

LOYAL SOLDIERS HALT BLOODSHED IN CUBA REVOLT

150 Dead, Many Wounded in Two-Day Attempt to Overthrow Regime — Notorious Rebel Is Killed

By EDMUND A. CHESTER Associated Press Foreign Staff. HAVANA, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Havana stepped off in a resolute march back to order and calm today after two of the bloodiest days in the city's history, in which Colonel Fulgencio Batista's loyal soldiers put down a revolution that for a time shook the foundations of the present regime.

In morgues, hospitals and elsewhere lay approximately 150 dead and uncounted wounded—gruesome reminders of the strife which rebel troops and oppositionist civilian groups sought to restore former provisional President Manuel de Cespedes, to power.

Rebel Chief Killed. Among the dead was the picturesque veteran rebel of the hills, Juan Blas Hernandez, who lost his life in his first engagement within the city. And, among the wounded, was at least one woman who with several others entered the Atares castle with the rebels shortly before dawn yesterday, a few hours before Colonel Batista's loyal troops opened the devastating attack which resulted in the surrender of some 1500 rebels in what was regarded as a decisive blow at the revolutionary cause.

Today, rested by the first sound sleep in several days, Havana residents rubbed their eyes and yawned forth in an attempt to resume normal business activities. Sniping May Continue. The only remaining obstacle to complete tranquility, neutral observers believed today, would be the continued sniping by scattered bands of rebels.

Government authorities were confident, however, that they had the situation well in hand, and it appeared that no foreign intervention was contemplated. The U. S. S. Wyoming steamed toward Havana, but she was expected to remain outside the harbor on her arrival here early Saturday.

Blas, the notorious rebel who died at Atares, joined the rebellion the first day of fighting. He headed forces which captured police headquarters. Yesterday, a loyal soldier, he died while trying to persuade the defenders of the old fortress to attempt a surprise attack on the foe.

White Flags Run Up. It was not until late in the day, after six hours of artillery, machine-gun and rifle fire from land and sea that white flags were run up over the hill-top stronghold.

Guns on the Cuban war vessels, Patria and Cuba, shelled the fortress from the harbor while a heavy fire was directed from three emplacements on land.

In stern efforts to end the campaign of terror, the government invoked a "state of siege" during which no one was allowed on the streets after 6 p. m. without a pass.

Early today, Colonel Batista, who rose from sergeant to become army chief of staff, issued a statement praising the loyal soldiers and saluting their bravery in the fighting to keep President Grau San Martin in power.

Ex-Officers Blamed. Batista blamed the former army officers who barricaded themselves in the National Hotel until they were routed out in an earlier bloody day in Havana's recent history.

He said the officers, now confined on the Ile de Pines, had "tricked a few easily-led soldiers and policemen by offering them promotions and other favors."

"The Cuban soldier has proven once more how much power is worth when used with such noble principles as inspire rights for liberty and justice," he added.

President Grau told reporters there was no truth in reports that rebels were forming in the interior.

TRAPPING SEASON OPENING DEC. 1ST

Persons who plan to do some trapping this winter, are reminded that the season opens December 1, according to members of the game division, Oregon state police. No trapping license is necessary this year, they pointed out, but anyone trapping must have a hunting license. It will be necessary for the hunting license to be renewed January 1.

Although persons may trap for muskrat the year round in Klamath county, the remainder of this section is closed to such trapping until January 1, and closes on April 15.

The game division regulations show that a properly licensed hunter may trap for otter, mink, martin, fisher and raccoon from December 1 to February 28.

THE RIGHT LAXATIVE FOR CHILDREN IS A LIQUID

A laxative that works just right for you, can work havoc with a child.

The laxative habit can be contracted at the age of six. The wrong laxative can give children chronic constipation before their tenth birthday.

You wouldn't give your youngster a powerful headache powder! You shouldn't give him a violent cathartic.

Important, Mothers! Doctors urge the use of a liquid laxative for children; preferably one with senna. A liquid laxative can be regulated as to dose. The natural laxative action of senna doesn't weaken the bowels. Druggists report increased sales of

ARGUE LAW POINTS IN CLAIM AGAINST BANKS ASSOCIATES

Arguments were under way this morning in circuit court in the suit of the Columbia Paper Mill Company against the Medford Paper Growers' Association on a motion for a non-suit, filed by the defense.

