INJURY TO THUMB MAY KEEP HUGHES FROM IDAHO GAME

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore., Oct. 17.—The University of Oregon's fighting Webfoots, fresh from their upset victory over the University of Washington, will engage in their second conference game of the season here Friday night when the University of Idaho Vandals invade Hayward field.

The Vandals will bring to Eugene one of the heaviest and most versatile football lineups ever molded on the Moscow campus. Led by Willis "Little Giant" Smith, triple-threat quarterback, Idaho has a powerful running and passing attack which has enabled them to score on every opponent this season.

According to comparative scores, the Webfoots will have a heavy "paper" advantage over the Vandals. Washington defeated the Vandals 32 to 6, while Oregon won 6 to 0 from the Huskies. Webfoot scouts who have watched Idaho in action this season report that Leo Calland's squad is much stronger than the Washington score indicates.

Oregon emerged from the Washington contest without any serious injuries, although several of the players brought back the usual cuts, bruises and "charley-horses." Mark Temple, co-captain and left half-back, received a bad gash over his eye, requiring six stitches, but will be able to play Friday night. Bernie Hughes, Temple's partner at capturing the Webfoots, broke his thumb and may give way to his understudy, Chuck Swanson, against the Vandals.

BRITISH CHALLENGE FOR AMERICA CUP

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Royal yacht squadron today announced it had filed a formal challenge with the New York Yacht club for the America's cup, famous yachting trophy which the late Sir Thomas Lipton tried so long to win for England. The challenging yacht is T. O. M. Sopwith Endeavor, now being built at Gosport.

Charles Nicholson, famous boat designer and builder, who drew the plans for two of the Lipton Shamrock, fourth and fifth, has designed Endeavor.

It is understood the new yacht is of all-steel construction and constructed along the same lines as the all-steel Valkyria, owned by W. L. Stephenson, which made a fine showing at Cowes last summer.

Nicholson & Canper are the builders.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Taking two falls out of three, Wildcat McCann, 184, Portland, won the main event on last night's wrestling program here from Don Hill, 166, Bakersfield, Cal.

McCann used a full Nelson to win the first fall in 18 minutes. Hill took the second with an airplane spin in 12 minutes. McCann successfully applied a body slam in ten minutes to take the third fall and the match.

Buildup Jackson, 150, Klamath Falls, won two falls out of three to the semi-windup from Sandy McShane, 151, Pasadena.

Robin Reed, 147, Reedsport, won the preliminary from Henry Moore, 147, Everett, Wash., taking two straight falls.

ESCAPED MANIACS FROM SALEM ALL BACK BUT LEADER

SALEM, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Only one of the six patients who escaped from the criminally insane ward of the state hospital here 10 days ago was at large today.

Alvin Carter and Dean Welch were captured near Oregon City last night. Search continued for William O. Bowen, described by the other five as leader of the escape.

State Policeman Ed Snow clamped handcuffs on the men a mile south of Oregon City on the railroad tracks which parallel the Pacific highway.

Snow said the two admitted their identity and said they had traveled northward from Salem at night.

The escaped men abandoned their leather hospital slippers and wore leather boots and work shoes. Two men answering their general description had been reported near Woodburn with their feet wrapped in rags and paper.

Snow said the two men told him they were from Missouri. However it was Snow who insisted on the "show me," and their identity was established.

"They said they had had nothing to eat for three days," Snow stated. "They had a few potatoes in a sack and a few nuts in their pockets."

SCIENCE AND BRUTE STRENGTH TO MEET IN ARMORY BOUTS

Science meets brute strength in Wednesday's wrestling matches.

Jack Kugat, Canadian, says he can beat all the so-called tough matmen in the northwest.

Kugat is wrestling Harry Demetral, the Chicago Greek Adonis, in the one-hour top bout on Wednesday's mat menu. Demetral is a rugged, hard-working fellow in the ring and Kugat may meet a little more opposition than he bargained for.

In the one-hour semi-windup, the famous Dr. Napoleon DeVore of Paris, France, is matched with Pete Belcastro. This match should bring out some real thrills. DeVore is a nerve specialist and brings his knowledge of nerve work into the ring. Pete may find it hard to clamp on his favorite holds with the Frenchman plying his nerve centers.

Wednesday night at 8:15 will be the starting time for the grapplers, and some sensational work is promised the fans.

Promoter Mack Lillard's open house policy will continue.

TROY STARS HURT BUT JONES HOPES TO DOWN STATERS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Coach Howard Jones looked forward to the return of at least half of his six cripples for a sturdy defensive workout today against Oregon State plays at the University of Southern California prepared for what it hopes will be its twenty-sixth straight victory at Portland Saturday.

