, grade A. Crystal Springs Dairy, grade A. Pursuant to the compliance for re-establishing former milk grades it is deemed it helpful to all to make the following statement:

The degradings downward were largely inadvertently self-imposed, and not because of deliberate or rebellious thoughts, but from a sort of combined unintentional misunderstanding by all of us concerned.

Let it serve as a lesson, but let it be also thoroughly understood we are right now starting from scratch 100 percent, and this don't mean maybe. Owing to the many inquiries, especially from consumers, I hereby state in substance a few of the exactness of the standard milk ordinance as adopted by Medford:

If after two inspections by the dairy inspector, at least three days apart, he finds by a producer or distributor defects, the offender is subjected to degrading downward.

After such degrading the ordinance requires a lapse of two weeks before the offender can apply for a re-grading upward. The ordinance stipulates that during this two weeks time the offender shall be required to change his caps and labels on bottles and containers to correspond to the then designated grade. The ordinance further requires that following each grading period, or in a regrading, the then awarded grade shall be published, and the inspector shall also post the letter designating this grade upon the large milk display card furnished by him to every dispenser, and said card shall be displayed in a conspicuous place.

The state of Oregon has seen sufficient merit in this United States Standard milk ordinance to have adopted its exactness in designating specifically what constitutes grade "A" milk, and further making it a misdemeanor to place such label or cap upon any milk container without first having complied with these exactness. This standard ordinance further expressly stipulates "It shall be unlawful for any person to bring into or receive in the city of Medford, Oregon, or its police jurisdiction for sale, or to sell, offer for sale therein, or to have on hand for sale, any milk or milk product defined in this ordinance, which said milk or milk product shall not have been graded by the health officer or dairy inspector as in this ordinance provided."

The purchasing public is justly entitled to this information. These exactness are primarily adopted for their safety and protection.

LONGER SKIRTS FOR EVENING IS FASHION UKASE

PARIS, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Longer skirts for wear after five o'clock were decreed by the larger houses today in fashion shows crystallizing rules for winter styles.

Following a mode of elegance which Paris has determined to launch, ankle-length skirts appeared in tea-time costumes, while evening gowns touched the floor, or nearly so, many having slight trains.

There were numerous slit skirts for evening, slashed one to eight times. Daytime skirt lengths were measured according to milady's height, varying from eight to 13 inches from the ground.

Now afternoon ensembles, fashioned of velvets and broadcloths, were designed with long sleeves and long skirts, and had hip-length jackets, richly furred. They were black, burgundy, dark green, and navy.

The evening mode, of the greatest elegance, was based on a seductive form-fitting silhouette, with décolleté, with décolletés high in front and low in back. Fabrics included velvets, crinkled crepes, laines, moires and ottomans. Colors included black, pink, burgundy, pale blue, sapphire, light green, bottle green and mauve.

Evening wraps varied from flower-trimmed, waist-length capes matching frocks to straight, three-quarter lengths and sweeping full-length models. They were designed of colorful velvets, laines, and rich fox, mink, and ermine furs.

Long white gloves were worn again. There were velvet gloves, too, matching the frocks.

Miss Bunels Improving — Miss Blanche Bunels, who underwent a major operation several days ago at the Community hospital, was reported as getting along nicely today.

John S. Hurley, expected to head the prohibition unit of the new division of investigation being established in the justice department, said the order applied to all of the 1800 employees.

Some 1200 will be re-employed immediately to work in the division of investigation, Hurley saying there would be "no material change" in enforcement activities.

Asked if the majority of administrators would be left off the rolls, Hurley replied "many" might be, and that "material changes will be made all along the line in the interests of efficiency."
