REINFORCE GUARD OVER DESPERADO FOLLOWING BREAK

R. G. Shannon, his wife and son Armon, on whose Paradise, Tex. ranch Urchel was held for nine days until the ransom was paid, and where Bailey later was captured as he lay asleep, a machine gun under his bed.

Sighted by Sheriff Sam Randolph of Love county at Marietta, Bailey was captured by Ardmore officers who were advised of his approach by telephone, after a chase in which his pursuers fired three shots, none of which took effect.

Submit Peacefully. Although he had a heavy caliber pistol under his left thigh, Bailey made no attempt to resist after he wrecked Tremp's car while speeding through Ardmore streets to elude arrest.

Hale Dunn, Ardmore chief of police, who with Bennett Wallace and Raymond Shoemaker, captured Bailey, said Bailey "was as white as paper, and he sort of looked at me with a sickly grin on his face and his hands flew up in the air."

An hour before the motorcade set out for Oklahoma City, Earl Scott, automobile salesman, reported a well-dressed youth carrying a violin case, stopped his automobile at the spot where Bailey was captured and forced him at pistol point to drive northward on the main highway.

As another automobile, occupied by two men, approached from a side road, Scott said, the stranger waved a handkerchief, ordered him to stop, and got into the other car, which sped northward. The report was submitted to substantiate the tip that friends of Bailey were awaiting him.

On Bailey's wrists as he was brought out for Oklahoma City, Earl Scott, flocked handcuffs worn by Frank Nash, outlaw killed at Kansas City along with four officers, when machine gunners apparently attempted to free him July 17. Bailey is accused in that slaying. Also the St. Valentine's day massacre of seven men in Chicago in 1929, and the large bank robbery, the well-known looking of the Lincoln, Neb., National Bank and Trust company, September, 1929.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment in connection with the $32,000 robbery of a Fort Scott, Kans. bank, but escaped from the Kansas state prison last Memorial day, with Wilbur Underhill, and nine other desperate convicts, after kidnaping the warden.

Floyd Bennett Taunt. While in jail at Dallas, Bailey was quoted as referring to Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, Oklahoma desperado, as "a real fry," an incident which was recalled last night as three men and a woman fled from Enid after a gun battle with officers, leaving a letter in their abandoned car addressed to Floyd. It was unsigned but gave the impression it was written by Floyd.

Fainting Bailey with being in custody while "I'm outside" and scuffling at "tough guys" stealing "a harmless man," the letter stated:

"I don't carry guns around with me to impress anyone. I carry them as a dire necessity. . . . I know some day I am going to lose, but when that time comes, I will not throw up my hands and rely on brains to get me out. I may be a 'small-time' $200,000 tot, but I'm outside while you probably are wracking your enormous brain to beat the chair."

The three men and the woman, reported wounded, wrecked three stolen automobiles in their mad dash toward the Kansas border.
