CAMP IS SPRUCED UP BY FOREST MARINES

PORTERVILLE, Cal.—(UP)—There are no "rolling stones" in the Camp Kramer contingent of the C. C. C. near here, Thomas Duncan, company cobbler, saw to that.

A low water supply forced abandonment of street sprinkling to keep down dust. Duncan peeled moss off boulders for his lawn, surfaced the street near his dwelling; others followed suit, and carried gravel in sacks from nearby gulches.

Now with graveled walks and streets and artificial moss lawns the conservationists plan to whitewash the rocks which line the street.
