Holly Star

It's an entirely new and different Barbara Stanwyck who is now playing at the Holly in "Ever In My Heart," her latest starring vehicle.

In "Ever In My Heart," however, she is a changed woman, being a New England girl of strong character and moral fiber assailed by cruel fate. To Miss Stanwyck's credit, her talent is such that she is able to enact this role with even more force and feeling than she has portrayed the women of the underworld. The picture is said to be a romance of rare beauty as well as a drama of terrific emotions and dynamic action.

SILVER SCREEN REVIEW

By Mary Greiner Kelly.

You may not swallow the plot whole. But boy, what a swell time you'll have chewing over every delicious morsel of characterization in that utterly diverting comedy-drama, "Lady for a Day," which opened a four-day engagement at Hunt's Craterian yesterday.

May Robson is grand, of course, and wins another battle in favor of legitimate stage training. But she isn't the whole show by a jug-full (and she drinks plenty of them before the final curtain). This old cherub, Guy Kibbee is something to write fan letters about. As a pool shark with a fancy flow of English, he turns in a memorable bit of high comedy.

Warren William is at his best in the role of Dave the Dude. And how you'll go for him—especially in the rare, (although some might say, impossible) sequences when he creates a lady out of the gin-soaked Apple Annie. Ned Sparks personifies his family name, as he slings double-edged wise cracks from curtain to curtain.

For romantic appeal, there's young love, all wrapped up in beautiful photography, with pretty Jean Parker and Barry Norton making the most of their moments. But go and see it for yourself. You'll not regret it.

Well, the Mail Tribune and the Craterian theatre are arranging a twin party, and those who are fortunate enough to see it at the Craterian matinee next Saturday will never forget it. First the Godmo Siamese Twins—those two brothers whom nature joined together since birth, are to be the hosts and not less than one hundred sets of twins are expected at this novel party. Everything has been arranged for this unusual party, and all that is necessary for twins to obtain admission to the party, is for them to come to the Mail Tribune, register their name and address and receive free tickets; if the twins are too small to attend alone, an extra ticket will be given to whoever is in charge of them. Simplico and Lucio Godino, for those are the names of the Siamese Twins, are anxious to meet all twins in this section, and after the big party a to abstain from voting for Reichstag members. The Catholics urged the voters to ballot on the plebiscite on foreign policy only—a move which reduced the Reichstag vote as compared with those cast in the plebiscite, in Catholic districts.

The nazis trebled their vote in Catholic Bavaria, compared with the March 5 elections.

In celebration of the victory, the government ordered all public buildings to display the German and Nazi flags today. The populace was urged to do likewise by the ministry of propaganda.

Hitler Thanks Chancellor Hitler issued the following manifesto to the nation: "German citizens; for 15 years I have combated trustfully for your future, animated by an indestructible confidence in the intrinsic value of our nation. Today I thank the millions of German citizens from the bottom of my heart for the unprecedented demonstration of our true love of peace as well as the sentiment for our honor and our eternal equal rights. Thus strengthened, my collaborators and I are now set to proceed to the fulfillment of our duties with unbroken courage."
