

Beauties of Screen far From Ideal Standards of Stanlaws, Noted Painter

By HOMER MCCOY

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Despite all the ballyhoo, Penrhyn Stanlaws, eminent portrait painter, is convinced that there is not one perfect screen beauty among Hollywood's stars.

There would be if one of them had Lupe Velez' profile, Joan Bennett's facade and boyish figure, Stanlaws would add a touch of lipstick, rouge and mascara.

In 1922 Stanlaws lost his job as a Hollywood director because he spoke out on Hollywood's publicity.

He spoke out again today with no job to lose: "Her head, eyes and mouth were constructed for a simple nose, but nature presented her with a complicated one—interestingly modeled, but bringing the eyes too close together."

Katherine Hepburn: "Her chin and the lower part of her face project too far. Anthropologists have a name for such a face. They call it prognathism."

Constance Bennett: "A real asymphony in jazz—her nose too small for her face."

Greta Garbo: "She has a sleepy, sophisticated look, attained by deep eye sockets and a peculiar slant of the upper lip. These are not aids to beauty, but schoolgirls find the effect more alluring than beauty."

Jean Harlow: "She has a graceful and expressive figure—between that of the '90s and the boyish form. Her face is the same type as Katherine Hepburn's, but more so, caused by her nose projecting at too sharp an angle."

Lupe Velez's figure is the "true maidenly" one, he said, and her face is mobile so she "can look sophisticated or innocent at will."

Ann Harding: "Fine symmetrical features—but so nearly approaching the classic type that repose of features is essential to beauty."

Key Francis: "Nicely balanced features—head in fine proportion to the body—overized triceps of the arms."

Mary Pickford: "There is no one in the films who has her sculptural modeling and harmony of features. Mary hasn't it, however."

Marlene Dietrich: "Take Mary Pickford's head, replace it with one slightly out of drawing, give her heavy eyelids and sunken eyes and you have Dietrich—a sophisticated Mary."

Joan Crawford and Joan Blondell Stanlaws said, have Mae West's unusually prominent features, but their skull construction isn't large enough to carry them."

Holiday Fruit Cakes.

Imagine Thanksgiving, and Christmas, and New Year's, without a fruit cake somewhere in the background!

It is like forgetting the Christmas tree—hard to do. Somehow they "belong," don't they? We change their size and "trimmings," but cling to the idea as part of the joy of the season which abounds in customs and memories.

In keeping with the modern of "preparedness,"

there is now on the market a delicious fruit cake mixture, all ready to combine with moisture and then bake. No tedious cleaning and chopping of fruits in the preparation of this 1933 model! The sample furnished us is called "Dixie Mix," and is advertised as "a fruit cake mixture from an old southern recipe." The mixture comes in the tin in which it is baked and stored for ripening. All that is added is one egg and one-third cup of fruit juice, and the result is really delightful. The cost is about 35 cents per pound, in the tin.

Now for some old and tried fruit cake recipes collected from everywhere:

Dark Fruit Cake (8 Lbs.)

- 1 1/2 c butter
- 2 c sugar
- 4 c flour
- 6 eggs
- 1 c brandy or fruit juice
- 1/2 lb. chopped blanched almonds
- 1/2 lb. chopped walnut meats
- 1/2 lb. chopped dates
- 2 lbs. raisins
- 1 lb. citron
- 1 lb. figs
- 1 t soda
- 1/2 c light molasses
- 2 T black coffee
- 2 t cinnamon
- 1 t cloves

Combine flour and spices, then dredge chopped fruit lightly with portion of this mixture; cream the butter, add sugar gradually, then the beaten eggs; add small amount of flour, then fruit and nut meats, and with the molasses; add remaining flour, then fruit and nut meats, and mix well; pour into tins that have been lined with heavy brown paper, well greased; allow the paper to exposed well up the side of the pan, and, if you wish, cover the top with oiled paper until the cake is nearly finished to protect the fruit on the surface from over-cooking. Bake three hours in a slow oven (275 degrees).

Light Fruit Cake (5 Lbs.)

