

RUSSIA MAY BE CRADLE OF MAN SCIENCE THEORY

Closer Relations Between U. S. and Soviets Will Permit Exploration of Vast Geological Lockbox

By HOMER M'COY. NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Toward Russia, laboratory of political precepts, Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews is turning a scientific eye on the theory that it may be the cradle of mankind.

In the closer fraternity that is now developing between the United States and the Soviet government, as evidenced by the impending discussions between President Roosevelt and Foreign Commissar Litvinoff, Dr. Andrews sees a scientific rapprochement that may make more accessible for exploration a vast geological lockbox of scientific secrets.

It is a huge pie, he said, and thus far only the edges have been nibbled. His expeditions into the Gobi desert amounted merely to casual peeps into what he considers humanity's cradle.

North of Mongolia and into Siberia east and into Russian Turkistan, may be buried some chapters of the story of the rocks.

Dr. Andrews has made no immediate plans for a scientific foray into this region, largely because of the retrenchment program under which the American Museum of Natural History is operating. But when he is ready, he has the assurance that the Soviet scientists will cooperate fully.

"Last summer I conferred with officials of the Russian Academy of Science who were gratified to learn how willing they were to assist in any work I might undertake there. They have a keen interest in science, both pure and applied."

He explained Asiatic Russia's importance in the search for prehistoric knowledge.

All roads once led from the interior of Asia, millions of years before they converged on Rome. Many things began there, it is his theory; then they moved out.

The huge reptiles, the mammals that followed them, finally man, followed definite paths of migration, one west and south to Europe, the other up through what is now Siberia and into North America, across the overland passage once thought to have existed between the two continents.

No one has followed that path carefully in search of what primitive man left behind him, he said.

For example, the mystery of what happened to the dunes-people might be solved along the Siberian trail. Only yesterday, geologically speaking—about 20,000,000 years—the dunes-people inhabited Mongolia.

No fossils found. No fossils of the race have been found, only their implements.

"What happened to them?" asked Dr. Andrews. "They couldn't have simply vanished. They probably moved north and east, and if we follow their ancient route we may find out."

Then, there is the missing link in the evolution of the horse. Paleontologists have traced the horse from Eohippus, a small, four-toed animal, to the superb running mechanisms of today. Before Eohippus, scientists know, came a five-toed ancestor, traces of which have not yet been found. Dr. Andrews has discovered fossils of Eohippus in Mongolia; others have been unearthed in Europe.

North of the Gobi desert in Southern Siberia, Dr. Andrews declared, the earlier form may be uncovered.

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL'S HALLOWE'EN FROLIC IS FRIDAY NIGHT EVENT

Not only do the pupils of Roosevelt school, but their parents and friends as well, look forward to the annual "Hallowe'en Frolic," which this year will be held in the school auditorium Friday evening.

There will be two performances of the elaborate programs prepared by the teachers and pupils, at 7:30 and 8:30 respectively. The program includes playlets, acrobatic stunts, interpretative dancing, and an original play. In the course of these characterizations, approximately seventy children, attired in appropriately unique costumes, take part.

Following the program, various entertainment features for youths and adults are provided, including a boy's fish pond, girl's fish pond, and other Hallowe'en attractions.

Refreshments to be served at a nominal cost include home made doughnuts, pies, cakes, ice cream, candies, cider and good coffee, all of which are deliciously made and provided by the culinary artists of the Roosevelt Home Circle.

Entire proceeds will be used to purchase and supply milk to the underweight children of the Roosevelt school.

Friends and parents of Roosevelt school are urgently requested and all those interested are cordially invited to attend this gala Hallowe'en frolic.

CCC MEN LEAVE FOR CALIFORNIA POINTS

Civilian Conservation Corps men, numbering 200, left last night from Klamath Falls for various points in the Port Arthur district in California. They represented the Wineglass, Upper Rogue, Ingram and Bly camps, which they left yesterday to entrain at Klamath Falls.

One group will go to Santa Barbara, another to Santa Susanna, and two to Clement.

Dr. C. H. Paake will resume his practice of Dentistry at 319 Liberty Bldg., beginning Oct. 18. Phone 533

DISABLED VETS SAY UNCLE SAM WITHHOLDS JOBS

By Arthur E. Sallee, Adjutant. Disabled American veterans of the World War will protest the lack of employment given to disabled veterans by the U. S. employment bureau.

The national commander of the D. A. V., Joe McQueen, who is chairman of the advisory board and councilman of the U. S. employment board, and in a series of conferences with the secretary of labor held this week, which may have a profound effect upon the federal government to place in employment former service men.

Everyone of the provisions of the executive orders which have been issued by the president to the federal civil service commission in the past, providing for preferences as to civil service examinations, appointments, promotions, and retention of employment of disabled ex-service men, were originally proposed and sponsored by the D. A. V.

Commander McQueen's meetings are called at a time when large numbers of ex-service men are losing their jobs. Many were forced off Uncle Sam's payroll due to reduction in forces and when they applied for jobs in emergency administration.

Friends and parents of Roosevelt school are urged to attend this gala Hallowe'en frolic.

SIXTY TEACHERS STUDY STARS AT HOME OF REIMER

The first meeting of the lecture course in astronomy, under the direction of F. C. Reimer, was held at the Experiment station Wednesday night at 7:30. The class was organized as a teacher improvement group with the expectation that there would be 10 in the class. Sixty teachers were present Wednesday evening to listen to Mr. Reimer's clear and interesting talk on the moon and planets.

Miss Faye Woolsey has placed the following books on reserve for the use of the class.

Duncan—Astronomy, a textbook. Gregory—The Vault of Heaven. Lewis—The Friendly Stars. Martin—The Way of the Planets. Stetson—Man and the Stars. Chambers—The Stars. Shapley—Starlight.

Series—Astronomy with the Naked Eye. Series—Round the Year with the Stars.

Mr. Coe, superintendent of Jacksonville schools, has placed a copy of Barton and Barton's "Sky Map" in the office of the county superintendent, for loan.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday evening, November 8, at Junior high school, at 7:30 p. m.

'PURSER' HOOVER ON FISHING TRIP

LONG BEACH, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Somewhere south of here in the high seas today was the yacht Samoa, carrying Herbert Hoover, assistant purser, in search of the elusive swordfish.

The former President, however, is not a paid purser on the yacht, a 140-foot vessel. He is merely so entered on the ship's papers to facilitate clearing foreign ports.

The Samoa will first put in at Ensenada, Lower California, for official papers and may eventually enter the Gulf of California before the three weeks' cruise is over. Besides Mr. Hoover, those aboard the yacht are Willitta J. Hole, owner; former Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, also an "assistant purser," and Harvey S. Mudd, a retired mining engineer.

"During Dr. Emmens' absence in the east, Dr. Howard N. Bywater, eye, ear, nose, and throat surgeon, will be in his office at Grants Pass to attend anyone needing his services. Dr. Bywater is rated as one of the best men in his line on the coast."
