Miss Long and Mr. Sanderson Married at Reese Creek

REESE CREEK—At an old-fashioned wedding service, read by Judge W. R. Coleman in the presence of many residents of this community last Sunday at high noon, Miss Annie Long of Reese Creek and Melton Sanderson of Reese Creek were married on the lawn of the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamilton.

The bride was charmingly attired in pale blue crepe and carried a large bouquet of white cosmos. Her twin sister, Miss Fannie Long, was her bridesmaid and wore pink silk crepe, carrying an arm bouquet of pink cosmos.

The groom was attended by his brother, Lawrence Sanderson. Little Miss Juanita Cook of Dorris, Cal., niece of the bride, was flower girl and carried a basket of sweet-peas.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. W. E. Fulton. Following the wedding, supper was enjoyed by 54 guests at a beautifully decorated table arranged on the lawn. Oregon mountain ferns and pink and white cosmos were used in decorating. Assisting the hosts were Mrs. Nash and Ted Seaman.

The supper was followed by the presentation of many lovely gifts to the bridal couple and a program of music, played by Harold Shaw and Mrs. W. E. Fulton.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rippey of Applegate, Mr. and Mrs. Young, Cleo and Freda, from Willow Springs, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shaw of Central Point, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Deen and sons of Derby, Daniel Perry, Victoria Dahack, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Seaman and daughter, all from Eagle Point, Edison and Cora Crandall, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Jacka of Butte Falls highway, Mr. and Mrs. Nash, Mr. and Mrs. C. Weddle, daughter Evelyn and sons, Mrs. French, Birdie Clark, Ned Jefferies and Hunter Sage of New York, Mary Solee, Art Nash, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sanderson, Thelma, Lloyd, Robert and Ernest Sanderson from Beagle, Ida, Mrs. and Erine Deen of Emmett, Ida, Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson will be at home to their friends on the Dodge ranch.

COAL CODE FIGHT LED BY MAN WHO ROSE FROM PITS

(Continued from Page One) recognition, but they obtained better wages and hours. In 1920 the union reached its peak of strength with 557,000 workers in good standing. A strike in 1922 and another in 1924 followed the miners' demands for $7.50 a day. In each there was bloodshed and destruction.

Strength Comes

Subsequently operators inaugurated an "open shop" program. Jobs were few. Miners were forced to accept operators terms to support families. The strength of the union weakened until this year. Then it became apparent the government would be forced to intervene to bring peace to the coal industry. Now, after the fiercest fight the NRA has yet produced, the industry is under a code of fair competition. The $12,000 a year president of the union has protected every interest of his men. As the long negotiations ended, in what most observers consider a great victory for the miners, he said:

"We shall do everything to cooperate to make the agreement effective."

All construction will be paid for under the National Recovery Act of the federal government, the state highway commission announced. The following projects were listed: Clatsop county—Two bridges over Humburg creek on Humburg Mountain-Ranger Station section of the Wolf Creek highway.

Grant county—Bridge over the middle fork of John Day river and four frame bridges over Granite creek on Middle Fork-Forest boundary section of the Pendleton-John Day highway. Jackson county—Little Butte Creek-Elk Creek section of Grater Lake highway, three miles of bituminous macadam wearing surface and 13.3 miles oil mat surface treatment.

Klamath county—Klamath Falls-Forest boundary section of the Klamath Falls-Lakeview highway, 26 miles bituminous macadam wearing surface and 16.1 miles oil mat surface treatment. Merrill-Mallin section of The Dalles-California highway, four miles bituminous macadam wearing surface, and 6.1 miles oil mat surface treatment.

Malheur county—Three bridges and six culverts on the Drinkwater Pass-Chimney Creek section of the Central Oregon highway. Multnomah county—Paving of Sheridan street-Portland city limits section of West Side Pacific highway on Fourth street.

Umatilla county—Emigrant Springs-Summit section of Old Oregon Trail, 6.05 miles crushed rock surfacing and 7.1 miles bituminous macadam wearing surface. Washington county—Beaverton section of Tulatin Valley highway, 8.97 miles asphaltic concrete pavement, and bridge over Tulatin river on Farmington secondary highway, near Hillsboro, including construction of approaches.

HEATH WILL OPEN NEW DRUG STORE COMING SATURDAY

Heath's Drug Store, in the new location at 29 North Central avenue, will be formally opened to southern Oregon patrons Saturday, Fred Heath announced today. Free bottles of perfume will be presented to all women who visit the store September 23.

Established in 1914 by Fred L. Heath, senior, this firm has become one of Medford's most popular drug stores, gaining prestige and increased business through the years. In 1923 Larry Mann became associated with the Heaths and during the past four years Fred Heath, Jr., has managed "Heath's." The new quarters on North Central are spacious and well lighted by 12 powerful overhead lights. The floor space is two and a half times larger than the former location.

Full length weather oak shelves have been installed for attractive displays of cosmetics and drugs. All fixtures are made of gray-stained oak to contrast with the cream walls and floor covering. There are basement restrooms for women and a comfortable lounge has been provided for the convenience of customers who have to wait for prescriptions to be filled.

An archway separates the prescription department at the rear of the store from the main floor. A private telephone system is a feature of Heath's Drug company, which enables physicians to get immediate service from this prescription room, which is one of the most complete and up-to-date in Oregon.

Jack F. Madigan, registered pharmacist, and Miss Alta Lindsey, optician, who have been employed by Heath's for some time, are welcoming friends at the new store.

BIRTHS