It was considered quite likely that Bob Erskine, tackle, and Curtis Youel, center, both of the first eleven, would not be able to play against the Beavers Saturday.

Troy's head man hoped Homer Griffith, first string quarterback, would show up this afternoon and rather expected Julius Besco, first team end, would put in an appearance. The status of Captain Ford Palmer was still uncertain. Cliffault, starting fullback, was expected to be in suit.

Both Erskine and Youel are suffering from knee injuries of a type which probably will require a week of rest, team physicians said. Palmer hurt his foot, Griffith turned an ankle; Propat suffered infection and Besco suffered a lame shoulder as an outgrowth of Saturday's victory over St. Mary's.

The Trojans will leave for the northwest tomorrow night and are due in Portland Friday morning.

DAVE SAYS AIMEE 'BROADWAY FLOP'

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Claiming he had made good on New York's Broadway where his wife was "a flop," David Hutton, Jr., estranged husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelist, today was back in Hollywood where he launched his vaudeville tour amid a shower of eggs and cabbage.

"I don't mean maybe," said Hutton. "I made good where she was a flop. In the word of the show business, they walked out on her and left her flat. It may have been because the theater-going public did not want their religion dished out to them in a show house."

ORDER 330 CCC'S THIS DISTRICT TO CALIFORNIA AREA

Orders have been received by CCC headquarters that approximately 330 men from Winesburg, Upper Rogue River, Bly and Ingram camps will be transferred to the southern California section on October 27. A special train will transport the men south. Lieutenant Robert T. Frederick, adjutant, said today, and it is expected that most of them will leave from Medford. It is possible a contingent might entrain at Lakeview or Klamath Falls. Camps where the men are being sent for the winter have been designated as Camp Copal, Camp Mono, Camp Williams Canyon and Camp Simi.

All local experienced woodsmen who have been with those groups during the past six months, will remain in the Medford district. Lieutenant Frederick said, and will be transferred into various camps. There are about 140 men in that classification.

With the transfer of the contingents from this section, 11 officers will accompany them. They include Lieutenant Carl H. Armbrust, Lieutenant W. G. Waltermire, Lieutenant Harold Soliday, Lieutenant John T. Bowers, Lieutenant Ralph M. Gerth, Lieutenant James R. Shivers, Lieutenant Clifton Taylor, Blankley and Lieutenant John S. Constantine Piggett.

Officers arriving in Medford today were Captain John Ross Murray, who will go to Cape Sebastian; First Lieutenant Blankley, who goes to Upper Rogue; First Lieutenant Piggett, to Winesburg; and Second Lieutenant Edw. Knighton Bear to Lake o' the Woods.

The 10 winter camps being established in this district are as follows: Lobster Creek, near Port Orford; Cape Sebastian, Lower Pistol River, Kerby, Rand Ranger Station, Evans Creek, Applegate, Carberry Creek, Elk Creek and Applegate.

AUTO CAMPS AND GRANGE PROTEST COPCO'S CHARGES

The minimum rates on an electric range is "an absolute outrage." He presented one of his own bills to emphasize his charges.

Another person making an appearance was H. W. Baker, proprietor of Camp o' the Woods at Wilderville, Ore., who said he represented 15 camp owners of Grants Pass and vicinity. Mr. Baker presented his own case, and told of making a 7-year contract with Copco five years ago, in which they extended the line 1 1/2 miles to his place, he paying two-thirds of the cost and another party, one-third. His amount to a $616 deposit, he said.

Later upon asking for a rate reduction, Ward Hammond of the Grants Pass Copco office informed him that if he would install electric hot plates in 85 per cent of his cabins, he would be allowed a two-cent rate. This, Mr. Baker said, would entail an expenditure of $500, and he stated that he does not consider the hot plates as efficient as gas.

Business at the camp, Mr. Baker said, had decreased 33 1-3 per cent in the past few years. He expressed the belief that there is no justification for the continuance of the present rate. S. C. Williams and Nile Hugel, both Grants Pass camp owners, also spoke briefly on the matter.

Mr. Van Scoyoc then resumed his testimony and presented to the commission the analysis made for the public service commission in a summary form, and also a detailed account, which was gone over item for item in the 39-page report.

The old commission's order of 1916 requested the fixed valuation of the California Oregon Power company, and the additions made from October 1, 1913, to December 31, 1918.

Chief engineer for the public utilities commission, Claude R. Lester, in his report Monday morning stated that errors, amounting to $188,820.73 had been made in the figures requested from Copco.

