

TOURISTS, BURNED BY STOVE'S BLAST MAKING RECOVERY

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walker of Pasadena, Cal., who received painful injuries in the explosion last week at Union creek, which brought the death of their infant son, Robert Stewart, were reported in a much improved condition at the Community hospital today, and making plans for returning to their home in the south.

Although the attending physician has advised Mr. Walker, an instructor in the Pasadena schools, to make the trip by plane, friends in this city today stated that the cost would make such a journey impossible and that an effort is being made to find someone to drive the Walker car south. Mr. and Mrs. Walker and their small daughter wish to make the trip. Neither father nor mother is able to drive the machine. They have a large car and are anxious to find someone wishing to make the trip, who would be willing to do the driving.

Although they have recovered to a great extent from the burns received, Mr. Walker's back still causes him much pain. The body of their small son is still held at the Conger funeral parlors here and will be shipped south for funeral services as soon as the Walkers can arrange to reach Pasadena.

FRANCIS MERRIMAN'S LIFE ENDANGERED BY HURLING IRON SHAFT

A narrow escape from death was experienced by Francis Merriman, 24, of this city last night, when the pressing bar in the 400 ton hydraulic press at the Merriman Shop, Inc., broke, hurling a piece of the bar through the air at terrific speed and across the top of young Merriman's head. He received a severe scalp wound in which a number of stitches were taken, and had the bar traveled a fraction of an inch lower, felled workers reported today, his life would have been snuffed out in a few seconds.

Merriman was operating the control valve in the press, when the accident occurred. The press was operating at 100 tons pressure on an extra piece of work, which held the emergency crew at the shop until about 10 o'clock, when the bar broke. A physician was summoned at once and examination showed that only the scalp was penetrated by the bar and no bones broken. Merriman's condition was described as much improved today.

TENGWALD SEEKS DAY'S OLD CHAIR

Carl Y. Tengwald of this city is one of the aspirants for appointment or election to the legislative seat made vacant by the appointment of Earl B. Day to the county judgeship. Tengwald is a property owner, a member of the American Legion and a dozen other lodges and organizations, a tireless worker in the civic vineyard, a Republican, captain of the National Guard, and a hustler.

Other aspirants for the post are Victor Bursell, George A. Porter and Fred Colvig. All are of the Republican faith. As yet no Democrat has come forth, but several are due to "make the sacrifice." Party leaders are joking for a Democrat from the north end of the county. Most of the available Democratic timber for the legislature has an eye on a federal plum, and manifest no interest in going to Salem.

In the ordinary course of business, a special election would be held to name the colon. An election would cost about $3000. The governor will appoint a representative, in all possibility, if he can get the power, and save the $3000.

of public roads, finally assured the delegation he would recommend the $27,000 previously allocated on this stretch would be put up for early awarding.

Ask Bridge Repair Trussing up the Winston bridge on the Pacific highway south of Roseburg was urged by Ralph Saehli, of the Allied Truck Owners, to permit semi-trailers to cross over the bridge which now has a load limit of 25,000 pounds. This work would cost about $5,000, it was estimated, to reinforce the span until the proposed new bridge could be constructed within the next year. The commission asked the truck owners to contribute toward this work and will await the decision before making a definite order.

The commission set the dates for the next two meetings at September 14 and October 4 in Portland.

Low bidders on the projects opened for bids today were: Durkee-Gales and Lane Huntington sections of Old Oregon Trail, 10.45 miles bituminous macadam wearing surface in Baker county—Morrison-Knutson Co., Boise, $93,517; A. Milne, Portland, $97,660, Newport Construction Co., Portland, $102,635.

One culvert and five bridges over Burnt river on the Dixie-Laine section of Old Oregon Trail in Baker county—Theo. Arentz Portland, $50,373; Morrison-Knutson, Boise, $55,810; J. J. Badraun, Portland, $57,398.

Middle Fork-Flowers Gulch section of Penulston-John Day highway, 4.86 miles grading in Grant county—Myers & Goulier, Seattle, $192,730; Lawlor-Woodward Co., Seattle, $202,954; Kern & Kibbe, Portland, $209,282.

Equities were pushed up at a fast rate early. The proceedings then quieted down somewhat, but there was another rush of buyers just before the close. Despite some profit taking in the final few minutes, most leaders finished around their tops.

INSTALLMENT TAX PAYING DUE SOON

The Oregon law, whereby penalty and interest on taxes prior to 1930 are waived by the county, if arrangements are made to pay on the installment plan a certain amount every 90 days, will be applied in this county. It is hoped that the law will increase the tax payments.

The legislation was passed in an effort to benefit both the county and the taxpayers.

The expected special session of the legislature is scheduled to pass iron-clad laws, increasing penalties for tax delinquency, and strengthening foreclosure procedure. In many of the counties taxes are needed for operation of the schools, which have been seriously handicapped by lack of tax payments. One Jackson county district reported yesterday to the county court it had $66 on hand for the coming school year.

So far, the board of equalization has heard 44 applications for tax cuts. The board will hear applications until September 15, when rulings will be handed down. The board is composed of assessor, clerk and county judge.
