

LOOKOUT STATION LOCATIONS CHOSEN BY CAMERA'S EYE

Panoramas Studied for Scientific Choice of Vantage Points in Spotting Forest Fires Is Shown

Location of lookout stations on the national forests in Oregon and Washington will be done scientifically in the very near future and an accurate check on the efficiency of existing stations will be available, due to an intensive detection planning project now being completed on the Rogue River national forest.

Four modern panoramic cameras, perfected by William B. Osborne of the regional office in Portland, have been occupying the 40 stations that comprise the fire detection organization of the Rogue river territory. Work has been in progress for several weeks and is now being completed by Robert L. Cooper, experienced photographer in charge of one of the photo-aervey units.

Wide Angle Possible. The modern camera used in this work embodies several original features. An angle of vision of 120 degrees is included in each exposure and only three exposures are required to complete the horizon commanded by the lookout observer. Each negative has photographed on it the azimuth numerals that pertain to the particular sector photographed, as well as having the land level line and depression and elevation angles below and above this level line photographed directly on the negative.

With such a picture each lookout observer, district ranger, dispatcher and supervisor's office will have a ready check on location of reported fires and an actual record of the topography directly seen by the individual lookout stations, which data can be utilized in relocating lookout stations on more strategic points from which more territory can be observed.

Process Takes Day. The photographic process demands an entire day on a station, because the sun's position determines the time at which each of the three exposures can be taken. Normally, the southwest horizon is taken in the morning, the north horizon around noon and the southeast horizon in the afternoon. Perfect clarity of atmosphere is essential for best results, although filters and super-sensitive film help to cope with haze and smoke interference, the forestry officials state.

Plans call for the ultimate coverage of all national forests in Oregon and Washington. To date field work has been carried on in the Deschutes, Fremont, Willamette, Umpqua and Rogue River forests. The project is under the field supervision of Albert Armat of the regional forest service office in Portland, and includes the following photographers: Lester M. Moes, Robert M. Snyder, Robert L. Cooper, James D. Hiltenshouse, William Birchall and Reino Sarlin.

KERBY BATTLERS TRIM APPLIGATE

In an inter-camp match between C. C. C. camps, Appligate and Kerby, Monday evening at Kerby, the Kerby team won two out of three bouts as well as the bucking contest.

The first bout between "Speed" Bowers, Roseburg, 124 pounds, and F. Marco, Portland, 135 pounds, ended in a decision for Bowers after he dropped Marco in the second. Bowers had the fight well under control at all times.

The second fight was a haymaker affair with both Wofford, Roseburg, 155, and P. Meade, Grants Pass, 153, practically out at the end of the first round. Early during the second round Kerby hit Wofford slipped one through and that was all.

The third bout between Hoyman, Merlin, 140, and Lester Beal, Grants Pass, 142, started out like a smooth boxing match, but Hoyman, Kerby representative, became over-anxious and was floored for the count.

The saving contest was a walk-away for Camp Kerby, with Blurton and Barnes winning over Meadows and Thomas of Appligate, 93 strokes to 203 strokes, and 51 second against 99 seconds on a 14-inch log. Much credit is due Brown, Kerby saw filer, as the results will show.

CRUSADING PRIEST SAYS TRIO GUILTY

DETROIT, Aug. 25. — (AP) — Closing his testimony before the one-man Detroit bank jury, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, crusading priest, today named three former officials of the Detroit Bankers Co. and declared "It is doubtful if they can escape indictment by the federal government."

The men, he said, were Peter J. Stougman, E. D. Stair and Wilson W. Mills. Stougman is a Detroit attorney, Stair a former president of the Detroit Bankers Co., and Mills former chairman of the closed First National bank, Detroit.

Father Coughlin accused the Detroit Free Press of publishing a faked record to show that he had engaged in a stock market transaction. The priest later admitted under questioning, however, that the stock described has been purchased for an organization connected with his church.

INTENSIVE DRIVE FOR NRA SLATED TO OPEN AUG. 28

Local Organization Gives Instructions in Obtaining Blue Eagle — Will Urge Consumers to Cooperate

The Blue Eagle is positively flapping his wings over Medford in his enthusiasm for speed these days, and the most intensive drive of the National Recovery Act campaign is scheduled for August 28 to September 4, it was announced by the executive committee of the local organization today.

Then the war against depression will be fought in the front line trenches with a Blue Eagle in every business house and home as the aim of the workers.

Consumers throughout the city will be urged to buy only from those businesses signing the President's Re-employment wage agreement and complying with the same. Three ways of obtaining the Blue Eagle were explained today by the committee, for the benefit of those persons who are still in doubt about the matter. Thousands of telegrams from employers are still pouring into national headquarters, and the following answer to the queries has been issued by Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the President's re-employment program:

To all employers who are not working under codes approved by the President and who ask: "How can I obtain the Blue Eagle?" the answer is, there are three methods which may be pursued. 1. Sign the President's Re-employment Agreement as is — without change or modification. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce at Portland, Oregon. Put its provisions into operation. Sign the certificate of compliance. Hand it to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you your Blue Eagle.

2. If your line of business has submitted a code and the N. R. A. has temporarily approved hours and wages to be in effect until the code itself is approved by the President, do this: Sign the President's Re-employment Agreement. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. Comply with its provisions as far as possible. Now, if a specific code has been submitted by your industry and its wage and hour provisions accepted by a N. R. A. deputy administrator, sign the certificate of compliance with this endorsement: "To the extent of N. R. A. consent as announced, we have complied with the President's agreement by conforming with the submitted provisions of the code submitted for the (blank) trade or industry." Hand this to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you the N. R. A. Blue Eagle.

3. If neither 1 nor 2 applies and you feel you have to file a petition for relief, do this: Sign the President's Re-employment Agreement, mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. If you find you cannot comply with most of its provisions, then prepare a petition to the N. R. A. asking for a stay or postponement of those provisions which would produce an "unavoidable hardship." Submit this petition to a trade association of your industry, or, if none, to your local Chamber of Commerce, or such other organization as can properly touch for the facts. If officially accepted by one of the above, add the following to the face of your certificate: "Except for those interim provisions regarding wages and hours which have been approved by the (blank) association or organization." Then the postmaster will authorize you to use the N. R. A. Blue Eagle. This last procedure may take some time and is, of course, subject to reversal when your petition is reviewed by the N. R. A.

It's great to feel fit!

Everybody has days when every waking hour is packed with rest of living. Why not make every day like this?

A frequent drawback to fitness is constipation. It may dull your energy, steal your appetite, lower your vitality. Yet it is so easy to overcome.

Try eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Science shows this delicious cereal supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to promote appetite, and tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than taking patent medicines—so often harmful.

Two tablespoons daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN has iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
