TIMBER SOLDIERS START FOR FIRE; FINISH IN WATER

By D. N. Hoylman.

It's just about a half hour after supper in 1746 Co., Selma, Oregon, and the members of the camp are scrambling around, making up bunks, folding work clothes, and policing up in general. A camp visitor wonders at all the haste. He looks at the bulletin board and sees: "Special policing of camp to be followed by swimming party—Everygody goes."

He's just finished the last line when the clanging notes of the fire gong breaks in upon him. Immediately, he's almost swarmed under as the men pour out of their tents and line up in the streets. Leaders appear as if by magic and shout their orders to their already detailed crews. They separate, some to the bucket brigade, some to the back-pump crews, and the rest tear into the supply tent and start bringing out fire fighting equipment.

The fire truck is backed up beside the tent and men, sweating and dusty, are streaming in and out like ants, loading picks, shovels, axes, saws, and the various equipment that serves to suppress fires. Between tugging and pulling at heavily loaded boxes of fire fighting tools, snatches of conversation can be heard: "I guess there'll be no swimmin' tonight for us. Just our luck to have this fire break out when we were goin' for a swell swim, but we'll get this baby out just like we got those other two."

The truck is just about full now —the men are piling on—up on the end and high over the side they go scrambling madly. Bruised knuckles and crunching heels are ignored in the mad melee. Amid shouts of "Step on 'er" "Hold 'er" (there are still a few illustrious fire fighters trying to pile on) the truck darts out onto the road, siren screaming madly, they're off in a cloud of dust.

They whizz down the highway, eager eyes scanning the horizon for the tell-tale signs of smoke—none yet. They turn off a side road—must be up in them mountains. Suddenly the "truckee" puts on the brakes and rolls up beside the dam on Rough and Ready Creek. "Everybody out for swimmin'," he announces, "there ain't no fire."

YOUNG PEOPLE OF PRESBYTERY HAVE FINE CONFERENCES

By J. W. Angell.

Two most enjoyable and successful young people's summer conferences have been held this year in the Presbytery of southwest Oregon, with an enrollment respectively of about 100 and 70. The former was held late in June at Rogue River, and the latter early in August at Bandon.

The Bandon conference is the first ever held in this part of the Presbytery, and was so successful and so enthusiastically received that plans are already in hand for another next year at the same place.

The conference at Bandon this year was due largely to the initiative and perseverance of the local pastor, Rev. Donald J. Henry, and the loyal support of his people and others near by. Conference sessions were held mostly in the Bandon church, with some classes across the street in the Episcopal church building. Afternoons were given, as usual, to recreation, games, stunts, etc., including swimming (in an enclosed, heated and specially chartered pool of sea water.)

Miss Mary Moore, of the Presbyterian foreign board staff in New York and whose home is in Bandon, was dean of the conference with Miss Donaldina Cameron of San Francisco as guest speaker. Dr. D. A. Thompson, synodical executive of Portland, had charge of the vesper services, and Ralph T. Moore, a business man of Bandon and a brother of Miss Mary Moore, was recreation leader. Others on the faculty were Lyman Carrier, a Southern Methodist layman of Coquille, Oregon, and Glenn R. Cole of Westminster seminary, Philadelphia, who is student supply-pastor this summer in the North Bend Presbyterian church.

As to the expenses of these conferences, "Southwest Oregon" challenges the entire church! At Bandon the whole charge—for registration, room, board, etc., was only $1.85 for three days! At Rogue River, for seven days, it was $4.50. And this includes fine, appetizing, bountiful meals, as your correspondent can personally testify! Possible only through many donations of food and supplies, and much volunteer help.

The dean of the Rogue River conference was Dr. John W. Haman, pastor at Grants Pass, with Mrs. Haman as dean of women, and Rev. W. J. Howell of Medford as dean of men. Drs. D. A. Thompson and W. L. Van Nuys of Portland and several ministers of the Presbytery were included in the Grants Pass faculty, with Rev. H. T. Mitchelmore of Ashland as registrar and manager.

The conference next year, which has been held this year and for several years previously at Rogue River, will be at our new permanent conference grounds at Glendale. This has been made possible by the gift to the Presbytery of his ranch of 160 acres by Rev. John K. Howard, pastor at Glendale, Oregon, reserving only the life use of the house as a residence. This site, bearing the name of "Fir Point," is ideally located, lying between the Southern Pacific railroad and the Pacific highway, hardly three miles from either, and surrounded by magnificent mountain and valley scenery, such as makes southwest Oregon famous. There is an ample supply of fine mountain spring water, a young orchard, and other improvements on the place; and plans are already under way for the erection, largely by gifts of labor and material, of a kitchen, dining room, and girls' dormitory for use next year.

