

DRIVERS LICENSE RENEWAL NEEDED AFTER AUGUST 31

After midnight August 31 only Oregon drivers' licenses issued since July 1, 1931, will be effective. Those failing to secure renewals will find their old licenses cancelled and themselves in a position of having no license at all, according to Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state.

Police officials have indicated that immediate enforcement of the new motor vehicle law will be made. Regardless of where a person is located in the state, he may avoid action from such authorities by securing from the secretary of state's office a regular application form, having his signature sworn to and returning the application, together with the $1 license fee.

Forms may be secured directly from the main office in Salem, the branch offices in Portland, or from the traveling examiners throughout the state who cover 61 towns on their regular schedule. Applications for operators' licenses may be acknowledged by county, circuit, district and federal district judges, notary publics, county clerks, justices of the peace, city recorders, clerks of district and federal courts and U. S. army officers when acting as officials for summary, special or general courts. This service is performed free of charge by the examiners from the department of state.

More than 40 per cent of the applications for renewals are received by mail through the main operators' division office in Salem and approximately 25 per cent come in from the traveling examiners. The remaining 35 per cent of the applicants make personal contact through the Salem or Portland offices.

FLUSHING BAR SAVES MANY WILD BIRDS ON NEST DURING MOWING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—That at least one game bird, either actual or potential, is destroyed by mowing machines to every acre mowed throughout the United States is borne out again by actual figures reported by R. M. Collett of Dayton, Ohio, according to information received by the American Game association.

In mowing 30 acres of hay, 29 pheasant eggs were uncovered and, it is thought, the mother bird on one nest was maimed so badly that she will die.

"Was over in the country yesterday and found that they had broken up three pheasant nests in the last 10 days in the hay field," Mr. Collett writes. "Two of the nests had 10 eggs each and one had nine, and the pheasants never came back to any of them. In fact, Robert moved right into the hen pheasant on one of the nests and cut her up very badly; possibly so badly hurt that she died, although they didn't find her. This means that in 30 acres of hay this year the mower actually destroyed 29 potential pheasants, and maybe killed one mother."

"Chances are they cut over several quail nests and just simply didn't find them. That also means that those quail didn't come back."

The flushing bar is the answer to this appalling loss of wild life, the American Game association points out. This bar, which is affixed to the mower, travels several feet ahead of the cutting knife, flushes the sitting bird and affords the operator the opportunity to lift the bar and leave an island of vegetation around the nest.

It was reported last year that in mowing 123 acres of alfalfa on the James Fuller estate in Pennsylvania, 1500 pheasant eggs were saved by the use of the flushing bar. Word comes to us now that 1380 eggs have been saved in 210 acres. Mr. Krall, superintendent of the estate, states that in years past, before the flushing bar was used, they killed several hundred ringnecks every season, but that since the advent of this useful implement the mortality has been reduced to a scant 25 or 30 birds.

This bar is coming into general use throughout the United States. France, too, is adopting it. It is estimated that 167,000,000 ground-nesting birds, potential and actual, can be saved each mowing season by the universal use of the bar in this country alone.

ILLINOIS YOUTHS REMAIN TOGETHER IN CCC CAMP BLY

With few exceptions, the 160 CCC boys recruited from various points in Illinois, and who received their preliminary training at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., are the same group who are now organized at Camp Bly, having been joined here by 42 local men. According to a comprehensive report of the camp's activities as outlined by Russell O. Keys of that camp, a great deal of work has been accomplished by the company since its arrival in Oregon.

With the camp construction completed by June 15, the boys moved into their permanent quarters, and immediately started on road construction. By August 9 a sub-camp was put out, and plans are now being made for a new main camp location where work is available.

Boys stationed at Camp Bly have aided in fighting about ten fires this season, the most recent being the Summit Prairie fire, which burned for seven days.

The camp is in charge of Captain C. E. Fingerson, and much credit is given by the boys to his inspiring leadership, which has kept the camp spirit and morale above the average. The captain has been assisted by First Lieutenant M. W. Daniel, in charge of mess and supplies; Lieut. R. C. Lake (JO) U. S. N., exchange and welfare; Dr. E. L. Gallivan, camp surgeon and Staff Sergeant Pittsburgh Pettus.

Mr. Keys states that "in return for these considerations the boys have given their best toward the project at which they are engaged and will further show their appreciation by continuing to do their part as individuals and as a unit toward the successful and satisfactory completion of their task."

Greatly increased steam pressure, the substitution of mercury for water in boilers, and the direct generation of electricity from coal without the use of engines, are some of the developments and projected advancements in the field of generating electricity by heat.

FAWN IS MASCOT AT LAKE O' WOODS

Lake o' the Woods C. C. C. camp now has a mascot—a tiny fawn, which has been named Little Orphan Annie, according to word received at district headquarters here from Second Lieutenant Glenn J. McGowan of the camp. The motherless deer was turned over to the camp by some tourists who accidentally ran over the mother, and visitors to the camp have taken many pictures of the animal. A picture of the spotted fawn was forwarded to headquarters.

the Lake o' the Woods camp has the only C. C. C. orchestra in the district that broadcasts regularly. The boys play every Friday at 7:30 o'clock over KPJI, Klamath Falls, and at 3:30 p. m. each Saturday over KMED. The boys have received numerous requests to play at social functions in the surrounding towns.

The camp is also proud of its baseball record, having defeated the Moon Prairie and district headquarters teams. They will now enter the championship finals.
