

SUMMER RECORD FOR CCC PROVES WORTH OF PLAN

Boys Taken From Depression's Clutch Turn Hands To Productive Channels—Forests Profit By Work.

Taking underprivileged young men from 18 to 25 years of age, from the bread lines, the gangs, the city streets and the other channels of depression, and giving them a start toward productive work and respectable citizenship—that is what the Civilian Conservation Corps and the President's emergency construction work has done for the youth of America, reports of their summer's accomplishments show.

For the 111 camps in Oregon and Washington, the report shows a total of 1275 miles of new truck trails or mountain roads constructed, and in addition 4750 miles were improved or conditioned. The boys built 315 miles of horse or foot trails, and improved or conditioned 5661 miles of trail; constructed 817 miles of woods telephone lines, and maintained an additional 2887 miles. They constructed 653 permanent forest buildings, including lookout houses, ranger stations and other structures. A large number of permanent camp grounds were cleared and improved with fireplaces, stoves and sanitary accommodations. They cut thousands of telephone poles and fence posts, marked section corners and forest boundaries, built bridges and culverts, and improved streams.

Fireproof Forests.

In an effort to "fireproof" the forests, 98 miles of fire breaks were built, 12,168 old snags were felled, and fire hazards cleared from forest areas along roads and trails. Other activities included beetle control and survey work, timber cruising, rodent control and range improvement work.

Their construction work was frequently interrupted by calls to fight forest fire, and 58248 man-days were spent in this manner. Exceptional work was done on the disastrous Tillamook fire, when one boy lost his life and others were injured in line of duty. Acting Forest Supervisor Karl L. Janouch of Rogue River national forest, reports:

All of this work, except fire-fighting, constitutes permanent improvement of the nation's forest property. It is not "made work," simply to give the boys a job. Most of it has been done in accordance with definite plans which were perfected for needed forest improvements, even before the President's Civilian Conservation Corps was authorized.

Little Planting Needed.

Many people ask why the boys have not been planting trees, he said. When the camps were established early last summer it was too late in the season to plant trees successfully. The CCC are planting 500,000 trees on the Columbia national forest this fall.

Except for those lands which have been burned and returned, only a limited amount of artificial reforestation is necessary in this region. Natural reforestation usually is dependent on, provided fires are kept out or controlled. This is why most of the work of the CCC camps consists of fire protective improvements, he pointed out.

All of this activity is part of a definite forestry program that has long been planned by federal and state authorities on the basis of a nation-wide movement for the conservation of resources vital to the welfare of our country. As a result of a senate resolution last year, introduced by Senator R. S. Copeland, the forest service compiled what is known as the Colwell report, which is, in effect, a national plan for American forestry. All of this means the emergency conservation work is strictly concerned with measures necessary to insure economic and social benefits from the forest lands.

JACKSONVILLE GRANGE H. E. COMMITTEE HEADS BIG EVENING PROGRAM

One of the big programs of the year was presented at the Jacksonville Grange Friday evening with the home economics committee presiding. This department of the Grange is one of the most active and has done fine work during the year. It sponsors a home economics club with meetings twice a month and aids in carrying on the work of the Grange in cooperating with the master and lecturer.

The program was opened with a musical dramatization entitled "The Old Sweethearts of Dad." Mrs. Florine Severance and Wildon Hartley played the parts of mother and dad. Those appearing in the drama in appropriate song were Mrs. Edna Jones, Norma Arnold, Doris Conger, Leona Conger, Bernadine Arnold, Irma Niedermeyer, Wilbur Yokki, Anna Wendt, Reva Hensperger and Florence May Severance.

Following the musical sketch, Joyce Anne Sims gave three musical readings and Catherine Wendt sang two delightful soprano solos. As a special treat Miss Dorothy Reynolds of Medford and Mr. Reedy and Miss Ruth Severance from Ashland were present, and entertained with whistling and harmonic solos.

Following the program Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brookway initiated the group into the intricate steps of the Heilman circle. Several rounds of this folk dance were enjoyed until refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Jones, Claire Hanley, Mr. and Mrs. Reva Hensperger and Mr. and Mrs. John Barneburg.

Later, dancing was enjoyed with Miss Dorothy Reynolds at the piano. Home Economics club is making big preparations for the Harvest festival dinner and carnival to be given in the near future. Committees have been appointed as follows: Fish pond, Doris and Leona Conger; candy booth, Irma Niedermeyer; country store, Anna Wendt; dinner menu, Miss Jones; program and publicity, Mabel Sims.