The paper company seeks approximately $5000 for wrapping paper, ordered ostensibly in the name of the association, but used by L. A. Banks in his own plant.

The defense holds, in their non-suit, that no partnership existed and that the act of an official does not bind the members.

The plaintiff contends that the organization was profit sharing, that it was incorporated, and that it comes under the provisions of the statutes governing corporation liability.

The preamble of the constitution of the association was read into the records by both sides to prove their contentions. The preamble sets forth that the association is for "mutual benefit" and "collective bargaining," also for election of officers, transaction of business and payment of dues.

The court held that several fine points of law were involved, and that "unusual features" existed in the preamble.

During the process of arguments by the eight attorneys in the case on its legal phases the jury was excused by the court.

More than a score of orchardists in the valley are listed as defendants in the action.

CITIES SHOULD GET REVENUE FROM RUM MAYOR DORE SAYS. ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 10.—(AP) Liquor revenue belongs to the cities, not to the states, Mayor John F. Dore of Seattle declared here last night in address before 500 southwest Washington Elks at a homecoming banquet.

"The cities produce the revenue, do the policing and need the money," Mayor Dore said in a vigorous attack on what he termed "grasping state governments which are bankrupting cities all over the country."

He characterized the Canadian liquor system as a failure and predicted that, no matter what regulations are imposed in this state, hard liquor will be sold by the drink, not by the bottle.

"Seattle had so many bootleggers," he declared, "that they had to wear badges to keep from selling to each other. But at the very worst in Seattle, there were not as many bootleggers as in Vancouver and Victoria after the liquor stores closed."

SEEK CLEMENCY FOR MURDERER. SALEM, Ore., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Executive clemency for Theodore Jordan, negro, convicted of murder of a dining car steward at Klamath Falls, and sentenced to hang, was urged by officials and members of the International Labor Defense league today in telegrams to Governor Julius L. Meier.

The Oregon supreme court yesterday upheld the conviction and affirmed the lower court. While the opinion was pending the court was flooded with several thousand cards demanding that Jordan "must not hang." The cards were sent by members of the International Labor Defense league from Oregon, Washington and California.

Jordan will be returned to Klamath Falls for sentencing. He has been at the state penitentiary pending appeal of his case.

All druggists keep California Syrup of Figs, ready for use. It is highly recommended for regulating children, and to undo the mischief done by habit-forming laxatives.

ARMISTICE DAY Benefit Dance FAIRGROUNDS Saturday Nov. 11

MUSIC BY DINTY MOORE'S LITTLE GIANTS Men 35c — Ladies 10c

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Thoughts while strolling: Whatever became of the Seven Sutherland Sisters? How Julia Hoyt has thinned! If these taxi drivers keep it up they can have the Island.

I'm tired of climbing shade trees. Russian restaurants have gone out. The Theatre Guild has the tuckiest premieres.

Anthony Drevel and Chas. B. Dillingham bear a resemblance. Queenie Smith in a perky red coat. Kelsey Allen's beaming complacency. Boys taunting a motor-mangled dark squirrel. Horrible! The flood of glittering pretentious eating places. All packed.

Wanted—a new set of gestures for Ethel Merman. One word description of Blossom Seeley—swirly. Nobody can look so pompous in a dress suit as Charles M. Schwab. A shock to see Charlie Chaplin with almost white hair.

The Henry Miller theater is about the only one left with "personality." Carpenter, the orchid man, looks wilted. Edwin Balmer, Chicago boy, who made good in the city. Strange how most of us never think we grow old.

Yet Merrick's Conrad in Quest of his Youth felt antiquated at 37. Few pass out so gamely as Mike Donlin. He had been living in agony and on courage for 10 years.

One of my favorite people—Buff Cobb. Brody. They say Alexander Wolcott has developed into a smash on the radio. Sam H. Harris now has the two biggest theatrical hits. Some producers say critics are killing the theater. Tush! The matter with the theater is the matter with the world—greed!

Among Fannie Hurst's pets—which include two dogs, two monkeys and a rabbit—is a beautiful snow-white cat. She saw it in a window one day when feeling rather sorry for herself. An exquisite feline, it became a favorite in the household. One day in a preoccupied moment at her desk, Miss Hurst felt a ripping slash across her cheek and saw a whirl of white fur on the floor. The cat had been caught up in some seizure. Once a purr of affection, it was from that time slinking, suspicious, dangerous. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde! The veterinarian suggested ether. But Miss Hurst is slowly, by kindness, winning it back from the unreal world into which it so suddenly plunged.

