And here were we, not over a few hours drive away, pining for just such an opportuinity. Cattle boats have long been the accepted means of access to Europe for vagabonds, but the truth is there are practically none now leavening the United States. There is, for one thing, a 30 per cent duty on American beef, and so American cattle with the country into Canada, and shipped are brought into Canada, and shipped sile to die graves in the frozen and Staten Island, the only thing to see is a rapidly receding shore line, and then nothing but the open sea. This way, after leaving Montreal we will have the whole delightful trip out the St. Lawrence, with a grand view of Quebec, and through the most interesting and quaint part of Canada.

When we first went through Montreal we didn't think much of it. We found out, to our surprise, that it was built on an island, and that we would have to pay a toil to get off, as we had to get on, that it had about a million inhabitants; that the old section of the town is very French and not too clean, and the streets there are narrow and twisting, and that was about all.

Fishing Lines

Hints for Those Who Angle in Southern Oregon Waters

Vern Van Dyke of Lamport's said yeaterday that the best fishing for steelhead at the present time is from Bybee bridge to Hardy's dam. For the smaller fish, the north fork of Rogue river is one of the choices piaces now, he said.

Major Clare H. Armstrong, com-mander of the CCC camps in this district, plans to reach Crater Lake lodge Monday evening following a that section, and on Tuesday mor ing join Superintendent E. C. (Al) Solinsky of the park and Rupert J. Henry of Medford fishing in Crater Lake. The last time the tric fished there they made some good catches.

Captain C. N. Black, who has a lodge on Rogue river, landed two large steelhead in front of his place, in the old Rattleanake riffle Thurs-day evening, one weighing 7 pounds, and the other weighing 8½ pounds.

Harry Scott of San Francisco, who was formerly a frequent visitor to the Rogue, is here for the first time this season, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. Slater Johnston, and Friday weekler street of the season of the evening enjoyed fishing with Joseph Chevigny from the Tucker lodge. Neither was successful in landing any Neither was successful in landing any fish. Chevigny reported, but Scott hooked a large one, weighing about ten pounds. He had the steelhead for nearly ten minutes before it made its escape. Scott returned to the same place Saturday morning to try his luck again.

Joseph O. Tobin of Burlingame, who arrived here Saturday to visit at the Nion Tucker place, is anxiously looking forward to bringing in several good sized steelhead. He said he was anticipating the return to the river of Senstor John C. Burgard of Partiang who so sulvay atschead Portland who so enjoys steelhead William Leib and George Cameron.

both members of the Tucker party from Burlingame, obtained fishing licenses in Medford yesterday before leaving for the river. Leib says that his perference is trout fishing, in-stead of angling for steelhead.

BELIEVE BAILEY LINDY KIDNAPER

DALLAS. Tex. Aug. 18.—(AP)—The kidnapting of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh its 1932, and an attempt to escape jull, today had become entwined in the round-up of a wide-spreading kidnap and robber gang whose reputed leader. Harvey Balley, is in jull here under heavy guard.

Federal operative neither confirmed nor denied reports published in the Rocky Mountain News at Denver that two of its agents had been assigned "for life" if necessary, to determine if Bailey or Albert L. Bates, a confederate held prisoner in Denver, had any connection with the abduction and death of the fillers son. The police guard over Bates was increased to eight machine gunners after Chief of Police Albert T. Clark discovered three bars of Bates' cell had been backed through and discovered three bars of Bates' call had been backed through and a weapon-like metal pipe was within his reach.