PINE BLISTER WAR TO START AT ONCE

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Camps containing 1150 workers will be established immediately in Idaho, Oregon and California, to fight white pine blister rust, S. N. Wyckoff, in charge of the work in this area said today.

Funds for the work are being furnished under the national recovery act, Wyckoff said.

Twelve camps containing 50 men each are being established in Idaho in the St. Maries-Elk river and Orofino-Headquarters regions. Five hundred men will be employed in California and 50 at locations yet to be determined, Wyckoff said.

The men will be employed for the rest of this season, probably about the end of October. Next year, he asserted, the work will be extended to Montana and Washington. A fund of $1,152,000 has been set aside for the work in these five states.

GARMENT MAKERS STRIKE FOR CODE

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Sewing machines in 187 Chicago dress goods factories were idle today as a strike of more than 7,500 employes, members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers, went into its second day.

The strike was called yesterday after union officials said employers had failed to adopt a suitable code upon the terms of the national recovery program.

Meanwhile, police were called to the vicinity where most of the shops are located, to prevent outbreaks of trouble.

FLOUR MILLERS ASK PROTECTION ON GRAIN PRICE

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Flour millers of the Pacific northwest Monday urged that their interests be safeguarded in any plan the government adopts for the subsidized export of wheat from the north Pacific coast.

A committee representing the Pacific Northwest Millers' association asked at Monday's hearing by the federal agricultural adjustment administration, that flour as well as wheat be included in any plan under which exports made at prices below the American level will be built up to that level by cash benefit payments derived from the processing tax on wheat.

The meeting here yesterday was the first step by the government in preparing a program of subsidized exportation through which it is hoped a wheat surplus in the northwest of around 40,000,000 bushels can be removed.

Grain warehouses in the region are overflowing, there is no place to store the oncoming crop, and the surplus has been acting to beat down the domestic price throughout the country, speakers said.

PLAN REMOVAL 250,000 JEWS

PAHA, Czechoslovakia Aug. 22.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—A resolution recommending the removal of 250,000 Jews from Germany was ready for presentation tonight at the opening of the 18th World Zionist congress.

Of this number 100,000 can be settled in Palestine, Dr. Arthur Ruppin agricultural and colonization expert, believes. He and Nahum Sokolow, president of the World Zionist organization and of the Jewish agency for Palestine, will present political and economic aspects of the German Jewish situation at the coming session.

Other questions to be considered by the 332 delegates, including 29 from the United States, are Palestine immigration and the extent of which Palestine can afford a refuge to Jews of other countries.

OLD AGE PENSION BLANKS REQUIRED

SALEM, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Attorney-General I. H. VanWinkle was requested by the state board of control to approve a form of application for persons applying for relief under the old age pension law enacted by the last legislature.

The law, which becomes effective January 1, 1934, provides that all applications shall be filed with the county courts and later be audited by the board of control.

Persons 70 years of age or above, who have been residents of the state for 15 years and of their county for two years, will be eligible for pensions if they have no other means of support.

DAIRY HEAD SEES BAD SITUATION IN SURPLUS SUPPLY

A "bad situation in this city, resulting from an overproduction of milk," was described to the Kiwanis club yesterday at the Hotel Medford by J. D. Mickle, chief of the division of foods and dairies of the state department of agriculture, who is on an inspection tour here this week.

"Milk depots," Mr. Mickle described as "operating in direct conflict with the aims of the National Recovery Act, in that they are running down instead of building up, the price of milk. The tendency in the United States today in the government program is to control supply and re-establish price." An industry, Mr. Mickle emphasized, can't be built up by crowding the price of the product down.

Need for an equalizing tax on oleomargarine was also stressed by Mr. Mickle, who stated that action was taken at the recent dairy conference at Crescent City to urge such a tax through national cooperation.

There is now a total of 159,000,907 pounds of butter in storage, where the previous yearly average has been 128,000,000 pounds, Mr. Mickle stated, citing further the overproduction existing in the dairy industry. The net average income of the farmer today, throughout the United States, he added, is only $262. The average butter consumption in Canada, he stated, is 28 pounds, in Australia 26, and in the United States only 17.08.

ALBANY RESIDENT FOUND BEFUDDLED

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Police said today that Arthur S. Blanchard, 46, of Albany was found late Monday in the Park blocks of the downtown district. The officers said Blanchard disappeared here August 12.

The Albany man, who has been prominent in state fraternal circles, was unable to tell police a coherent story and apparently was suffering from illness or shock. An automobile he had rented just before he vanished has not been found. He indicated, the officers said, that it was "in the water." He said he had had a hard struggle "in the water" to reach safety.

Doctors who conducted a medical examination said Blanchard had suffered temporary loss of memory because of a slight brain hemorrhage, but the trouble was clearing up.
