

SELMA CCC TOPS OFF WOOD SAWING BEE WITH FEAST

By F. A. Veitch.
Because the men of 1748 Co. CCC, Selma, Ore., were mostly experienced woodsmen and knew the value of an advanced winter's fuel supply, they elected to have a "Camp Improvement Day" on Monday, September 9, Labor Day. The plans were to donate half a day's work to the camp in the form of cutting up extra winter wood. However, as it turned out, this was only a small part of what actually happened.

The company saw feller had the saws in first class shape and the boys boarded the trucks for Sucker creek on the Caves highway at 7:30 a. m. Each pair of men sawed five minutes and rested five minutes, while the other half of the team sawed. There was plenty of rivalry to see which team could buzz through the logs the fastest. With another group splitting over two large trucks, loads were ready to be sent back to camp at the end of the first hour. After that it was a case of obtaining more trucks to take it away.

At noon one of the camp leaders suggested a swimming party, and did the boys go for that? Then back to camp, and a surprise—the Takima baseball club was coming over to play and the camp was donating a chicken banquet. Some of the men were skeptical on the banquet part, but as long as there was 150 pounds of chicken involved they were all for it.

There was just time after the ball game, which the camp won, to wash up. It was a good thing, too, because with an odor of chicken drifting down the company street, the cooks might not have finished the meal before the men were on them.

The tables were set in a single line with a speakers' table in true banquet fashion, programs and menus had been printed and 10 dozen glad-ol-graced the tables. The boys ate chicken and all the trimmings, including fresh peach pie, a la mode, to their hearts' content. After candy and cigarettes had been passed one of the company CCC leaders acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the company officer, who put over a couple of famous after-dinner stories and thanked the men for their own civic interests in the camp's welfare. All but two men were able to leave the mess hall unassisted and these two got to arguing over who ate the most chicken.

URGE CITIZENS TO MAKE YREKA TRIP

All Medford citizens who can possibly make the trip are urged to attend the Yreka Miners' Gold Rush Friday, Saturday and Sunday. There will be no official caravan from Medford, but those who do attend are asked to call at the Chamber of Commerce office and obtain a Medford sticker, which has been prepared for automobile drivers in order to identify Medford citizens.

Medford Lion club is arranging for a float in the parade, which will take place on Saturday. According to Gold Rush officials who visited here this week with 150 Yreka boosters, the best day will be Saturday, as on that day the parade and the horse racing will take place, and those who wish to take in these events are urged to be in Yreka by 1 o'clock, the time at which the parade will start. It is also expected that a large number of Medford citizens will make the trip on Sunday. The celebration promises to be one of the biggest ever staged in the California city and it is hoped that the representation from Medford this year will exceed that of any previous year.

COUPLE ADMIT STEALING CARS FOR WILD RACE

car, the shotguns in it, form the leading possibilities. The girl, according to an affidavit signed, the police declared, by Diefenbach and herself, is going to have a child.

The two admitted, police said today, the Ford was the fourth car they had stolen before leaving Yakima, a week ago Tuesday night. They are not married, yet they crossed the state line together, which forms another possibility. Diefenbach "knocked over a store in Vancouver," as his curly-haired, brown-eyed companion chose to put it today, and numerous other things were admittedly stolen along the road, leading from Yakima to Medford, where Diefenbach was found in a straw stack on South Grape street. His past record shows former stays in Washington and Oregon reformatories.

Man Kludus Police.

The stolen car was noticed at Phoenix at an early hour by a state police officer. The girl was in it, but the man, who according to the story, had come to get gas, escaped. He beat it for Medford and was found here later by Officer Bert Peck in his straw stack hide-out.

"We had dodged all the patrolmen and plenty well. But when I saw him I said to myself 'here's trouble. I might as well give up,'" the 17-year-old girl declared today, reviewing the state policeman's approach to the car.

Diefenbach also surrendered without a struggle, officers stated. He at first denied his identity and claimed to have slept in the haystack all night. Fresh mud on his shoes refuted the story and he admitted his guilt.

Lots of Fun.

Speaking of the theft of cars, the rides through early morning snow, the stolen food and the nights spent out in the rain, while police searched the country for them, the girl frequently repeated: "That was swell; a lot of fun."

Her story, which might have been an excerpt from a true story magazine, started with a Saturday night drinking party, which ended at the Condon orchard out from Yakima, where Diefenbach was then employed.

Afraid of Parent.

"Pa had told me the week before if I stayed out after midnight again he would kill me," she reviewed the incident. "The first thing I knew it was after 1 o'clock. I was afraid to go home, and feeling pretty funny, Mary and her friend were with us. Well, we decided to stay all night. At six o'clock in the morning Mary's friend took her back to town. We got up and got breakfast. There were some others around and I was afraid to go home. After while I heard a car and I knew it was Ma and Pa. Ernie said to get under the bed and I did. They went past, then they came back and asked if I was there. Ernie said to get under the bed and Pa asked the boys to help them find me and they left together. After while I walked down the road with one of the fellows. We heard a horse coming and I was sure it was the mounted police, but it wasn't."

Stole Four Cars.

From there on her story jumped to Sunday night when "Ernie" came back to camp with another fellow, who drove the two up into the mountains to camp. "It was swell up there," the girl declared. The following Tuesday night she came back to Yakima with "Ernie." They stole the four cars mentioned, keeping the fourth to make their trip "to the border."

50 ARMY POSTS WILL BE CLOSED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today approved a plan to eliminate approximately 50 army posts and authorize expenditures of around $50,000,000 for consolidating 20 other posts into permanent stations.

At the White House, it was explained the plan for eliminating and consolidating the stations—which the president started work upon several weeks ago—would operate both from the top and bottom.

It was indicated that definite choices could not yet be announced, as to which posts would be dropped from the army lists and which ones would be given steerable authorizations of funds for building up into larger and more permanent bases.

PROSPECTOR FINDS GOLD; SHOCK KILLS

BOISE, Ida.—(UP)—Two long trails came to an end simultaneously recently when Charles Anderson, 77-year-old prospector, found gold. For years he searched over mountains of Idaho in quest of the yellow metal. His body was discovered over a vein of high test gold.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

A razor blade shortage — and its cause

AMAZING public response—far exceeding our most optimistic estimates—greeted Gillette's drastic price reduction.

At this writing many wholesalers and retail dealers are out of stock. The factory cannot keep pace with demand. The reason for this is very simple. Quality must be maintained at any cost. This instruction is law in our factory.

In fact—today inspection is even more rigid than ever. Each operation is supervised with extreme care. We are pledged to a continuance of the highest standards of excellence.

Expansion to meet present demand without lessening quality now is being attained. If your dealer is out of blades his stock should be replenished within a few days.

In the meantime we ask your indulgence and trust you will have no difficulty in finding a store which has Gillette, Probak and Valet AutoStrop blades.