Many friends of the Grange have been waiting for another of the dinners given some time ago and the one to come will more than fulfill all expectations.

The club will meet at the court house for the next meeting November 8th, at 2 o'clock.

Filed Today—Jim Wagner, 35, was fined $10 in city court today when taken before Judge A. D. Curry on charges of being drunk in a public place. He was arrested last night.

Ray Gregg, 28, also arrested last night, was ordered to work on the streets five days, for the city.

GOLD PRICE BOOST MEANS MUCH FOR VALLEY OF ROGUE

Roosevelt's Program Will Help Miners And All Selling Commodities Banker And Mining Man Say.

Extension of President Roosevelt's gold price lifting campaign to a world basis, was welcomed here yesterday as indicative of better times in the Rogue river valley.

Increasing the value of gold means decreasing the value of our dollar, thereby increasing the value of our commodities, B. E. Harder, president of the First National bank, who has just returned from the regional conference of Pacific Coast Mountain states in San Francisco, summarized the situation.

Pears Will Profit. At the meeting in San Francisco, he added, the increase of gold's value was welcomed as an improved condition. Gold is itself a commodity, and its price has gone up. $3. Oregon is itself a lot of that commodity, and it's going to take more dollars in the future to buy the other commodities that the Rogue river valley has to offer, and that's where, in Mr. Harder's opinion, the greatest benefit will be realized here. The price on livestock will go up, so will the price of grain, had on "pears, of which Jackson county has many.

To J. R. Shurtleff of the Southern Oregon Mining association, the increase in gold price means that every mining man who made one dollar last year will make $150 this year and so on through the scale from the smallest prospector to the largest mining concern.

There are now approximately 500 men mining in Jackson county. That number will be increased greatly as the rainy weather continues. It increased last winter and with this winter's increased number will come a greater increase in money brought into Medford. For gold, always man's favorite mineral, has become more desirable through the president's program.

New Store Crowded. Reflection of the increased valuation of gold has already been noted in other markets. Mr. Harder stated yesterday. Viewing the opening in San Francisco of the new J. C. Penney company store, he said he found the streets crowded, for blocks and the four-floor store unable to accommodate the shoppers, as they surged in. Mr. Harder also interviewed Mr. Penney, who came west for the opening, while in the city. He said he had a very congenial opinion particularly interested in conditions in Medford. Mr. Harder was granted an interview with the head of the Penney company, while the San Francisco officials waited outside. While in San Francisco Mr. Harder also conferred with associates of Robert Strahorn, operators of the Opp mine at Jacksonville, and found them particularly optimistic regarding the gold price raise. One unit of the mine is now in operation near the pioneer town, and the change in the gold market will be an incentive to increased production.

Gold Coming In. Much gold is already coming into Medford, Mr. Harder stated. It arrives in very small amounts, but the aggregate really means something.

To increase the gold production here, the mining association, Mr. Shurtleff stated yesterday, will communicate with the governor's office or state subsidiaries in the near future, asking that a sum be set aside for grubstaking miners. If all miners in Jackson county were given equipment and provisions for one week in the hills, he stated, they would be able to care for themselves and families during the rest of the year on one-fifth the aid now extended by the county.

PHYSICIAN CLAIMS NEW EVIDENCE IN RE-TRIAL MOTION

Motion for a new trial in the damaging setting of an arth injury. G. T. Seemey has been filed in circuit court, the defense, plea being supported by affidavit of Mrs. Maxine Peters of Central Point, alleging "misconduct" on the part of Davies, and the discovery of alleged new evidence beneficial to the plaintiff.

Davies was awarded a $1500 verdict by a circuit court jury, for alleged defective setting of an arth injury. He sought $25000.

Mrs. Peters charges in an affidavit that on September 22 last, about nine o'clock in the evening, Davies came to her home and asked if she knew where a man by the name of Lloyd Elmer Reed, and that he had a sore wrist and arm, treated by Dr. Swendley and that Davies remarked, "I will pay him well" if he will testify against Dr. Swendley.

An affidavit is also presented setting forth that John Wolf saw Davies driving an auto, and working around his good yard during the time he claimed he was unable to use his arm. The affidavit also contends that Wolf did not know of the damage action until he glanced to read about it in the newspapers and that it is a justice which she deems "done not secure at the time of trial.

Further grounds for a new trial are cited as follows: That the damages are excessive, not in accordance with the law, and rendered by reason of prejudice or passion.

That the evidence introduced was insufficient, and contrary to the law, and error at law occurred.
