D.A.V. WILL TEST ECONOMY BILL IN SUPREME COURT

By ARTHUR E. SALLE, Adjutant Jackson County Chapter Disabled American Veterans. The first resolution passed at the national convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War puts the organization on record as sponsoring legal steps to test the constitutionality of the congressional act of Public No. 2, March 20, 1933. The economy bill takes away the entire compensation of 54 per cent of the disabled veterans, reduced over 55 per cent of all veterans and closed about 100,000 disabled veterans and at one time admitted 22 C.C.C.'s to one veteran in veteran's hospitals. But one thing that the economy bill did not take away is the charter of incorporation granted to the D. A. V. by the congress of the United States in 1932, or the editorial policy of the organization and the veterans and the combined efforts of organizations to defeat the economy bill and carry out the D. A. V. program. But upon the combined efforts of every disabled veteran, organization and every American Federation of Labor, each chapter of the D. A. V. must do its part and we want every disabled veteran of the World War in Jackson county to answer "present" at the army in Medford, Tuesday, September 12 at 8 p. m.

The D. A. V. might be termed a National Union of the Disabled, the latest news being that the D. A. V. will have the complete support and cooperation of the Spanish American War Veterans. The American Legion convention at Chicago is expected to demand that congress restore to the disabled veterans the compensation and hospitalization slashed by Public No. 2.

The D. A. V. has already received enough letters from members of both Houses of Congress pledging support of our program to feel sure of the outcome when congress meets again. Political observers in Washington are commending upon the large number of congressmen and senators who are passing the summer in the national capital. Those that voted to destroy benefits of now destitute disabled war veterans, probably now endure the awful "ring heat on the banks of the Potomac" rather than face the veteran protest at home.

The general public can not long be deceived, and when it does awake to the fact that it has been fooled, then there will be a revolution of feeling aroused that will cause a modification of the drastic and ruthless program of Public No. 2. When the general public learns that this bill was evidently passed because of the implied threat that capital would not assist the federal government in time of need unless protected. That all monies expended for the compensation and hospitalization and upkeep of veterans is derived from a sur tax on the income tax, and that only about 5 per cent of the population paid this tax. That under the economy bill the load is shifted to the real estate and personal property tax and to our local communities. And that, so far those that benefitted by the World War in purchase of Liberty Bonds and other bonds and mortgages are secure in receiving high interest payments, and included with the income tax savers free of taxation.

The country for which we fought and bled, has found it necessary to curtail and abolish the benefits previously granted us for our physical injuries and sacrifices in the World War. And we do not believe that national economy should begin and end with the disabled veterans. We therefore now demand that the federal government extend the scope of its economies to the end that through an investigation by the United States investigation bureau and other investigation committees, include the numerous income tax violators that are known to exist, and recover where ever possible the huge sums that have been diverted from the federal treasury by dishonest individuals and corporations. That the banks and loan associations be investigated on bonds, stocks, high interest bearing mortgages and foreclosures on such mortgages. That the banking system be purged of the parasites who speculate with and misappropriate the funds of their depositors, and that those responsible be compelled to make restitution by seizure of their personal property. That this racketeering element be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, so that honest business can serve the people of this

Buddy Rogers and Marion Nixon in Rialto's Picture

"Best of Enemies" a romantic comedy, plays at the Rialto theater today and tomorrow. Buddy Rogers and Marion Nixon carry out the romance part with Frank Morgan and Joseph Cawthorn handling the comedy with the adeptness of a couple of veterans.

Buddy Rogers makes his return to the screen in this picture after an absence of quite some time and he brings with him his own jazz band which has been heard over the radio during the past few months.

"Best of Enemies" is essentially a comedy with Frank Morgan and Joseph Cawthorn cast as the two enemies who are at continual blows over their radical differences over prohibition. When Morgan seeks to buy the lease on Cawthorn's beer garden so that he can erect a skyscraper, Cawthorn runs him out of his establishment. The enemy extends even to the children, who have been playing together. Each father prohibits his child to associate with the other. This state of affairs goes on for several years with the two always swapping insults whenever they meet. Eventually, however, the children are the cause of the two enemies shaking hands and agreeing to let the past be dead and forgotten, only to start another argument as soon as their children's backs are turned.
