

SONS Play Marin Junior College in Medford Saturday

FANS GET CHANCE FOR PEEK AT BIG TIME GRID ACTION

Visitors From Bay District Probably Furnish Stiffest Opposition For Hobson Squad This Season

According to word from Coach Howard Hobson of the Southern Oregon Normal school at Ashland, negotiations were completed this morning for a game here Saturday on Van Scoyoc field with Marin Junior college of San Rafael, Calif. Marin Junior college is a feeder for football men for such institutions as California, Santa Clara and St. Mary's and boasts a formidable reputation in the Bay district.

The Marins have won the Northern California Junior championship twice in the last three years, and the team this year is one of the best turned out at the college in several years.

In taking on the Californians Coach Hobson is probably pitting his squad against the strongest outfit he has had this season. However, the Ashland team, on the basis of its record so far, should give the invaders plenty of battle. "Hobby's" men have but one defeat on their slate—losing 21 to 0 to the Oregon State varsity early in the season.

The game here Saturday is scheduled to start at 2:15, is being underwritten by Medford business and professional men and tickets will go on sale tomorrow at The Office Stationery and Supply store and The Toggery.

REED, JACKSON GRAPPLE DRAW

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Building Jackson, 155, of Klamath Falls, and Rodin Reed, 155, of Hoodport, struggled through 60 minutes of wrestling to a draw on the program staged here last night.

Neither could successfully execute the deciding tangle after Jackson had taken the first fall in 20 minutes with a hammerlock and Reed had wrestled it up in 23 minutes with a knee crank.

Ole Clingman, Oklahoman City, defeated a grappler booked as the "masked marvel" in the semi-windup taking two out of three falls.

Leger Hebert, 160, St. Helena, won two out of three falls to take the preliminary from Rod Fenlon, 163, Los Angeles.

WIN AT KLAMATH MAKES MEDFORD TITLE CONTENDER

By Harold Grove
With the winning of their first Southern Oregon conference game of the season Saturday by a 7 to 0 score over Klamath Falls, the Tigers have gained recognition as a contender for Southern Oregon and state honors.

The Medford team was slowed considerably at Klamath by the mud. Their running plays were halted not because of the inefficient blocking of the interference but because of inability to get good footing. Their passes have worked in either dry or wet weather.

In the Marshfield game the field was dry while at Klamath Falls the field was wet and the ball very slippery. In comparison of completed passes both games were the same, showing that it doesn't make much difference to the Tigers whether the ball be dry or wet, they complete them just the same.

Undoubtedly Tom White played his best game of the season Saturday at Klamath. His calling of signals and generalship were as good as any high school quarterback in the state. He did not call a single fumble during the game.

Max Gillinsky, stock little halfback, played his best game of the season also. He was on the booting and tossing end of most of the punts and passes and on the long end of the yardage gained column. It was from his pass to Bennett that the field score was made and his Al. Chem. & Dye.

Bill Bates, husky fullback, found out that it takes more than a grunt and a groan to get through a big, tough, heavy line. Bill was hardy ever thrown for a loss and even if tackled behind the line, managed to carry his tacklers at least to the line of scrimmage. Bill was also outstanding on pass defense along with Tommy White and Russel Brown.

The line was responsible for the long gains made by the backfield. If it were not for them the backfield would not have been able to go any place. "They did all the work," as the saying goes, "and get no credit for it." Estes, Bennett, Pierce and Shaw were outstanding in the line on defense.

Hamack, center, was outstanding for his accurate centering. His passes back from center, were considered one of the factors in the defeat of the Pelicans. The whole Medford line from end to end showed a great improvement over the preceding games. If these qualities continue to be outstanding the Medford team will undoubtedly be headed for another Southern Oregon title.

Next Friday the Tigers will journey to Eugene to meet the strong Eugene high school eleven.

FINE TREES SPARED AS SERVICE STATION LOCATION PREPARED

None of the oaks, nor the magnolia tree in the yard of the former E. B. Pickel residence at Main and Ivy streets, and in process of leasing to an oil concern for a service station, will be destroyed or mutilated.

The property is owned by the Ray Toft estate, and Fred E. Wahl, administrator said yesterday that specific terms of the lease were that the trees not be felled.

Wahl said that the magnolia tree, one of the few of its species in the county—might have to be moved, and if it was, it would be under the direction of tree surgeons, sent here by the oil company.

A number of nature lovers of the city feared that the trees, all over 25 years of age would be chopped down, but assurances to the contrary have been given them.

Wahl says that landscape architects of the oil company will be here soon to map plans for the preservation of the trees and plant more shrubbery and that plans for the station have been delayed, while the engineer worked on plans to build the station without interfering with the trees.

Wahl says the oil company is as anxious to preserve the trees, as the nature lovers.

Communications

Opposes Profit System
To the editor:
We think it often lends encouragement to look back over the long trail our civilization has traveled. Beside appreciating the achievements attained we may well note the many superstitious ideas and customs which we have cast aside. If we give careful attention some equally clinging to us.

Down in the South American republic of Columbia there exists a race of people who have not thrown off as many of these heathen customs as some others have. I refer to the head-hunters. Their custom is to take the heads of rivals or enemies and by a process, shrink them to about the size of a man's fist. As many as possible are accumulated and a person is rated by the number of heads in his possession. In order to advertise their greatness they adorn themselves with these gruesome specimens. Though this may be repulsive to you, down in Columbia it is considered a wonderful system.

Believe it or not, to me there is a striking similarity between these heathen creatures and those who support our profit system where the greatness of a person is rated by the number of dollars that can be accumulated. The only reason we can offer for tolerating such a ridiculous system is that we have either lost our heads or are allowing a few depraved persons to use them for their own glory. But in all fairness, it is their right to heap all the blame upon those who are the winners in this game? Are not the losers in this game? Are not the losers in this game? Are not the losers in this game?

Unless there are radical changes made in our economic system we will hit bottom with a thud. I very much respect Mr. Barnes for suggesting what he thought to be the cause. We think it impractical and hope we have shown why. It is always easy to pick flaws, one should refrain from doing so, unless they themselves can furnish a better plan. We believe we have one which we would like to present—if the editor will permit. Just two more shots, please, from