- 2-3 c butter
- 1 1/2 c flour
- 1/2 t soda
- 2 T lemon juice
- 6 egg whites, beaten
- 1 1/4 c powdered sugar
- 2-3 c candied cherries
- 1/2 c candied pineapple
- 1/2 c shredded citron
- 1 c white raisins
- 1-3 c blanched almonds
- 3 T flour to dredge fruit.

Soak the raisins until plump, then dry with cloth and dredge with the other fruit, using the 3 T flour reserved for that purpose. Cream butter well then gradually add the flour mixed with the soda; all sugar gradually into the beaten whites and combine the two mixtures; add lemon juice, then fruits and nuts; mix well and pour into loaf pan lined with heavy buttered paper. Bake one hour at 325 deg. (The top of this cake may be nicely decorated with colored candied fruit, such as pineapple and cherries before baking, and the top protected by waxed paper during the first part of baking.)

Prune Cake (5 Lbs.)

- 2-3 c shortening
- 2 c sugar
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 c light molasses
- 1 t soda
- 4 1/2 c flour
- 2 t baking powder
- 1/2 t salt
- 1 t cinnamon
- 1 t cloves
- 1 c cider
- 1 c raisins
- 1/2 c citron
- 1/2 c chopped walnut meats
- 1 c soft prunes
- 2 T flour.

Steamed prunes are best of this cake, the natural juice being retained in the fruit. Dredge the chopped fruits with the 2 T of flour; cream shortening and add sugar gradually; sift the flour with spices and add a portion to the creamed mixture before adding any other ingredients; dissolve the soda in the molasses and add to the first mixture at this time; then add more flour, the beaten eggs, more flour, salt and baking powder, then cider and flour alternately until all is used, adding fruit and nuts last. Pour into loaf pan lined with heavy brown paper, well greased. Bake two hours at 275 degrees.

Fruit Drop Cakes.

- 3 1/2 c flour
- 1 t cinnamon
- 1/2 t nutmeg
- 1 c raisins
- 1 c chopped dates
- 1 c candied pineapple
- 1/2 c maraschino cherries
- 2-3 c shortening

2 c brown sugar

- 3 eggs
- 1 t vanilla
- 2-3 c hot water
- 1 t soda
- 1 t salt.

Soak raisins until plump, then dry with cloth; dredge fruit with small amount of the sifted flour and spices. If vegetable fat is used, add one-half teaspoon of salt. Cream shortening with sugar; add portion of flour, then beaten eggs, fruit, hot water with soda and remaining dry ingredients last. Let stand 20 minutes, then drop into small greased muffin tins. Bake 15-20 minutes at 400 degrees.

Up-side-Down Cake.

Place 2 T butter in bottom of the pan and spread it to all corners. Sprinkle generously with brown sugar and chopped nut meats, then cover with gingerbread mixture and bake. Place each helping on a slice of pineapple and decorate the top with a teaspoon of whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

PROTECT EMPLOYEES UNDER NRA, WORD TO COMPLIANCE BOARDS

PORTLAND—(Sp.)—NRA compliance boards today were ordered to exert every precaution to protect employees who complain of violations by their employers, and to proceed to immediate action against employers who discharge employees for reporting violations to the compliance board.

"A few instances have come to the attention of the administration in which employers have tried to hinder the filing of complaints by threatening to discharge employees who make complaints, or who instruct their employees to say, when asked by customers, that their wages and hours are in conformity with the re-employment agreement, when in fact such is not the case," said General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator. "In a few cases employees who complained of violations have actually been discharged."

CANARIES CALMED BY RUBBING TAIL

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(UP)—What he termed as the proper way to treat a canary was demonstrated here by Dr. A. Geisler when he conducted a free bird clinic. He gently stroked the tail feathers of a fluttering canary and it soon was quiet in his hand. There is a central nerve control in the case of a canary's tail, Dr. Geisler explained, and striking this results in a type of mesmerism that calms the bird. He revealed that a bird may suffer from ailments similar to those of humans, including rheumatism, asthma and diphtheria. Malnutrition, he said, was the cause of most of the minor ailments in birds brought in for treatment.