Transfers of items from various accounts were found necessary, Mr. Van Scoyoc said, but no adjustment in dollar valuations were made. He also said that Prospect plant No. 1 was abandoned at the time it burned in 1919, and until the new plant, now known as No. 2, was constructed, the former No. 2 carried that designation. Old No. 2 is now classified as No. 1.

In the Klamath Falls waterways report of December 21, 1913, he reported, additions were in the inventory, and were priced, dating from October 1, 1913.

In the report filed, Mr. Van Scoyoc told the commissioner that an account was established by him in

WALLOWA BANDITS MAKE GOOD ESCAPE

LA GRANDE, Ore., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Search continued today for two men who yesterday robbed the Stockgrowers and Farmers bank of Wallowa of about $2200. The two, known only as "Shorty" and "Slim," obtained six gallons of gasoline from an isolated farm near the Flora road late yesterday, holding up the farmer when he at first refused to sell them gasoline. They told the farmer, officers report, that they had just robbed a bank at Wallowa.

The two men later were seen, officers learned, by R. V. Christian and the son of C. T. McDaniel, Wallowa cashier, not far from the isolated ranch. The Wallowa men followed them for about three miles but were forced to stop because of tire trouble. No shots were exchanged.

Officers continued to patrol all roads in the Wallowa county district. The bank robbers were using a stolen Ford roadster, which belonged to a man in Ukiah, Ore. License plates on the car were 152-190.

There have been more truancies in the rural schools of Jackson county during the short period of school this fall than at any other time in modern school history here, Mrs. Una B. Inch, rural school supervisor, stated yesterday, making an unofficial survey of the situation.

The increased absence from school she accredited to various causes, poverty being one of the most outstanding, with pride its Siamese twin. People who admit their needs are cared for to the extent that the children may attend school, she explained, but there are still such staunch descendants of the Puritans, who can not bring themselves to accept "charity," as they term aid from the government. As a consequence their children do not have the shoes and days. Rather than accept aid, in a few instances they prefer to deprive their children of education.

In one case, the rural supervisor stated, she tried to induce a mother to accept clothing for the children, in order to enable them an education. Using as her argument the benefits the children would enjoy fitting them to ascend beyond the family's present financial level, the supervisor stated, the mother came back with a ready answer, "I meet plenty of educated ones on the road." The statement could not be denied.

Many other parents are just drifting around the country, failing to remain in any one place long enough for their children to obtain education. There has been a general exodus from the city and town to mountain cabins, trappers and homesteaders. And many of the people in the march mountainward are now living in the most primitive fashion, cooking in tin cans along the roadside, sleeping in houses without doors and windows, in spite of the fact that winter is just ahead.

Inflation to Make Jobs, Stabilize Dollar Value

Conclusion. No. 19.

The era that perfected the machine is at an end. There will be a new deal. Some are saying, why not have government ownership of the machinery of production and distribution, and be done with it. Government ownership means the regimentation of workers by the government into great industries under the management of bureaus, with the control of these bureaus centralized in Washington. A numerous and powerful official class would be created, able to perpetuate itself in office. This is the direction in which we are going at the present time.

Now if we have, as proposed in these articles, the government on the one side, ready at all times to furnish jobs to the heads of families at a minimum wage that will afford them a comfortable standard of living, while on the other side production of commodities is carried on by private enterprise, there would be left to the individual a freedom of choice. He could work for his government in non-industrial producing enterprises, creating national wealth, or he could work in privately owned and managed industries producing commodities.

Once the government provides employment for all those seeking employment from the government, and establishes a minimum wage, the necessity of government intervention in the conduct of those engaged in privately directed industries producing and distributing commodities would, to a great extent be done away with. Commodities would finally exchange according to the relative amount of actual necessary labor entering into their production, the value to the different kinds of labor would be regulated by supply and demand of labor in an open shop market for labor, the minimum wage paid by the government to a greater extent establishing the price level of wages and the price level of commodities. In the end there would be few debts and these would be obligations on the part of individuals and industrial organizations to the government and there would be no speculation and no hoarding. Initiative on the part of the individual would be rewarded in commodity producing enterprises as it has been in the era just past.

New discoveries, new desires, higher standards of living would continually call for more men at the right side, the privately owned commodity producing side. While the technological development of the machine would continually tend to turn men back to the left side, but the individual would always be left a choice as to the side he would serve on.

The government would "keep books" on all income so as to have a positive check on the amount of net income, both of individuals and corporations. The budget would always be balanced as in no other way could the price level of commodities be maintained. There would be no unemployment and we would have a commodity dollar, the value of which in commodities would remain the same from generation by generation.

This is the answer to communism. J. C. BARNES. (Tax End.)
