ANTI-JEWISH CRY AGAINST M'KEE IN GOTHAM CONTEST

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The New York mayoralty campaign roared into its final phase today to the discordant note of religious antagonism, and enlivened by the possibility of collapse of the revolt against John H. McCooey, veteran Brooklyn ally of Tammany hall.

A cry of "Hitlerism" was raised against Joseph V. McKee, independent Democratic candidate, for an article written in 1915, while he was a teacher, in which, according to Fiorello La Guardia, fusion candidate, he criticized the ethics of Jewish school children.

Samuel Untermyer, prominent Jewish leader, charged the article was inspired by "an ignoble misconception of our people," and demanded an explanation of McKee—a demand answered by the recovery party candidate that no attack on Jews "was made or intended."

"Mr. McKee's explanation explains nothing," Untermyer said today.

While the anti-semitism issue was being brought into the campaign, Brooklyn Democratic district leaders were gathering for a "showdown" with McCooey, on last week's demand for his abdication, or—as an alternative—his endorsement of McKee.

Kenneth R. Sutherland, who Friday was stripped of his $9,140 a year job at city hall, continued to lead the fight against McCooey with a call to rid the Democratic party of "its asinine leadership."

On the anti-semitism issue, McKee accused Laguardia of injecting it into the campaign "deliberately, viciously and for self-gain * * * by misinterpreting the intent and spirit of a single paragraph in an article written almost 20 years ago."

As proof of his good faith, McKee cited his friendship with the late Louis Marshall, a law partner of Untermyer.

Rockefeller Plan For Rum Control "Populistic, Aged"

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(UP)—The Women's Christian Temperance Union issued a statement today (Monday) that John D. Rockefeller's "new" ideas on liquor control are really 40 years old.

"The idea to solve the liquor problem by a strict national control with all private profit eliminated from the liquor business may sound new," the organization stated.

"But, 40 years ago the populist party in Iowa, engaged in an effort to tear up Wall Street and the Rockefeller family by the roots, charged in their Iowa state platform that both republicans and democrats were engaged in an attempt to outbid one another for support of the saloon element . . . and said:

"'We demand that the present liquor law shall remain until such time as it can be replaced by what is known as state and national control with all profits eliminated.'"

Just a Jab of Hormone, Mr. Rooster Now You're as Bright as a Peacock

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

WOODS HOLE, Mass.—(AP)—Part of the beautiful color patterns of feathers has been discovered by Dr. Frank R. Lillie and Dr. Mary Juhn, his research associate.

Their work was done at the Marine biological laboratory here and at the University of Chicago.

As a result they have grown rooster feathers possessing markings more gorgeous than nature's designs. The feathers are grown on adult birds and in only a few weeks' time. Several sets, all different, can be grown on the selfsame rooster. All the colors are permanent.

Hormone Does the Trick

One method is to give the roosters injections of the hormone thyroxin, under the skin. A hormone is a chemical secreted by a ductless gland, such as the thyroid. It is spread through the body by the blood.

The color pageant of feathers, the scientists found, is formed in the stems. A small amount of thyroxin causes pigment to form next to the stem, in a spindle-shaped patch. More thyroxin widens this pigment deposit into the form of a half moon on each side of the stem. Still more of the hormone similarly paints a bar straight across the feather.

Varying Amounts Change Colors

All this color deposit is made by the growing tip of a feather. By varying the amount of thyroxin and the frequency of injections the feather designers combined spindles, half moons and bars into a variety of shapes.

The thyroxin induces these results by speeding up the bird's metabolism, rate according to the volume injected. Instead of thyroxin plain hen hormone may be injected.

Thereupon the rooster's metabolism rate no longer changes. But the pigment itself changes from male colors to female. Also the natural patterns change from male to female markings.

Changes Work Both Ways

While the colors produced are lasting, the effect of the hen hormone injection is temporary. So by regulating the injections a growing rooster feather can be switched to and fro from male to female from time to time. Each switch leaves its permanent mark in both color and pattern on the feather.

These experiments were made chiefly with brown leghorns. Long feathers were plucked and the hormones injected while the new feathers were growing in. The health of the chickens was not affected if the amount of the hormones, particularly thyroxin, was gauged properly.

'Fine Feathers' Grown to Order

Any time a brown leghorn rooster wants to take on a peacock-colored coat of feathers, he can call in a scientist and have an injection of the right kind of hen hormone—with the results observed above in tests conducted at Woods Hole, Mass.

OREGON FILBERTS SOLD ERE PICKED, OUTLOOK BRIGHT

PORTLAND, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Journal said today "The filbert nut crop of Oregon and Washington has been sold before being fully off the trees."

"With an output estimated at close to 1,000 tons," the article said, "compared with around 500 tons a year ago, this year's big filbert output has shown an excess of orders which has caused late operators to buy from second hands."

The North Pacific Nut association announced it has already sold its estimated quota of filberts at opening prices. The first shipment of note is a lot of 700 bags going from Portland to the Atlantic coast by steamer tonight.

Walnut picking has started in a small way in the Willamette valley but general operations will not get underway until next week. Operators say crop conditions indicate practically no change from the recent estimate of not more than 40 per cent normal of the Pacific Northwest.

JERSEY NAZIS IN STREET COMBATS

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 17. — (AP) — Bruised heads and a dozen arrests marked this city's first Nazi rally.

A hall in which the friends of New Germany, Nazi organization, met under the swastika last night, was stormed by a crowd of anti-Nazis.

Volleys of stones and stench bombs crashed through the windows before a police cordon, thrown about the building restored order. After the meeting sporadic street fighting broke out.

One man was hit by flying glass. Others were bruised. An anti-Nazi was arrested for threatening to assail a Nazi sympathizer with a lead pipe.

More than 100 police reserves were called to put down the disorders.