Seasonal visitors to Paris will regret the passing of Lou Hauser, whose orbit for the past 25 years has been in the cafes and bars of the Place Vendome. He was an architect, member of a distinguished family when he went to Paris for the first time to visit 25 years ago. The city captivated him as it has few Americans. He became so thoroughly French he talked English with a slight accent. Most of his expatriate years he spent as a cleric for his countrymen. He knew the infamies of rue de Lappe as well as finest treasures in the Louvre and few could show them so graciously or entertainingly.

Rigid English quarantine against dogs from outside is seldom broken—for it means killing of the dog and a $100 fine if caught. But many British who acquire dogs in America and become attached to them have taken the chance. And who can blame them? It is told a famous English actress once took a small dog in her of an ingenuous duplicity. It was a thumb-sized Pom, and she sewed a pocket in her fur coat. Her fear was the animal by some noise would give her away. But as the gangplank was lowering she had an inspiration. She gave Pitt an aspirin and Pitt slept throughout custom inspection!

There are whisperings in the Tenderloin of "poison rings" worn by underworld big shots, who live hard and dangerously. They are bought, after proper recommendations, from a shady character in Baxter street—seal rings for which are charged prices ranging from $50 to $200? They cost the dealer about $6, but the seal part is hinged and covers a cavity containing the swiftest and deadliest of poisons—cyanide of potassium. A one-way ticket to eternity for desperate characters, engaged in risky enterprises, suddenly caught in a jam. Nothing new about poison rings of course. The Borgias and other magnificence of long ago had them. But they are a novelty to the tenderloin.

It is the duty of every Grange member to be present and participate in the election to elect those officers who have the interests of the Grange at heart and who will best carry out the ideals and agricultural pursuits of the order.

Ladies of the Home Economics club met Wednesday afternoon at the Grange hall and spent the afternoon quilting and making plans for the Grange dinner to be given on the night of our next Grange meeting, November 24. Friends and patrons who remember the last dinner will want to keep this date free. More elaborate plans than last year are being made to make this a very enjoyable event for those who come.

Eagle Point Grange. At the regular meeting held November 7th, the charter was draped in loving member of Sister Woodrich.

The good of the order committee gave a good report on properly selecting candidates for election to offices in the Grange.

The board of trustees has set up the stove for cold weather meetings. They also have prepared the contract for leasing the Daley hall for another year.

The ways and means committee announces a program and dance on Friday November 10, with a small admission charge. These programs have been much enjoyed and well attended in the past, so let's all be there again.

It was reported that Miss Minnie Putman won the popularity contest held at Phoenix recently.

The next regular meeting will have as its special business the election of officers for the coming year.

The worthy lecturer prepared the following pleasing program: Two assembly songs, after which Enid Ward and June Tingleaf, two little juvenile patrons, gave a dance of fancy steps.

Miss Olsen sang and Mrs. Violet Spencer also sang two short old-time songs.

The education committee gave a short reading on raising money by taxation for school purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cowden played two numbers of their always popular old-time music.

A short play, "Thought Waves," was given with Donald Ashpole, Buehlah Tingleaf and Mrs. Tingleaf as characters concluded the program.

PRINCE OF SWINDLERS CUTTING WIDE SWATH WITH RUBBER CHECKS. PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Using the alias "John Grubbs," the elusive, persuasive William Bowen, late of Oregon state hospital, is cutting a wide swath through the middle west, to the dismay of trusting strangers who have cashed his rubber checks.

Bowen, known to police in every large city in the nation as the "Prince of Swindlers," escaped from the insane asylum at Salem October 8 after he and some companions had set upon and severely beaten a guard. The others were captured but Bowen eluded pursuit.

According to word trickling back to police headquarters here from bilked victims in the mid-west, Bowen went immediately to Vancouver, Wash., and picked up a large and expensive automobile he had previously cashed there.

Then through some 13 cities in at least four states he left a trail of worthless checks estimated to amount to $1000.

And Bowen, who smiled when he told police here he becomes "crazy" only when in jails and court rooms, continues to keep ahead of the police.
