

Hiram Meader Sees Rich Returns for Those Who Seek Radium in Canada

By Eva Nealon Hamilton

"Go north, young man, go north—into the Great Bear Lake country—is the advice that Hiram Meader of this city would give today to youth in search of a new frontier. When a bowie knife and a revolver answered man's needs in the Territory of Washington, he proceeded the trains there in '82. When the gleam of gold drew men to the new state, northward, he rode the Five Finger Rapids in the same. "The water came over us, up to our waists," Mr. Meader recalled, "but we didn't tip over."

And if he were a few years younger today, radium would lure him into that part of Canada of which he speaks. He would take a plane, as he took the rapids (right now), he declared yesterday, and come out with his share of the precious mineral. For even as radium is the mineral of today, so is the Great Bear Lake country the 1933 frontier, and the plane its means of penetration.

There is always new wealth. There is always a new frontier for youth with the courage to find it, and Mr. Meader believes he is one who knows a new frontier when he sees it.

In opposition to the wishes of all his family, he left the Nebraska farm when he was 19 to go into "that new country," the Territory of Washington. Many western winds, in zero weather, have since blown across his brow, but he still has more hairs on his head, he declared yesterday, than his eastern brother, now an important industrialist. The latter has a gold mine plate on his door, but he has never watched the ice break in the Yukon. He was never wrecked in Thirty Mile river. He never knew "Swift Water Bill," (as Hiram and Ownie Patton did), and he never saw Annie McBride dance in a shower of nuggets, weighing up $16,000.

The railroad war was on when Mr. Meader bought his western ticket in '82. It cost him $29 from Omaha to San Francisco. If he had waited one day he could have bought the same for one dollar. "There were no trains into the territory, so he took the old steamer Queen from San Francisco to Seattle, arriving there just at the close of the Chinese riots (more reason for the bowie knife).

He was on the territory board, when Washington later became a state, and was running a store at Lowell, Wash., when gold was discovered in Alaska. He sold out and started north, joining a party at Skagway. And it was with that party that he found himself wrecked on the steamer St. Thomas in Thirty Mile river. All the way down, the river resembled a letter "S." The steamer would nose its way up on the bank to make the bends. The last time it struck a reef of rocks

TWELFTH PLAYER GUMS UP GAME

HOLLISTER, Calif., Oct. 2.—(UP)—A spectacular open field tackle in a high school football game here left black eyes and facial bruises in its wake today.

For the tackle was not "according to Hoyle" nor the rules book. John McGuire, San Jose high school player who made it, was on the bench seconds before he appeared suddenly to stop a long run by Louis Spaford, Hollister high halfback.

Spaford was on his way to a touchdown when McGuire dashed over the sidelines and brought him down. Fisticuffs followed, according to spectators' reports.

When the field was cleared the officials penalized San Jose for having 12 men on the field. The tackle made little difference in the result of the game which Hollister won.

I'M SICK AND TIRED OF YOUR ETERNAL QUESTIONS!

Jangled nerves can make life miserable for those about you

These are trying times. No wonder nerves give way under the strain. And a nervous man is frequently not responsible for the things he says. But responsible or not, his bitter, sharp words can cruelly wound those around him—and cause scars which will never entirely heal, no matter how sorry he may be afterward.

Watch your nerves. Get your full amount of sleep every night. Eat regularly and sensibly. Find time for recreation. And smoke Camels—for Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand of cigarettes!

CAMELS—THEY NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES!

How are YOUR nerves? TEST No. 1

How long does it take you to put a dot in the middle of each one of these sixty circles? Here is a test used by a great university. A good score is 25 seconds.
