Striking Setting For Rialto Drama

The romantic atmosphere of Vienna with its period drawing rooms and graceful, artistic settings, features the drama "The Kiss Before the Mirror," which heads the current attractive bill at the Rialto theater. In an authentic manner, the refinement of the European social capital has been transferred to the screen through the art direction of Charles D. Hall, noted for his sets in "All Quiet on the Western Front," "Frankenstein" and other memorable films. His reconstruction of the large, vaulted courtroom, where much of the drama of the play occurs, is regarded by Hollywood's architects as being a masterpiece of set construction.

Zane Grey Film at Holly

Famous Star in New Craterian Hit

Katherine Hepburn's distinctive personality is brought forth with all its vitality in "Morning Glory," which opens today at the Craterian theater for a four-day run, after playing three weeks in Portland.

"Morning Glory" is the story of a girl who gets a spectacular chance for fame in a new play, after a struggle replete with disappointments and heartbreaks. It is not a backstage production in any sense of the term. It is around her struggles and a unique love triangle that the interest centers. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. gives a sympathetic and effective characterization as the young playwright who believes in the girl, and teaches her the meaning of idealistic love. Adolphe Menjou is at his polished best as a debonair and forceful theatrical producer.
